Leaders Regret Loss of Chief Spokesman

(Times News Services)

The resignation today of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles hit the western world with sorrow and shock today, although it was not unexpected.

Diplomats frankly admitted that the western alliance was losing one of its strongest—if not the strongest—figures at a critical point in East-West relations.

Many of these diplomats frequently had differed with Dulles on his approach to international events and he had not always been the most popular secretary of state. But all sympathized with him in his moment of personal tragedy.

His departure was no surprise and no doubt the Geneva foreign ministers conference on May 11 would go on as scheduled. But the West's number one ambassador had departed, weakening the free world's position.

The decision of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to step out of the active political arena and move up to the West German presidency already had struck the west a serious blow — even though Adenauer will remain in office until after this summer's East-West meetings.

Now Dulles' surrender to cancer has added to the serious shortage of leaders just when the West is gearing for a probable summit meeting with Communism's toughest negotiator — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

In a statement to the House of Commons, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said: "This is indeed sad news. President Eisenhower once referred to Mr. Dulles as a dedicated man. From my long experience of him I know how true this is."

A spokesman of the premier's office in Paris expressed regret at the news and said Dulles was greatly admired in France for his "courage, strength of character and bravery during his illness."

The West German foreign office said the resignation of Dulles was a "great loss," not only for the American people, but for the whole of the West and particularly for the German people.

First mention of the news behind the Iron Curtain was in a short bulletin carried by the official Soviet news agency Tass about 40 minutes after the announcement. It contained no comment.

"Leaving policies aside, the man's devotion to his principles was indeed admirable," a Soviet spokesman said.

Italian foreign minister Giuseppe Pella in Rome expressed "deep regret."

In Ottawa, Opposition Leader Pearson, former Liberal external affairs minister who knew Mr. Dulles well, said the free world has lost a "towering and dedicated public servant."

"If any man was ever a casualty in battling for the things he believes in, Mr. Dulles was that man," said Mr. Pearson. The secretary's work in building up collective resistance to aggression had been of "immense, at times of decisive, value."

$9.40 Hike In City's School Tax

A school levy increase of some 1½ mills—equivalent to about $9.40 for the average taxpayer—was indicated today for Victoria.

City comptroller Dennis Young made the tentative estimate after school assessments were revised by provincial orders and the education department announced it would pay $2,997,000 of Greater Victoria's school board's $6,900,000 1959 budget.

School tax increases were expected to be higher in Oak Bay and Esquimalt, and slightly lower in Saanich, as a result of the assessment redistribution orders.

BREAKDOWN

Assessment adjustments ordered by the provincial commission and a year's population expansion will slice up the school budget among area residents with last year's shares in brackets) on this basis:

Victoria 49.82 per cent (49.95); Saanich 27.88 per cent (26.97); Oak Bay 14.78 per cent (15.72); Esquimalt 5.53 per cent (5.4); and View Royal 1.99 per cent (1.96).

Although Victoria's share of the costs is lower, its actual dollar payments will be higher because the school budget soared $1,100,000 this year.

UNHAPPY

Esquimalt and Oak Bay officials were unhappy with the assessment commission's orders raising their rolls but Saanich Reeve George Chatterton said he was pleased with the reduction in that municipality's roll.

Percy Wright, assistant assessment commissioner, said Greater Victoria was "not the only centre" that received orders to increase and decrease rolls.

SOME SLOW

He said the sweeping changes were necessitated because:

"This is the first year that the school rolls have achieved equalization across the province. It has taken four years and some municipalities were not moving toward equaliza-

CAPSULE EJECTED

Nose Cone Hunted In Arctic

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon said today it believes the capsule from the Discoverer II satellite was dropped successfully in the North Polar region. There is some hope it may be recovered.

A brief announcement said that analysis of radio beacon and telemetry signals "indicates that the capsule did eject from the satellite as predicted."

The capsule was set to be ejected automatically when the Discoverer II satellite made its 17th orbit around the earth. That was about 7 p.m. Tuesday night.

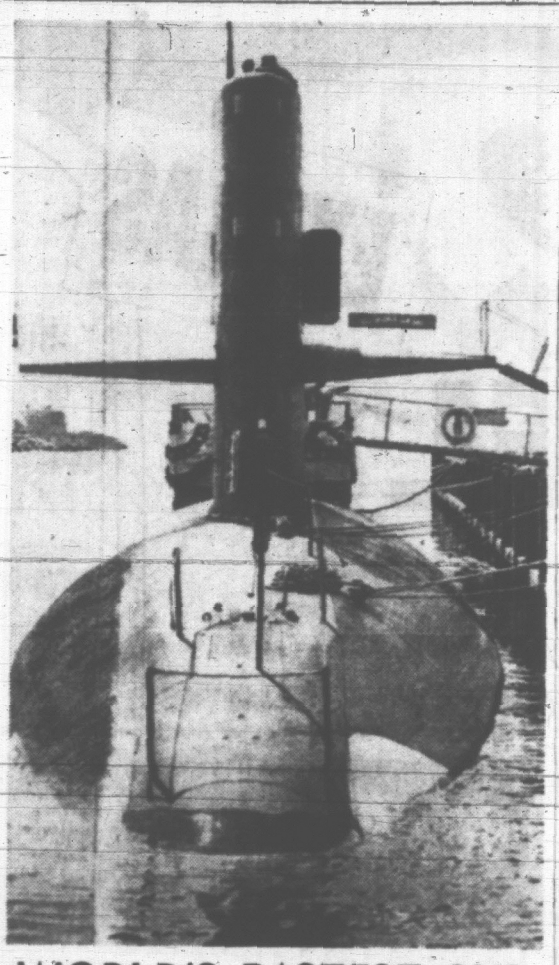

There was no direct way of telling whether this took place. But scientists today studied intricate data radioed back from the satellite. They hoped that slight changes in its weight, its centre of gravity and altitude could tell them whether the capsule was successfully fired back toward earth.

CN Chief Appeals To 3,500 Firemen

(See Page 7)

MONTREAL (CP) — CNR President Donald Gordon today appealed to the railway's 3,500 firemen across Canada to "make known to your union representatives your desire to have an agreement."

He asked firemen to urge union leaders to sign a new contract based on the recommendations of a federal conciliation board.

In a personal letter mailed today to the firemen, Mr. Gordon explained the CNR decision to go ahead May 1 and implement the conciliation proposals—including wage increases and a plan for gradual withdrawal of firemen from yard and freight diesel engines.

He said the union's rejection of the conciliation report and the company's May 1 move will leave firemen "without a collective agreement and the mutual security which it would give.

"It is, I assure you, not the wish of management to leave you in this position of uncertainty. Consequently, in your own interests, I urge you to make known to your union representatives your desire to have an agreement.

"The proposals of the company are open for acceptance," Mr. Gordon said.

Police To Ring Castro

Special Precautions For Visit to U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro will arrive tonight for an 11-day unofficial visit to North America.

U.S. state department security agents, teaming with the Washington police, have arranged to give him one of the tightest protective rings ever given a foreign visitor.

Castro, accompanied by a heavy guard of bearded revolutionary protectors, will fly in with a party of about 35 persons in a chartered Cuban government C-54 transport.

A number of threats, warning that Castro will never leave the U.S. alive, have alarmed authorities. Demonstrations and picketing are expected during his five-day stay in the capital and a similar visit to New York.

He is scheduled to visit Montreal April 26 and Toronto April 28 or 29. Canadian officials are trying to arrange a visit to Ottawa—possibly on April 28.

The National Press Club here said the 505 seats for its luncheon next Monday honoring Castro were sold out less than an hour after they became available.

Businessmen Applaud Labor Move

VANCOUVER (CP) — Business leaders today applauded a plan by British Columbia trade unions to draw up a code of ethics

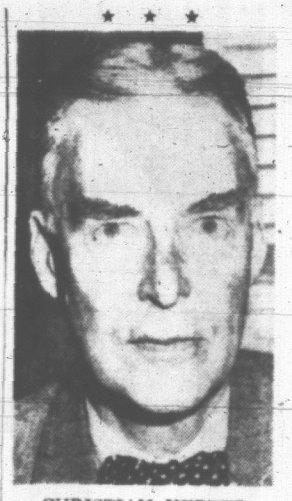

"A constructive move, a responsible action on the part of unions, and one which would undoubtedly assist in establishing a better atmosphere in management-labor relations," commented Archie Cater, president of the Board of Trade.

Plans for the code, which would be the first of its kind in Canada, were announced Tuesday by Bill Black, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor.

It would be aimed at ending inter-union raiding, racketeering, jurisdictional strikes, and at promoting public confidence in labor

Said R. V. Robinson, manager of the B.C. Manufacturers' Association: "It is a great step forward . . . the general public is too often the party to suffer from the actions of irresponsible labor leaders."

Ralph Pybus, past president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce: "The code will be helpful but I suggest we go one step further and make it a joint code for the benefit of labor, management and public interest."

CHRISTIAN HERTER
. . . new secretary?

'Unable To Carry On'

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower today announced the resignation of cancer-stricken State Secretary Dulles.

With moisture in his eyes, Eisenhower told reporters that Dulles is "incapacitated" to carry on the burden of his office and to make policy.

Eisenhower said he will announce a successor soon to Dulles, who has been secretary of state since 1953.

The president declined to say that the job will be taken by undersecretary of state Christian A. Herter, who has been serving as acting secretary.

Eisenhower said he has asked Dulles to continue to serve him as a foreign policy consultant.

A reporter told Eisenhower it has been pretty much taken for granted that Herter would move up to Dulles' cabinet post.

Asked whether he had someone other than Herter in mind, Eisenhower said there are "all kinds of considerations" to take into account.

'NUMBER OF PEOPLE'

He added there are a "number of people with particular talents" who could fill the post.

Eisenhower's statement came less than 24 hours after Dulles' doctors concluded that his cancer probably has spread to the neck area. Earlier it apparently had been confined to the abdominal area.

The president's emotion regarding the turn for the worse in Dulles' condition became more and more obvious as he talked.

Eisenhower reported that he had talked to Dulles by telephone earlier this morning and that, in view of the doctors' latest findings, the secretary had decided to resign. A formal letter will reach him later, the president said.

HEAPS PRAISE

Eisenhower said he wanted to make it clear that Dulles is not helpless but that the secretary is "absolutely incapacitated for carrying on the administration load" and the policy-making chores of the state department.

Eisenhower heaped praise on Dulles, calling him one of the most able men the country has known.

In reply to a question, Eisenhower said that whether or not the job goes to Herter, the acting secretary will be on hand for the United States at

Dulles Favors Herter for Post

(Times News Services)

WASHINGTON—Administration officials said today they expect Under-Secretary Christian A. Herter to be named secretary of state within the next few days to succeed John Foster Dulles.

It has been generally understood that the former Massachusetts governor, who has been acting secretary since mid-February, would step into the job if Dulles had to quit.

Some officials still conceded an outside chance to some other possible nominee — particularly C. Douglas Dillon, under-secretary of state for economic affairs.

The Paris-born, 64-year-old Herter is known to have been Dulles' choice as his successor.

Some of Herter's close friends were surprised that Eisenhower did not name him immediately as secretary at the same time as Dulles' resignation was announced.

Herter is afflicted with arthritis of the hips which pains him if he walks more than 10 or 20 yards or stands for any length of time. But this physical limitation has never caused him to miss a day's work.

IKE PRESSED BY DULLES ON STATEMENT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ailing Secretary of States Dulles is reported to have insisted that President Eisenhower hurry the announcement of his resignation. From his hospital bed, Dulles prevailed on Eisenhower to make the announcement today instead of next week as planned.

Dulles insisted on this, a responsible informant said today, because he did not want to make it appear he was hanging on tenaciously to his job.

Dulles has known for more than a week, informants said, that he would not be able to continue in the job he loved so dearly.

14-YEAR PROBE

Broker Arrested In Theft

TORONTO (UPI)—The first move in a seven-month investigation by the Ontario Securities Commission into alleged theft of $1,000,000 14 years ago from a Toronto brokerage house, came today with the arrest of a former employee.

E. Alfred Lloyd, 58, was remanded to April 28 on charges of theft of $74,512 in securities after he surrendered at city hall to officials of the Ontario Securities Commission on the theft charge, seven others of forgery and one of falsifying records.

He was released on $25,000 bail.

Lloyd is a former office manager for Frank S. Leslie & Company, members of the Toronto Stock Exchange and one of the city's largest brokerage firms.

The theft was uncovered after one of the most exhaustive investigations ever conducted by the audit branch of the commission, called in last September after the president, Frank Leslie, ordered a surprise audit which uncovered a rumored $1,000,000 shortage.

One investigator said the thefts had remained hidden during a dozen audits held over a period of 12 to 14 years.

SIGHTSEEING CHARLES CHEATS ON QUEUE

Coo Mum, the Prince Snuck In

LONDON (AP)—A Cockney schoolboy caught the future king of England benefitting from a royal prerogative—and the Cockney kid didn't like it.

Dressed in a pair of unpressed pants and a rumpled sweater, the 10-year-old prince wandered with an equerry into the public area of the castle and over to St. George's Chapel. There he found a long line of sightseeing mothers, fathers and their children on vacation between the spring and summer school terms.

Charles hung back, but the royal equerry marched to the head of the line and whispered to a uniformed attendant:

The attendant missed the magic name Charles — or failed to connect it with England's next monarch. He took one look at the unpressed youngster and replied:

"Then let him join the queue—a. the back."

"Quite obviously," said the equerry, "you don't realize that Charles is Prince Charles."

Charles entered the chapel just the same and inspected the six-foot eight-inch sword of King Edward III, father of that hero of all British schoolboys, the Black Prince.

"When we went out, the secret police followed us," Hildebrand said. "They did not like us talking to other people."

Reds Soften At A-Test Ban Talks

GENEVA, Switzerland (Reuters) — Russia today moved nearer to the West's stand on the operation of a nuclear test ban control system.

The Soviet delegation modified its earlier views on the vital question of the authority of foreign controllers who would operate in posts on Soviet territory. The Russians had said the duties of the foreign specialists would be strictly confined to supervising the control posts.

But conference sources said that in today's meeting the Soviet delegation agreed to the controllers having "functional duties." Sources said the Russian modification was welcomed by the United States and Britain and would be studied. Another meeting will be held Thursday.

Although Saanich residents were given a break, time did not permit individual adjustments so that all ratepayers will be given the same percentage cut regardless of circumstances.

The situation will straighten itself out next year when ratepayers get their 1960 assessment notices and have a chance to appeal to the court of revision if adjustments have not been made.

However, although equalization has been achieved according to the assessment commission, assessors will have to revise their methods for next year.

PEGGED TO '55

A provincial order-in-council has pegged the system of assessing land to the 1955 level.

Up to the present, the commission required assessors to average out the market value of land over the most recent four years and use this in arriving at an assessment.

Under the cabinet's ruling, the average market value of land during the four years preceding 1955 will become the base.

This change will halt "skyrocketing" land assessments caused by the previous tie-in with current inflated market values that rose each year and dragged assessments up with them.

GREATER VICTORIA MUNICIPALIES REACH SETTLEMENT

Wage Patterns Set for Police, Firemen

Three key conciliation awards Tuesday settled wage negotiations for all Greater Victoria police and fire departments.

One of the conciliation boards gave no increase to Esquimalt police-firemen; the other two raised wages for Victoria police and firemen and, through a chain reaction, for their Oak Bay and Saanich counterparts.

City firemen won a 3 per cent wage increase across the board, which raises monthly wages of a first class fireman to $411—$3 more than a first class police constable.

City police were granted a $10 monthy wage increase across the board, which raises a first class constable's pay to $408—$53 short of the union's demand this year.

Total wage bill to the city will be increased $25,000 by the two awards.

As a result of prior agreements between the corresponding unions and Oak Bay and Saanich municipalities, the city awards set these new scales:

Saanich police get 98 per cent of the city scale, which means a monthly wage of about $400 for first class constables; Saanich firemen this year achieve parity with the police, so a fourth-year fireman will get $400 a month.

(Last year the Saanich police scale was $380 and the firemen's scale was $362.)

Oak Bay police and firemen get $10 less than their city counterparts, which will give a first class constable $398 a month and a first class fireman $401.

Victoria police union president Lorne Shandley said the city awards presented a "most amazing situation. We have a board of conciliation sitting to do justice to two groups of employees. Sitting on the two boards is the same chairman and we find the police rates are now $3 a month behind firemen's rates.

"It has been a recommended and established fact that parity has existed between the two departments over the years.

The Esquimalt union, which previously turned down an offer of a 3 per cent increase, only to lose its bid for a 12 per cent boost, was philosophic about the award.

"We got a fair hearing," said Const. Robert Duncan, union secretary. "The awards have been brought down and we have to accept them."

PUMPED 18 BULLETS INTO GARDENER

Killer Just Wanted 'Target'

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — A beautiful blonde typist was jailed in a murder investigation today, accused of pumping 18 bullets into the body of a gardener to satisfy an urge for a human target.

Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore quoted Rosemarie Diane Bjorkland, 18, as saying:

"I had a terrible urge to kill someone ever since I started target shooting as a hobby. I wanted a human target."

August Norry, 28, a golf course gardener, was found dead Feb. 1 in the hills south of San Francisco.

It was his custom to go there to dump grass cuttings and garden debris.

His body had been riddled by 18 bullets.

Sheriff Whitmore said Miss Bjorkland related she had met Norry twice before, as she was shooting at targets, while he emptied his gardening bags.

Whitmore again quoted the girl: "I used to go up there and point my pistol at a target pretending it was a human being. Mr. Norry on that day was my target.

"Suddenly I had the overpowering urge to shoot him. I kept shooting, emptying my gun and reloading. That was the only reason. There was no other."

Russian Seaman Opens Eyes

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) —Evgenij Ivanovich Gneushcev, a young Russian seaman injured while on his ship in the Bering Sea two weeks ago, opened his eyes Tuesday for the first time since he was injured.

The 23-year-old native of Vladivostok, partially paralyzed as the result of a brain injury suffered when he fell into the hold of the Soviet refrigerator ship Pischavaya Industria, seemed only dimly aware of his surroundings.

Doctors of Elmendorf air force base hospital said Gneuschev's chances of surviving have improved slightly but that he still is in critical condition.

The Pischavaya Industria transferred Gneuschev to the United States Coast Guard cutter Storis last week. He was taken to Cold Bay, Alaska, and flown here by coast guard plane last Thursday.

Jung Sounds Warning Of Economic Struggle

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA—A joint effort by government, business and labor to educate Canadians to "the magnitude of the economic war declared against us by the Communist countries" has been suggested in the House by a government supporter.

"Whether or not we can survive will depend upon our ability to meet their competition," Douglas Jung (PC-Vancouver Centre) said Tuesday night.

He proposed establishment of a "Canada trade council" with representatives of government, business, labor and the press to provide for co-operation in the economic struggle and to give Canadians "economic education . . . education for freedom."

Mr. Jung, 35, the first MP of Chinese extraction, said the council could be expanded to include all members of the Commonwealth.

He said Communist China is underselling other countries in many of the goods in demand in the developing countries of southeast Asia: Clothing, sewing machines, cement, nails, bicycles, machinery and other goods.

The Communist countries had entered "competition in the fullest sense of the word, and there is no prize at the end but merely survival."

Mr. Jung said he would like to see rank and file union members included in the proposed trade council "because in the final analysis they are the ones who will have to produce more and make the most sacrifices."

Business groups and unions should not be concerned merely with getting more pay or in asking the workers to produce more.

DOUGLAS JUNG

Canadians Must Make Sacrifices

"It is my opinion that once the facts of this economic struggle have been brought before the Canadian people they will be willing to make the necessary sacrifices."

Mr. Jung's proposal was made as opposition members criticized — and Conservatives defended — Finance Minister Fleming's budget during the second day of the continuing eight-day budget debate.

Murdo Martin (CCF-Timmins) said labor has been blamed for inflation, but the cause was industries overcharging for their goods. Industries "will do everything except lower their prices."

Labor was just the tail on the dog and was "no more responsible for the situation than the tail is responsible for the mad dog that is loose in our society."

State Secretary Courtemanche said an economic recovery is evident everywhere, including other countries "which means a recovery of our foreign trade."

He said it would be impossible to check inflationary tendencies without increasing some taxes.

The idea of a free trade pact with the new European common market was dropped into the debate by Hubert Badanai (L-Fort William) who said it would be "worth a try."

A free trade agreement with other Commonwealth countries could be worthwhile too, he said. Canada could not expand trade while pursuing protectionist tendencies.

Finance Minister Fleming's budget was described by a Liberal as "the greatest mess in our history."

RED PILOTS JUST LOOK AT HIGH-FLYING JET

BONN, Germany (AP) — A U.S. Air Force turbo-jet transport made a high-altitude flight to Berlin today without interference from the Soviet Air Force, American officials reported.

Officials said the Russians displayed curiosity by sending up two MiG jet fighters but they did not harrass the American plane.

INCO SPENDING $20 MILLION

Manitoba to Get Nickel Refinery

WINNIPEG (CP)—Premier Duff Roblin announced today that the International Nickel Company of Canada will start immediately to build a nickel refinery worth $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 at Thompson, Man., 400 miles north of here.

Mr. Roblin said the plant will provide employment for 500 men in addition to those already expected to find jobs at the company's $175,000,000 development in the area.

The refinery will have a capacity of up to 75,000,000 pounds of nickel a year. It will employ a new process developed by company research scientists and one by-product will be impure sulphur that could be refined to be used in pulp making.

First production at the nickel development is expected in 1960 and full production is planned for 1961.

The development is in the vicinity of Moak Lake and Mystery Lake. Plans for the development were announced jointly by the company and the Manitoba government in December, 1956.

First families moved into the new town of Thompson this year. It is expected eventually to have a population of 8,000. Part of the project is the construction of a $38,000,000 power dam at Grand Rapid on the Nelson River, 50 miles northeast of Thompson.

Two-War Vet Buried At Ganges

GANGES—Funeral services were held at Our Lady of Grace Roman Catholic Church Monday for Walter Jameski, resident here for 40 years, who died at his home April 10.

Born in Poland, he emigrated to the United States and arrived in Canada's Yukon Territory in 1910. He joined the Canadian army in 1916 and in 1919 settled on Salt Spring Island. In 1923 he became a naturalized Canadian.

SECOND WAR

Mr. Jameski served six years during the Second World War and was a member of both the Canadian Legion and the Farmers' Institute.

Surviving are the widow, Anna, whom he had met in England during the First World War; four daughters, Mrs. Natalie Horel and Mrs. Helen Croucher, Ganges; Mrs. Bernice Fischer, Victoria, and Mrs. Patricia Friesen, Edmonton; eight grandchildren, and a brother in the United States.

The Northwest Territories cover 1,304,000 square miles, or one-third the total area of Canada.

TWO IN SOLITARY FOR OVER YEAR—FULTON

12 Prisoners Get Whipping

OTTAWA (CP) — Twelve prisoners in federal penitentiaries were given corporal punishment for disciplinary purposes last year, Justice Minister Fulton reported Tuesday. A total of 971 prisoners were sentenced to solitary cells as a discipline.

Mr. Fulton gave the figures in a Commons reply tabled for Harold Winch (CCF-Vancouver East), a vigorous critic of some penal practices in Canada.

None of the prisoners sent to solitary for disciplinary purposes was given a sentence there of more than three months.

But Mr. Fulton said that two men at the New Westminster, B.C., prison have been in solitary for more than a year—one because he was an ungovernable sexual pervert and the other because he had an ungovernable violent temper.

Agreement on the Columbia

AFTER MANY YEARS OF DELAY, Canada and the United States seem to be approaching a final agreement on the future use of the Columbia River.

For the first time the United States, through its members on the International Joint Commission, have accepted Canada's basic claim for a share of the river's downstream electrical benefits.

That is to say, part of the electricity developed in the United States as a result of an upstream Canadian dam will be returned to Canada.

General A. G. L. McNaughton, Canada's chief representative on the Commission, has always fought for this principle and apparently he has won, thus adding another great public service to his long and useful career.

The people of Canada and the United States have not been told yet how the downstream benefits will be divided. Perhaps the Commission itself has not reached agreement on the exact figures. But Canada will not be satisfied with anything much less than 50 per cent of the extra power developed by American turbines.

In any event, this will be, for Canada, some of the cheapest electrical power in the world. It should reach the metropolitan area around Vancouver at a cost of something like three mills, far less than the expected price of distant Peace River power.

Under the plans developed by General McNaughton and his engineers, and apparently accepted in the United States, no power would be developed immediately at the site of the upstream Canadian dam, or dams.

For some time to come they would merely conserve the Columbia's water and feed it in regular flow through the American power plants. By eliminating the present waste of water at freshet time, the huge storage basin of the Big Bend would greatly increase the annual American power output and Canada's share of this new supply would serve all British Columbia's needs for some years at a very low price.

When more power is needed in British Columbia it can be developed by turbines at the damsite. This power would be more expensive than that received from the United States since it involves the cost of generating machinery and power lines. But averaging the cost of power developed on both sides of the border, British Columbia should be assured of a comparatively low retail price.

If all this can be arranged by the present international negotiations it remains to be seen whether the Wenner-Gren project on the Peace is necessary or economic. The Canadian and United States Governments agree that it is not and they are anxious to harness the Columbia before British Columbia commits itself to what they regard as the more expensive Peace scheme.

If agreement between the two nations is achieved in detail, as it has already been achieved in principle, British Columbia's power problems will be solved for the visible future. The problems of the Pacific Northwest States, however, will not be solved for they cannot secure anything like their power requirements from the Columbia.

To them the Columbia scheme, vast as it is, can be nothing more than a stop-gap to supply their immediate needs until they develop atomic power. Up to a few days ago it seemed probable that atomic power would be more expensive than hydro power but the latest scientific breakthrough — so far only in laboratory experiments — may drastically alter those figures. Atomic power may become relatively cheap.

If so, the results could be stupendous and indeed revolutionary throughout the world as they affect the cost of producing all kinds of goods. Those possibilities will have to be considered by Canada and the United States as they plan the development of all hydro power, including that of the Columbia.

Parliament Talks About Flogging

THE CANADIAN PARLIAMENT which earlier this session discussed the death penalty in a way to avoid voting for or against its abolition, has now also debated corporal punishment in prison the same way. No vote was taken on the question because time ran out for the consideration of a private member's bill covering the issue.

Perhaps this is as far as the public should expect members at Ottawa to go at this time. The division of opinion on corporal punishment persists, although all but one of those who spoke in the recent House debate favored the elimination of flogging. The lone dissenter suggested it be retained for such crimes as rape.

Corporal punishment was under review by a parliamentary committee in Ottawa two or three years ago. The results of that inquiry were disappointing in their lack of positive and progressive action. But the investigation did, at least, reveal considered views on the question.

Further study seems necessary before Parliament reaches a decision that will become law. A vote on a private member's bill, under these circumstances, may look too much like a snap decision.

But there is virtue in such debate. It is educational, and the most recent discussion reveals a growing knowledge of the subject on the part of members.

This was not an occasion of undue sentimentality. The consideration before the House was the effectiveness of flogging. If it accomplishes no useful purpose, if it provides just another instance of brutality in the treatment of prisoners, has it any place in a penal system? Apparently most of the members who spoke on the subject thought it had not.

If this is the sentiment of Parliament — generally an accurate image of the public mind — a law will eventually be passed to eliminate corporal punishment as part of prison treatment.

As Moral as Brass Knuckles

JUDGE PHILIP GILLIAM, OF Denver, a man with extensive experience in juvenile court work, has delivered a sharp rebuke to the society of the day.

"The going slogan," he says, "is 'don't be a sucker, cheat a little and no one will care'. Such an attitude is equally popular among adults and children."

He adds that when he asks young people why they break into a school or steal a car, the conventional answer is "I don't want to be a square," and he explains that a "square" to them is a decent person who goes to church, does his home work and respects his parents.

It isn't so long ago that some children in Victoria schools were embarrassed by compliments from their teachers for excellent work. The honored student drew an adverse reaction from some of the louts in class who considered studious effort "chicken" and those who attempted it "apple-polishers."

That attitude has changed substantially in recent years as greater recognition has been given to the good student, but the condition of which Judge Gilliam complains seems to persist. As long as adults are prepared to get away with what they can, be it legal, moral or not, children—who are born copyists—will follow examples that stray far away from good citizenship.

And the Fat Get Fatter

THE HERTFORDSHIRE school health department says hundreds of British school children are too fat and refuse to diet. It attributes this condition to too much television viewing, too little exercise and an excess of fattening foods.

No doubt the Hertfordshire school authorities have grounds for blaming excess adipose tissue on television, lack of exercise and a particular type of food.

But such statements leave us wondering what made fat kids fat when there was no TV, when youngsters had to walk or run to wherever they went, and when diet was presumably much more Spartan than it is today.

ONE MORE OF THE SAME, MISS

The Spiggot Turns, Britain's Budget Runs

"A MOUSE of a Budget" was what Mr. Wilson called Mr. Amory's first one. This second one might be called a cat-and-mouse Budget.

It was at 3.20 p.m. that a glass of milk was placed near the Chancellor's left hand, and he began. "Whitewash!" someone unkindly shouted, but Mr. Amory was not put off his long stride. If he faltered near the end it was through sheer exhaustion from his own delaying tactics.

Lapping His Milk

That is the way Budget speeches go, of course, but Mr. Amory seemed to be carrying the technique to mammoth lengths. It took him nearly two hours, and many laps at the milk, to get to grips with the burning question at the back of everybody's mind—who was going to get what?

By late tea-time, and by way of obscure routes, including rural bus services and sea insurance policies, we reached with some surprise the first important destination and stopped for beer. Mr. Amory dwelt long and even affectionately on this subject. He was plainly proud of his twopence off the pint. It seemed odd for a man with a glass of milk in his hand to talk so movingly about malt and hops. "A fitting celebration," as he chastely put it, "to the achievements of an exhausting decade."

The good beer news, we gathered, was going to have a marked effect on the cost of living. Nobody was coarse enough to cheer. The ninepence off the standard income tax was also quietly received. The news about the post-war credits caused obvious pleasure, and so did the better prospects for pensioners; but Mr. Gaitskell took the earliest opportunity of deploring in strong terms the fact that the old age pensioners had been left out.

This was not, Mr. Amory insisted, a "spending spree Budget." He was congratulated by the Leader of the Opposition on his massive performance, and judging from the applause he seemed to please his own side well. His situation was not really as enviable as, with all that money to give away, it might have looked. Surrounded on all sides by former Chancellors, who had all in their day been less favorably placed, he had to justify himself in a very big way indeed.

His advance publicity, whether he liked it or not, had been enormous. For a star, and a fairly new star at that, to be hailed as a smash hit before he has opened his mouth is unnerving. He is not the sort of man to accept cynically the rather fashionable view that an Englishman's first duty is to his own pocket, nor is he a man to take kindly to the idea that a Tory Chancellor's job at this time is to provide a Tory election Budget for use by the party flag-waggers.

Cautious Man

Mr. Amory, even with an election looming, is (or so many of us were thinking) a cautious man and an honest one—about the nearest thing to a Liberal Chancellor we have got. His concern for the beer-drinkers may have shaken some of the thinkers of these kind thoughts, but after all there was an austere precedent in Sir Stafford Cripps.

It was a nervy occasion, but Mr. Amory was not unnerved. His extraordinarily long fingers furled round the edges of the dispatch-box without obvious tension, his voice—until he nearly lost it at the end—was easy and confident, and he sipped his milk with calm deliberation. Nearly everybody likes Mr. Amory, which is a rare thing to say about anybody in politics now, and a man is not liked the less for being set on putting money into people's pockets.

Even Mr. Nabarro, who has nagged the Treasury with 199 questions on purchase tax this session, lifted his silk hat in salute of the news about what he must regard as inadequate reliefs in that direction.

Springtime—Not Harvest

The Chancellor was very anxious to preserve a cautionary tone. He insisted that we must not be complacent. It would be fatal to fall into the error of thinking that easy times lie ahead, and that we can sit back and enjoy them. He called our situation one of springtime rather than harvest—a pastoral conceit which called forth only a mild jeer or two from the benches opposite, as gentle as cuckoos' cries.

Chancellors can give, but Chancellors can also take away. Mr. Butler—not a less clever man than Mr. Amory—was looking grave, remembering perhaps how four years ago he took away as much in October as he had given in April. That was springtime and harvest with a vengeance. Mr. Amory took another sip at his milk and insisted that the need to maintain the stable cost of living which had now been achieved was a dominating consideration behind his Budget.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

It's in the Book

Quite a few of us still have that election booklet put out by the Progressive Conservative Party under the signature of "John D." himself which read as follows:

"The present unjustifiable and excessive rate of taxation must end, and that taxation must be reduced.

"The views of the ivory tower boys seems to be, that if you spend your money it makes for inflation, but if the Government takes from you and spends it, no harm is done.

"We are being taxed out of the markets of the world by unnecessarily high taxation.

"Major elements increasing inflation are heavy government spending and high taxes, in both of which fields the St. Laurent Government seems to pride itself on its record of failing to reduce either or both."

The Diefenbaker Government did reduce taxes when they faced the uncertainties and doubts of the 1958 election, but these latest increases far more than wipe them out.

Surely it is one of the great weaknesses of our democratic system that the electorate is led away by men who promise to do the impossible—lower taxes and increase benefits to the people.

I aways voted at my party's call,
And never thought of thinking for myself at all!
I thought so little they rewarded me
By making me ruler of the Aged and Ill

We are told almost daily that in British Columbia we now have practically free hospitalization ($1.00 per day) because we all contribute through our hospital tax.

It is true we all contribute and I guess it is true that when we get into the hospitals the $1 a day scheme is a great benefit. However, there is one class of our citizens who get little benefit from this scheme unless they can qualify as critically ill or gain entrance on an emergency basis. These are our old people who frequently need hospital care, though their condition may not be "emergency".

In many instances their families are gone. They live alone. They have small incomes, not sufficient to support them in expensive nursing homes, but sufficient to live in moderate comfort.

An illness such as the flu, for which they are denied admittance to our overcrowded hospitals, can take all their small resources for nursing and medicines. In the hospital this would be provided at a cost they could afford.

These elderly, helpless men and women who were the pioneers of our country, cannot go on strike for their just needs. They can only suffer illness alone, often unattended in their apartments or lonely housekeeping rooms.

We hear our politicians constantly bragging about the magnificent resources of our great province and how progressive we are. How about using some of this great wealth to provide care for those who did much to create it?

At least they should have their drugs paid for, or get the care at $1 per day, the same as if they were able to get into the hospital, or perhaps homes with one or two registered nurses, in times of illness. Then they could have attention and return to their homes later, as so many of our senior citizens prefer their own little rooms and are happier there than in a nursing home.

I would like to hear what others think about the neglect of our senior citizens and see if something cannot be done to help them. They don't want charity, just a chance to live and get what they are paying for with the 5 per cent tax that they have to pay regardless.

MYSTERY IN THE WOODS

Moth in Mourning

By JOSEPH ALSOP

EVERY so often, it is pleasant to escape from the squalid puzzles of political life into the larger mysteries of life itself. The excuse is offered, since it is the only possible excuse for writing about Biston Betularia.

Alsop

Biston Betularia is a speckled, light-colored, woods-dwelling moth which inhabits the British Isles. By night, Biston Betularia takes wing to feed and to make love. By day, Biston Betularia rests on the lichen-covered trunks of its sheltering trees. And there, since Biston Betularia is colored to resemble a patch of lichen, the little moth is almost invisible to the insect-eating birds which are its natural enemies.

The mystery of Biston Betularia, which has its grain of meaning for every dweller in the modern industrial world, is fairly simple as mysteries go. In brief, in all the industrial areas of England, Betularia has now changed into Carbonaria. In these areas, in other words, Biston's speckled, light coloration has been abandoned in favor of a novel, coal-black dress.

Scientific Inquiry

This localized blackening of Biston was bound to cause raised eyebrows in a nation of bird-watchers and moth-watchers. In fact, it provoked an inquiry on a most formidable scale, which has been described by the British biologist, H. B. D. Kettlewell, in the always admirable Scientific American.

In industrial areas and in non-industrial areas, the woods were full of eager Britons, all Biston-watching with the utmost fervor. At one moment, 20,000 separate moth-observations were made by no less than 170 voluntary observers. Knotty points were at issue, too. The watchers maintained that birds snatched Bistons during their daytime rest on the tree trunks, whereas the bird-watchers held that birds only took moths on the wing. In the end, the moth-watchers confounded the bird-watchers by taking motion pictures that proved their case.

Once the case was proved, the mystery was unravelled. Its root-cause was the other kind of fall-out that began in earnest with the beginning of the industrial revolution, long before mankind found the secret of the atomic nucleus. Since the industrial revolution began, as Kettlewell notes, "large areas of the earth's surface have been contaminated by an insidious and largely unrecognized fall-out of smoke particles." The enormous fall-out of smoke particles, washing down the tree trunks, both tends to kill the tree-growing lichens and blackens the trunks themselves.

In this manner, over huge areas of England, the conditions of moth-life were radically altered. In the few remaining untouched haunts of coot and hern, tree trunks are unblackened, lichens still flourish, and speckled, lichen-imitating Bistons are still invisible to the preying birds. There they still survive.

Natural Selection

But in all the woods subject to smoke fall-out, light-colored Bistons were condemned to early death. There only dark-colored, or black Bistons, the formerly very rare "melanistic mutants" in the technical phrase, had a good chance to survive and breed. Thus a new process of natural selection began in Charles Darwin's own time, and under his very nose if he had only known it. It caused Biston Betularia to be transformed into Biston Carbonaria in all of England's smoke-dark woods.

The question remained, why Biston was still so fortunately producing an occasional dark-colored or black form when the industrial revolution finally started. Kettlewell got the answer in Scotland's Black Wood of Rannoch, one of the few patches of the dark-primeval forest that covered much of prehistoric Britain. Here too, black moths were fairly common. The rare gems of black coloration that let the race of Bistons adapt itself to the new environment created by industrial man, were in fact survivors from the time before man began to fell the trees.

Life Will Go On

There is something wonderfully satisfying about the story of this little moth's brisk color-adaptation to the industrial age. It seems to say that life will still go on, somehow or other, no matter how the follies and the triumphs of mankind alter the face of our planet.

But there is something disquieting, too, in the vision of these imperceptibly darkening woods, and the ensuing darkening of the creatures of the woods. Promethean man is reckless in his works, and does not stop to count their cost. The tools he now possesses are immeasurably more terrible than the tools that made the English black country. Will it be a little moth next time, or will it be some other species, that must radically adapt itself to the deep, but late-perceived life-changes that the new tools of man will no doubt cause?

PRACTICAL LESSON

I would love to be able to say that life's big lesson had had a mystical, or ethical, or philosophical value. But the humble truth is that food is the only subject-matter of the most unforgettable lesson I've learned from life.

UNEASY SANCTITY

In my own art, in this particular time, there is an extraordinary tendency on the part of artists nervously to avoid saying anything about anything if possible. I think the reason for this is that the artist has got himself into a situation —or been put into one—where he is regarded as a kind of sacred idiot. A kind of natural, in a sense that certain eastern cultures regard the mentally unbalanced as sacred. I think this is a very uncomfortable situation for the artist to be in.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

The Yellow Peril

LONDON—Short takes. . . . It seems in this town that whenever a borough tries to modernize the street-lighting there's an immediate outcry by the locals. Along with other residential districts, we've had a fight (unsuccessful) to prevent the installing of what has become known as "the yellow peril."

Reyburn

Latest scene of a battle against new street-lights—Trafalgar Square. Gradually the ornate iron lamp-work standards (60 years old) have been coming down, to be replaced by streamlined, more efficient units.

But despite loud complaints of "quite out of character for Trafalgar Square" by all who spend most of their lives on the Square (from postcard sellers to the clergy of St. Martin-in-the-Fields), the old ones are all down now and they've got these new ones whether they like them or not.

Simple explanation of England's ever-increasing traffic congestion: at present 1,700 new vehicles are being put on the roads every day! Bumper to bumper this means 1,000 miles of new vehicles per year.

Appropriate safety slogan adopted by one of the London boroughs: "Remember that today's motorists are driving tomorrow's cars on yesterday's roads."

Second thoughts on the nudist films. . . . Recently the British film censor decided to allow nudity on the screen and this has caused a spate of movies about nudist camps, but I said this wasn't likely to get out of hand because the public was deciding for themselves that such films were a bit of a bore.

However, there's a new twist. The Boulting Brothers, makers of numerous worthwhile comedies, have decided to cash in on this new broadmindedness of the censor. They've written two nudist sequences into their new comedy, I'm All Right Jack, starring Ian Carmichael, Terry-Thomas and Peter Sellers.

With established film actors gallivanting on the screen with naked girls, the British cen[illegible] likely to realize things have indeed go[illegible] of hand.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Boys Need Firmness

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Every so often a mother brings me a teen-age boy who is becoming delinquent; already perhaps he has been arrested a couple of times for stealing or vandalism or truancy, and usually it is obvious that his mother, or perhaps even his father, hasn't the strength or the will to stand up to him, to keep his respect, and to exert some control over him. Often I find, on talking to the parents, that years ago they swallowed whole some crack-pot psychiatric idea that they must never correct or admonish or punish the child for fear of injuring his ego or causing him later to become psychotic.

Alvarez

Now, the psychiatrist, instead of admitting that his stupid advice helped to produce a bit of human wreckage, has the nerve to accuse the parents of having, at some time, tried to put some sense of decency into the child; according to him this is why the child has become delinquent! In some cases I strongly suspect that one reason why the lad is showing several antisocial and criminal tendencies is because, back of his father or his mother, there are several insane or alcoholic or epileptic forebears. In two out of three of these delinquents boys electroencephalograms show that the lad has a definitely abnormal brain, usually because of a poor inheritance.

When these boys are brought to me, the main question usually is, has the lad a small dose of the psychosis or epilepsy of an ancestor, or has he just been brought up without any training in self-control, self-discipline or human decency? Often I see, at a glance, that his parents are not able or willing to cope with the problem. The lad has no respect for them, and hence he only sneers at their requests or admonitions. He knows that they will always give in to him. They may threaten dire punishment but they will never carry it out. So why should he pay any attention to them? If he robs a store or steals a car, his father will pay the injured man not to prosecute.

All parents with such a problem ought to read and re-read many times an article by Mr. Cal Farley in Today's Health, published by the American Medical Association (January, 1958). Mr. Farley has for years been running a "Boys' Ranch" and school near Amarillo, Texas. Most of the boys in the school have had some conflict with the law, but the ranch is definitely not a reform school with a high wall around it. The boys stay because they love to live on a ranch.

Most of them remain for from four to six years. At the end of that time they are equipped to earn a living in one of several trades. Also, they have learned discipline, and have been taught to adjust well to life. The ranch now accomodates 220 youngsters, [illegible] Farley is building facilities to take care of 500. The boys live in dormitories, each run by a fine man and his wife who serve as foster parents. In 20 years, more than 1,500 boys have been trained at the ranch. Only 37 were failures. I imagine their brains were so poorly made that there was nothing in the lad on which the teachers could build.

Mr. Farley does not like the idea of physical punishment, but, as he says to weak parents, "You can either paddle a kid once in a while or you can visit him once a month in a reformatory. That's the way it works out." In the school, the boys are punished by being denied certain privileges they like to have.

Mr. Farley says so truly that "20 years of working with youngsters has taught us that there is nothing happier than a well-disciplined boy." He loves to work with his teachers, and to have responsibilities. On the ranch, each boy has his chores to do, but he gets paid for them, and this gives him his spending money. For some time after arrival, a "bad boy" will keep trying "to push around" and "bamboozle" Mr. Farley and the teachers, but when he finds that this can't be done and, besides, "isn't cricket," he quits, and settles down to behave himself.

Mr. Farley says he has worried about taking boys away from their families, but Edgar Hoover, of the FBI, assures him that this must be done. As Mr. Hoover says, "if you don't take him now and straighten him out, in 10 years or so, my men will be hunting him down." As the Jugoslav proverb has it, "Better that a little bottom be occasionally spanked than that later a big back be flogged in prison." One of the biggest lessons each boy on the ranch has to learn is that when a teacher says, "No," he means no, and will not be wheedled into saying yes. Also, when the teacher says, "Yes," he means that, and will keep his promise.

Oh, that more parents could learn this!

SYNOPSIS—There has been considerable clearing in the wake of a disturbance that moved southeastward across B.C. yesterday but cloud patches still persisted this morning in many districts.

The outlook is for generally fine weather for the next two days as a high pressure ridge offshore moves into the western section of the province. However, scattered showers are forecast for the southern interior today and it is expected that a weak disturbance moving southward from Alaska will bring some rain to the north coast Thursday.

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Leave First Year Fruits Alone

Some gardening practices are frowned upon by beginners as being stupid and unnecessary. One in particular which wins my sympathy is that of removing the first year's fruits from long-living fruit-bearing plants.

Jack

For instance, we are told to remove the first season's flowers from young strawberry plants, in order to grow a fine plant the first year. A bumper crop will result the following year if this and other good cultural procedure is carried out.

With dwarf apple and pear trees, we are advised to remove the tiny fruit as it forms the first year the tree is in our garden. It requires almost superhuman willpower to do it. We all anticipate that first fruit with extraordinary pleasure, so that it takes a brave man, and a braver woman, to remove all the first fruits.

Rhubarb plants are treated somewhat differently, though the same iron will is needed. In this instance, all the stalks are left on the young plant the first year. None should be pulled.

The following year will see plenty of good stalks for using, but never completely strip a plant.

Berry fruits, or cane fruits (raspberry, logan, boysen), are different again. Newly-planted canes are cut to 12 inches the first spring.

The canes which grow the first year will not flower, so that the problem of removing the first fruits does not arise. The following year an abundance of fruit will be the result of well-attended plants.

With experience, we soon find these seemingly unnecessary practices are but sound common sense, and ultimately contribute to healthier plants and better crops.

Subsidy for Railways Opposed by Truckers

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition to the federal government's proposed one-year subsidy of $20,000,000 to reduce rail freight rates was expressed Tuesday by the national organization of Canada's for-hire truckers.

Canadian Trucking Associations Inc., representing about 7,000 local and over-the-road firms, voiced its objections before the Commons railways committee.

The committee was considering the subsidy measure, which directs the board of transport commissioners to have the railways reduce last fall's 17-per-cent rate boost by the amount of the subsidy, bringing it to an estimated 10 per cent.

Calgary City 'Sloppy' In Handling Contracts

CALGARY (CP)—Judge L. S. Turcotte, heading an inquiry into Calgary's civic administration, said Tuesday the city of Calgary appeared to be "sloppy" in its handling of important contracts for public works.

The judge referred to a series of errors in one official contract which eventually led to confusion as to whether it was for one or three years. He added that there was a discrepancy of 12½ per cent between a written contract and official drawings.

The inquiry, now in its fourth week, was making a study of sidewalk, curb and gutter work contracts let by the city. Much of the evidence concerned the reasons why a contract was awarded in 1956 to the second-lowest bidder.

A low bid was submitted by the Fort Construction Company of Edmonton, but the job was given to Burns and Dutton Concrete and Construction of Calgary on a one-year basis on the recommendation of the city commissioners.

AMBIGUOUS

W. A. McGillivray, counsel for the city, introduced a report from the commissioners that the contract had been drawn up in such a way that it was ambiguous as to whether it was for one or three years. Burns and Dutton informed the city that they had been led to believe it was for three years.

Among the items brought out during testimony were that a document containing comparative estimates from the two companies was placed in the wrong city file; a typing error in the quotation of the Fort bid made a difference of $20 000; and there were three typographical errors in the contract between Burns and Dutton and the city.

The inquiry, expected to last another 10 days, continues today with a look at sales of city-owned land for a shopping centre site in South Calgary.

West Germans Given British Destroyer

PEMBROKE, Wales (Reuters)—The 1,035-ton British destroyer Eggesford was handed over Tuesday to the West German navy under an Atlantic Pact agreement. Fifteen years ago, the destroyer saved the lives of 10 German sailors after their motor torpedo boat was sunk by RAF bombers.

IS "IRON-HUNGRY BLOOD" MAKING YOU SO TIRED YOU'RE ASHAMED?

Feel Better Fast When You Suffer That Run-down, Weary Feeling! Take This Blood-improving Iron Tonic Made Especially For Women!

How unfortunate when a woman is so tired, run-down, she feels guilty that she can't face the day's problems. Luckily, it's often due to "Iron-Hungry Blood" ("simple iron deficiency anemia"). Then it's needless for these women to suffer such awful weariness without help.

A special iron tonic can help relieve this condition . . . thus renew your vitality! It's Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets, an iron tonic made especially for women.

With blood-improving iron, Pinkham's Tablets start to strengthen "Iron-Hungry Blood" fast. Thus quickly help build rich, red blood . . . so you feel fine again!

Often in women, "Iron-Hungry Blood" is also aggravated by change-of-life . . . in younger women, by monthly pain. Pinkham's unique formula can bring blessed relief, too, for this functionally-caused female suffering that can drain away strength.

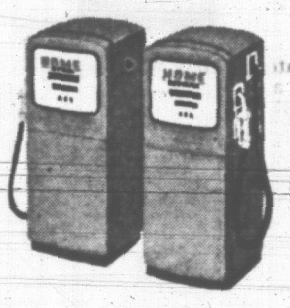

If "Iron-Hungry Blood" has left you weak and run-down, get Pinkham's Tablets at druggists. Then see if you don't soon feel more like yourself again!

FOR FEMALE AILMENTS! Tests prove Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound (liquid) also brings quick relief from discomforts of monthly pain and change-of-life.

Session Ends in Sask.; Labor Liveliest Topic

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan Legislature, elected by a predominantly farming population, had its liveliest debates this year while discussing labor.

The legislature prorogued Tuesday.

A. P. Weber, Social Credit House leader, introduced labor in the sessions' first week by backing Premier Joseph Smallwood in Newfoundland's loggers' dispute. Mr. Weber called for legislation to keep unions not affiliated with a Canadian-dominated union out of Saskatchewan.

Referring particularly to the South Saskatchewan Dam project, Mr. Weber said the International Teamsters' Union was hovering like a vulture waiting to pounce on its prey. Work on the dam is expected to be in full swing this summer.

The CCF government's reply came from W. G. Davies, member for Moose Jaw, who said any foreign domination in the Newfoundland dispute is on the side of the companies, not labor. He described Mr. Weber's remarks as an unwarranted reflection on the trade union movement.

While deploring corruption found in union administration in North America, Mr. Davies said Canada has had numerous examples of corruption in government, but this has not led to condemnation of government as an institution.

Asmundur Loptson (L, Saltcoats) accused United States labor leaders of fomenting strikes in Canadian industries so that they cannot compete with American industries. He added that "every union leader in Eastern Canada is coaching his members to vote CCF."

ANTI-UNION WAVE

Late in the session, Premier T. C. Douglas said a wave of anti-labor feeling seems to be sweeping across North America. It began with right-to-work legislation in the U.S. and continued with the Senate investigations.

In Canada, the trend had begun in Newfoundland in the loggers' dispute and was continuing in British Columbia where legislation had been brought in to stop picketing in some cases and to make unions a legal entity.

The premier defended unions and said more time has been lost by unemployment in previous years than through strikes.

Agriculture was not neglected during the session.

Liberals blamed both the Saskatchewan and federal governments for the depressed state of agriculture and came out in support of the farmer's march to Ottawa asking deficiency payments on grains.

Liberal Leader A. H. McDonald said average net income for Saskatchewan farmers dropped to $1,810 in 1957, compared with a nine-year average previously of $3,960.

Standing when the legislature prorogued was CCF 35, Liberals 14, Social Credit 3.

Memorial to Taft Dedicated by Ike

Actress Pier Angeli and Son

DIVORCED DAMONES SQUABBLE

Child in Middle As Stars Battle

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"All I want is to see my son—I don't want to be a bad guy," said Vic Damone.

And from Denmark came the angry voice of the singer's divorced wife, Pier Angeli:

"Nobody can ever take my son from me."

The trip was in violation of a court order obtained by Damone restraining Miss Angeli from taking the child out of California. She told a reporter in Copenhagen her ex-husband had given her oral permission to take Perry with her.

Damone had a different version of the dispute. He blamed his former mother-in-law, Mrs. Enrica Pierangeli, for much of the trouble.

The couple was married in November, 1954, and divorced last December. Miss Angeli got custody of the child and Damone was given visiting privileges.

Victoria Anglers Paddle, Hike After Breakdown

GANGES — A fishing trip off Beaver Point on Salt Spring Island came to an abrupt end this weekend when a broken crankshaft stranded an 18-foot launch operated by William Hamilton and Richard Mathew of Victoria, and Fred Egeland of Sidney.

The men paddled into nearby King's Cove to the south and left the boat there, then hiked in to Fulford Harbor but missed the last ferry.

They spent the night at the home of Mr. Hamilton's relatives of "Dromore," Fulford, and returned home next day. Mr. Egeland's father, in his fishboat Grassholme, towed the boat to Sidney for repairs.

B.C. Labor Unions Plan Code of Ethics

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia labor leaders are planning a code of ethics for provincial unions, Bill Black, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor, said Tuesday.

It would be the first of its kind in Canada and would stop jurisdictional strikes, eliminate any racketeering that might arise and end inter-union raiding.

The proposal comes in the wake of legislation in B.C. which makes unions legally responsible and restricts sympathy picketing and publication of non-patronage lists.

"As far as I know," said Mr. Black, "there is no union racketeering in B.C. But if any appears, a code of ethics would help to put an end to it. We would much rather nip that sort of thing in the bud ourselves than have government committees interfering with us."

He said that of immediate concern are inter-union disputes which sometimes lead to strikes and raiding.

"No organization is perfect," he said, "and we want to establish our own rulebook to take care of these difficulties."

The code will be submitted to the 115,000-strong B.C. Federation's convention next fall.

The AFL-CIO has a code in the United States which has led to expulsion of the Teamsters and other unions on racketeering and raiding charges, but neither the Canadian Labor Congress nor any provincial federation of labor in Canada has such a code so far.

The B.C. federation has named a committee of top officers to draft the code. The committee includes vice-presidents Joe Morris, Robert Smeal and Charles Stewart, secretary Pat O'Neal and Mr. Black.

It is understood the idea for the code came from Mr. Morris, who also is a vice-president of the CLC and district president of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC).

CN Firemen Get Boost But New Hirings Out

MONTREAL (CP) — The publicly-owned CNR Tuesday served notice on the locomotive firemen's union that starting May 1 it will pay higher wages but will no longer hire new firemen for yard and freight diesels.

Thus, the CNR took the step on the controversial diesel dispute made a year ago by the privately-owned CPR a step that led to a three-day strike of firemen last May against the CPR.

Decision to implement the terms of a federal conciliation board report was conveyed Tuesday to union leaders by CNR President Donald Gordon.

He told them during a two-hour conference that they would receive a letter today outlining the new conditions of service effective at midnight next May 1.

Union chief W. E. Gamble said the railway move would be discussed with his three general chairmen, representing the Atlantic, central and western regions, after Mr. Gordon's letter is delivered.

But he also revealed that the western region members had not given approval to strike action if called. The other two regions had authorized a strike if necessary, but western firemen were still being polled.

. . . DULLES

both an April 29 meeting of Western foreign ministers in Paris, and a May 11 conference of those ministers with the Soviet Union's foreign minister. The East-West conference will be held at Geneva and may be a prelude to a summit meeting.

A reporter asked Eisenhower to evaluate the impact of Dulles' resignation on U.S. foreign policy.

The president replied that Dulles has developed a team at the state department and that his work will go on. He expressed confidence that there will "be no damage" to U.S. relations with other countries.

CUT VACATION

Dulles had clung for weeks to the hope that he could make it to the Geneva meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers. Dulles re-entered Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington last Sunday, cutting short a Florida rest he had hoped would help rebuild his failing strength.

He had gone to the hospital Feb. 10 for a hernia operation. The recurrence of cancer, with which he was first stricken in 1956, was then discovered. But whereas the doctors had taken out a piece of his large intestine in 1956, there was no effort this time to cure by surgery.

Radiation treatments were tried and Dulles was reported to have stood these well. But then Tuesday came the report indicating the cancer may have spread.

Dulles had many critics in the political and diplomatic fields. Some accused him of an arrogant carelessness and said he had casually brought the United States to the brink of war time after time. "Brinkmanship" became a word of scorn.

His supporters have been as strong in the other direction. Eisenhower, for an important example, once called him "one of the wisest, most courageous and most dedicated men" ever to serve as head of the state department. Other admirers agreed he had preserved peace.

Dulles was only 29 when President Woodrow Wilson assigned him his first diplomatic mission. That was in 1917, after the U.S. had broken relations with Germany, when he negotiated with Central American countries for the safety of the Panama Canal. He later served as counsel to the American delegation at the Versailles Peace Treaty negotiations.

SERVED DEWEY

Dulles became a figure on the world stage toward the end of the Second World War when he served as foreign affairs adviser to the Republican presidential candidate, Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

He helped work out plans for NATO and served with state secretary James F. Byrnes in drafting Second World War peace treaties with countries of Eastern Europe and with state secretary George C. Marshall in the early, unsuccessful negotiations for a German peace settlement.

In 1949, he was for a few months a U.S. senator from New York, appointed by Dewey.

Dulles himself says one of his outstanding accomplishments was the negotiation in 1950-51 of a treaty of peace with Japan.

When Dulles became secretary of state on Jan. 21, 1953, he was following in the footsteps of his materna grandfather, John Watson Foster, who also held the cabinet post.

CITY WOMAN GOT WORD FROM ACCUSED PRIVATE DETECTIVE

'Divorce Quite Simple to Obtain'

Mrs. Margaret Anne Shaw, former wife of Ralph Schmidt, Tuesday denied in Assize Court that she was in any way involved in a divorce action in connection with a divorce granted Leonard D. MacDonald and his wife Ann Louise.

The Crown is claiming the same alleged act of adultery was used as evidence in two hearings when divorces were granted Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt and Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald.

Mrs. Shaw said she had called on Robert James Adrian, former private investigator charged with giving false evidence, "and left with the impression it (a divorce) was quite simple to obtain."

Mrs. Shaw said the private detective telephoned her later and said arrangements could be made and that they involved "another divorce."

Mr. Adrian is accused specifically of fabricating evidence for divorce proceedings between Mrs. Schmidt and Mr. MacDonald in the Dominion Hotel Aug. 22, and giving subsequent false testimony.

Mrs. Shaw, the former Mrs. Schmidt, denied under cross-examination by the defence that she was with MacDonald the night in question, and that there had been any involvement whatsoever between Mr. MacDonald and herself.

She denied having stayed in the hotel, or remembering being served later with papers in connection with the MacDonald divorce.

Mr. Justice Thomas Brown asked Mrs. Shaw "why go to an investigator rather than to a lawyer?" for a divorce.

"Because I knew I had to have adultery to go to a lawyer," she replied.

Mr. Justice Brown then asked: "Were you going to have adultery arranged?"

"No."

The judge then asked why she had gone to an investigator.

She replied: "I heard it was commonly done."

Mrs. Anne Louise Harling, the former Mrs. MacDonald and petitioner in the divorce action — both actions were heard last Nov. 13 — said there had been some complications regarding payment to Mr. Adrian for his services.

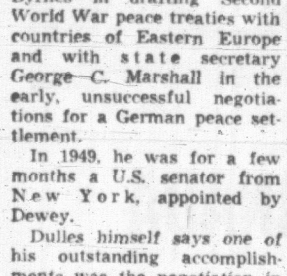

Her husband had paid $225 for Mr. Adrian's services, a portion of which was a finance company loan for which she had been the co-signer.

The trial was continuing today.

New Racial Strife Feared in Africa

Nyasaland, Rhodesia Situation 'Serious' As Natives Celebrate 'Freedom Day'

CONAKRY, Guinea (Reuters)—The steering committee of the All-African People's Conference—set up at the Accra conference in December—called an emergency meeting today because of the "seriousness of the situation" in the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

It is expected to launch a "freedom fund" to help arrested leaders of the outlawed African National Congress and to compensate victims of the disturbances which broke out in Nyasaland in February.

Placards reading "Africa for the Africans" and "Hands Off Africa" went up Tuesday in Conakry where at least nine members of the 17-member committee are expected to convene today.

Another fund, to promote on a worldwide scale the nationalistic objectives of the December conference in Ghana's capital, is to be launched as part of today's observances.

WANTED UNITED AFRICA

At Accra, representatives of 200,000,000 Africans from 28 countries set up a permanent secretariat to work for a United States of Africa, free of imperialism and colonialism.

The meeting here today coincided with celebrations of African Freedom Day throughout Africa and in other parts of the world.

In South Africa, Johannesburg natives were in the middle of eight days' rededication to the anti-colonialist principles of the Accra conference.

A multi-racial demonstration was to be held today on the steps of the city hall. Police in Johannesburg, Capetown and other large cities said no trouble was expected but precautions would be taken.

SEEK SELF-GOVERNMENT

Freedom Day demonstrations planned in Liberia will call for white colonists to allow Africans to govern themselves in their own continent.

But in the British protectorate of Basutoland it was reported that African leaders have called for a boycott of celebrations because they have been shocked by the alleged massacre plot in Nyasaland.

The Rand Daily Mail reported that envoys of Basutoland's African political leaders had been sent to all corners of the territory to tell village headmen to cancel planned bonfires and tribal dances.

Basuto politicians feel that a demonstration of allegiance for ideals of a "free Africa" propounded by Ghana Premier Kwame Nkrumah could ruin their chances of being granted independnc by Britain.

ALDERMAN DEFENDS CITY CLERK

VANCOUVER (CP)—A city clerk has been suspended for three days for criticizing an alderman. The alderman concerned has promised to protest the suspension.

Peter Batty-Smith, a clerk in the assessment department, wrote a critical letter to the Vancouver Sun, which published it last Thursday.

He said Alderman Evelyn Caldwell, who has a daily column in the Sun, showed "inexcusable ignorance" in a recent column on civic assessments.

The suspension was ordered by Don McQueen, assessment commissioner.

Ald. Caldwell said Tuesday she will protest the suspension because "every human being should enjoy the privilege of freedom to express his opinions, written or spoken".

June, December Sewer Votes Set for Two Areas in Saanich

Saanich decided Tuesday to submit to ratepayers in June and December two sewer projects worth a total $1,096,000.

Public works committee approved the re-submission on June 20 of a revamped bylaw to ratepayers in the Cadboro Bay-Shelbourne areas.

Cost of this project has been tentatively set at $1,000,000.

A second bylaw will be submitted to ratepayers in the Tillicum-Whiteside area on Dec. 12. This project will cost $96,000.

DIFFERENT PLAN

The first bylaw widely differs in scope and plan than the original one defeated by Cadboro Bay-Shelbourne ratepayers by a narrow margin last December.

It calls for the installation only of main trunk lines, a treatment plant and sewer outfall. It does not include lateral sewer pipes to individual homes.

Cost will be about $21 per lot per year over a period of 20 years.

Residents in an area who want to connect to the main sewer system can apply for a separate bylaw at a later date.

WATERSHED

The boundaries to the sewer area have been enlarged to take in the whole of the Mount Douglas watershed—an area of about five square miles.

Reeve George Chatterton said the sewer tax would be based on assessment of land.

The reeve warned that if ratepayers turned down the scheme, the installation of a sewer system in later years would be much more costly.

"It will mean a saving of thousands of dollars to ratepayers if the main trunk lines are laid down before roads are paved and the area completely built up," he said.

"In addition, any proposed new subdivision could connect immediately to the main sewer system instead of installing septic tanks," he said. "This would save the subdivider some money."

The reeve disclosed that the school board proposed to build a school in the area if the bylaw was approved.

The second bylaw will involve about 150 residents in an area bounded by Tillicum, E & N Railway, Interurban Road and Whiteside.

Cost to householders will be about $67 a year over a period of 20 years.

New Power Board Plans B.C. Tour

Chairman is Dr. Hugh L. Keenleyside and commissioners, Frederick A. Smith, Arthur Lee, Forests Minister Ray Williston and Mines Minister W. K. Kiernan.

Dr. Keenleyside, who arrived Monday, leaves again next Monday for the east and will visit Victoria only two or three times briefly, before taking up his duties here full time.

ORGANIZATIONAL

First meeting of the new commission Tuesday was mainly organizational and the current construction program was reviewed.

Some major matters, including possible appointment of a general manager, were deferred. Chief engineer R. C. McMordie has been serving as acting general manager since H. Lee Briggs was fired.

Dr. Keenleyside told reporters he could not yet express himself on the question of future public power developments in B.C.

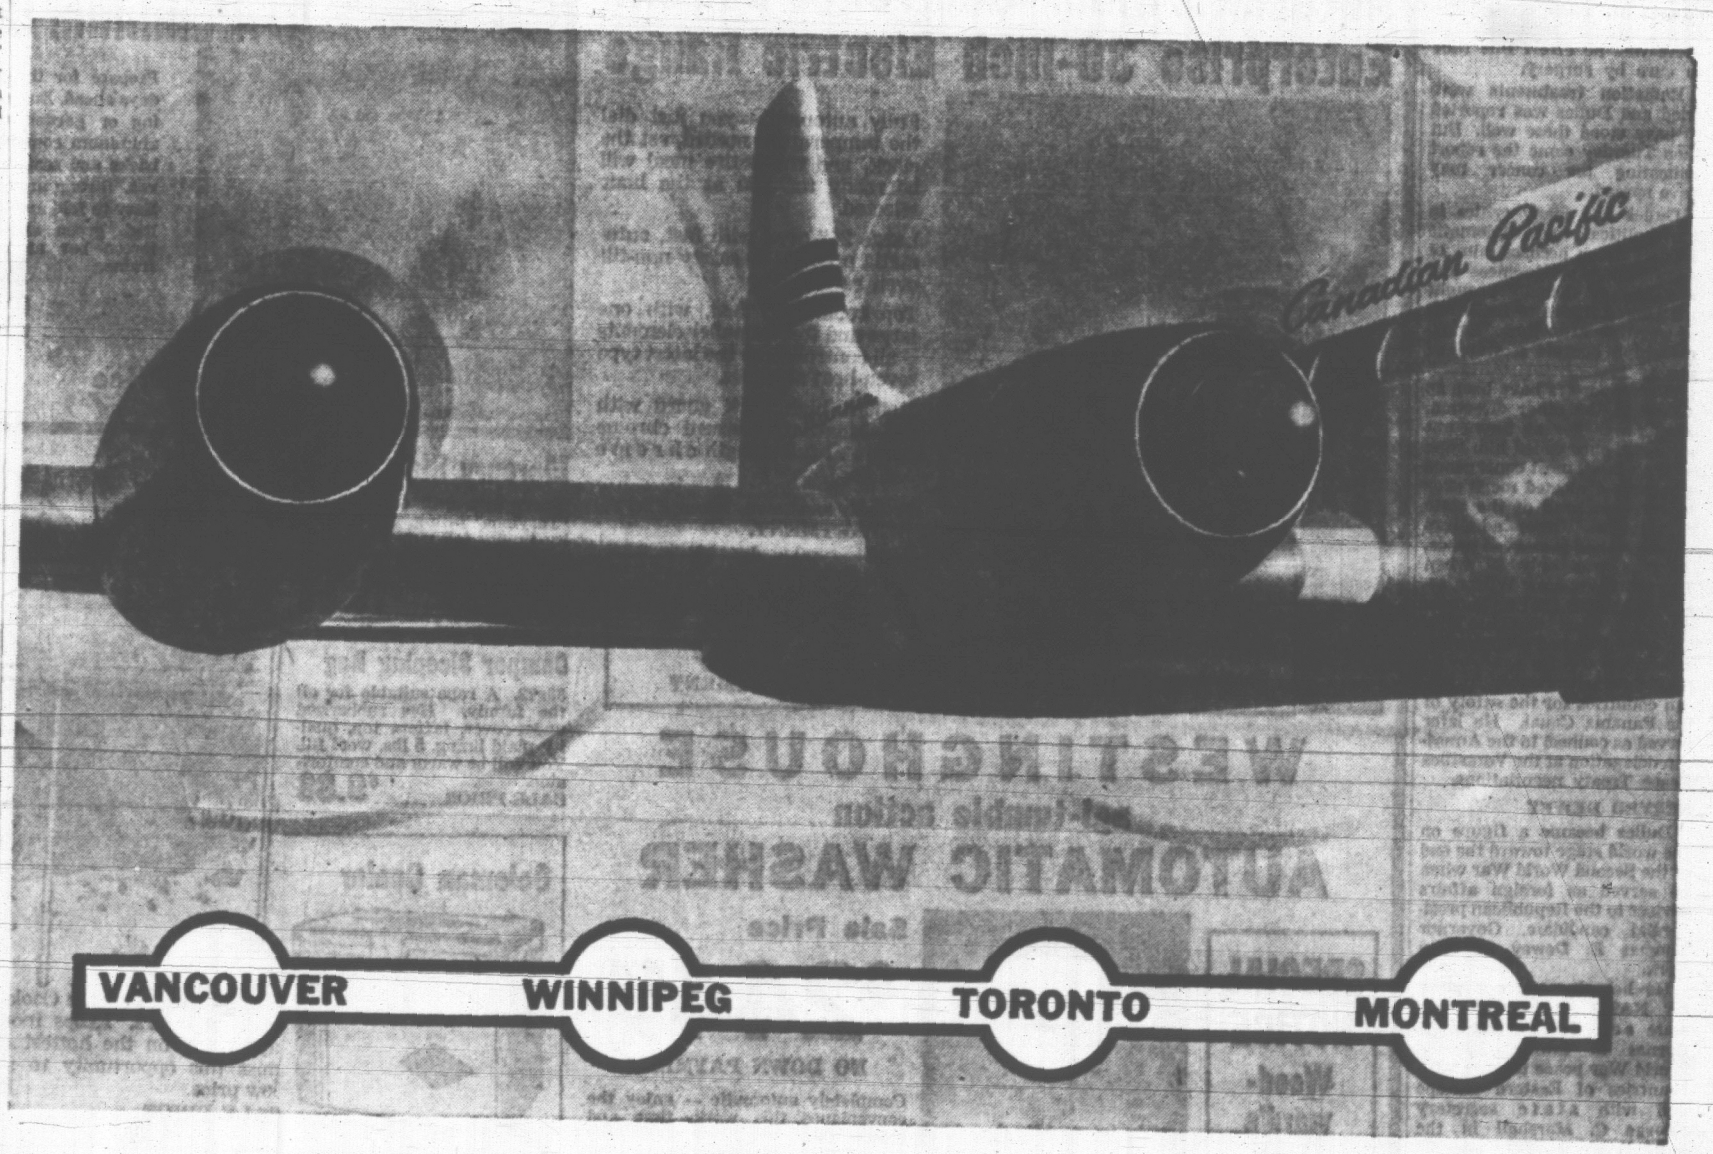

"I would not have accepted this position, unless I believed there is a serious role to be played by public power.

"That does not mean that I do not believe there is a role for private power."

'GOD'S KINGDOM COMING'

Sect Prepares For World War

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Hundreds of the Davidians start gathering here Thursday to await "approaching events that will result in the establishment of God's kingdom" in Jerusalem.

In its publication, The Symbolic Code, the sect, a divorced branch of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, has predicted a war will begin about April 22 in the Middle East. The sect has its headquarters on a 941-acre tract near here.

The publication says the war "will pit nation against nation and Christian against non-Christian . . . after which the way will be open for those Christians who survive to establish the kingdom."

The members have been advised to "sever all earthly ties, if necessary," and to sell property that could not be brought with them to Waco.

Sleepy Indian Village Will Never Be the Same

TEZPUR, India (AP) — The Dalai Lama, god-king of Tibet, has provided this sleepy town of 10,000 with an experience it never will forget.

It was Tezpur's fate to be astride the Dalai Lama's path when he walked across the border on his epic flight from Lhasa, the Tibetan capital. As such it became a jumping-off place for correspondents trying to meet the Dalai Lama.

He will reach this Assam foothill town Saturday and immediately leave by air-conditioned train for the Himalayan hill station of Mussoorie, Reuters reported.

Until the Dalai Lama crossed the border, less than 200 miles north, two weeks ago, Tezpur was chiefly noted for its quiet and restful atmosphere.

There are two Assamese-language movie houses, one hotel, the Paradise, a mission hospital and perhaps half a dozen taxis.

Social life turns about two private clubs where planters, mostly British, gather to discuss crops over long drinks and perhaps a quiet game of billiards.

The Dalai Lama's entry into India changed all this overnight. Correspondents began arriving from all over the world. Paradise Hotel bulged, then overflowed. Journalists camped in bungalows crammed private clubs and nearly a dozen bedded down at the mission hospital.

Residents of Tezpur suddenly found it impossible to get a taxi. The cars were snapped up by reporters on a full-time basis.

Canned goods disappeared from the market, for Tezpur has no restaurant of western standards.

The authorities closed the road leading north from Tezpur. This was designed primarily to keep correspondents and photographers away when the Dalai Lama resumes his journey.

UPPER STOREY FOR GOD-KING

MUSSOORIE, India (Reuters) — Government preparations for the stay in exile here of Tibet's Dalai Lama are almost complete six days before he is due to move into a 15-room luxury bungalow placed at his disposal by a cotton millionaire.

The two-storey wooden bungalow belongs to Indian magnate G. D. Birla. One point of protocol has been fixed—the Dalai Lama's apartments must be on the upper floor since nobody may be above the 23-year-old god-king.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE BREAKS DOWN FAT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fat . . . actually breaks it down. It is an established medical fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fat is broken down and forms a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your body, precious liver bile helps break down fat the same way. Many foods reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down this fat . . . unblocks it . . . for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills exclusive formula of natural, vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat in your body.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, get Carter's Little Liver Pills. Remember, Carter's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat. Only 43¢.

OUSTED BY MEXICO FOR FBI

Flying Bandit Grounded

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico gave the bum's rush today to Frank Lawrence Sprenz, a flying American bank robber who is on the FBI's list of 10 most wanted men.

Two immigration agents were driving the fast-travelling, fast-talking holdup artist to the U.S.-Mexican border to hand him over to American authorities.

Captured Monday as he was fishing off the Yucatan coast, Spenz was ordered deported for entering Mexico illegally. He was flown to Mexico City Tuesday afternoon and transferred to a car for the drive north.

The 29-year-old bandit is wanted for robbing a bank in Hamilton, Ohio, of $29,955, for the $1,490 holdup of an Akron, Ohio, cafe and for a series of other crimes in the United States and Canada.

Wreckage of a plane—one of several Sprenz used in eluding police—led to the capture.

Mexican police traced to him a Piper Pacer which cracked up landing early in April on the Gulf Coast north of Veracruz.

Sprenz broke jail a year ago in Akron with four other prisoners while he was awaiting trial for the cafe holdup. One of the fugitives was shot dead and three others quickly rounded up but Sprenz got away.

The FBI posted him as one of the 10 most dangerous criminals five months later. While a fugitive, he learned to fly in Seattle under an assumed name and then used both air and road to elude police.

He stole a seaplane in Toronto and flew to Baltimore harbor, then made off with another plane at Scranton, Pa., last Feb. 15 and cracked up landing in Burlington, Vt.

14,000-Mile Flight Fails as Baby Dies

LONDON (UPI) — An 18-month-old girl flown 14,000 miles from New Zealand for a delicate heart operation which might have saved her life died in an ambulance Tuesday only 20 miles away from the operating table.

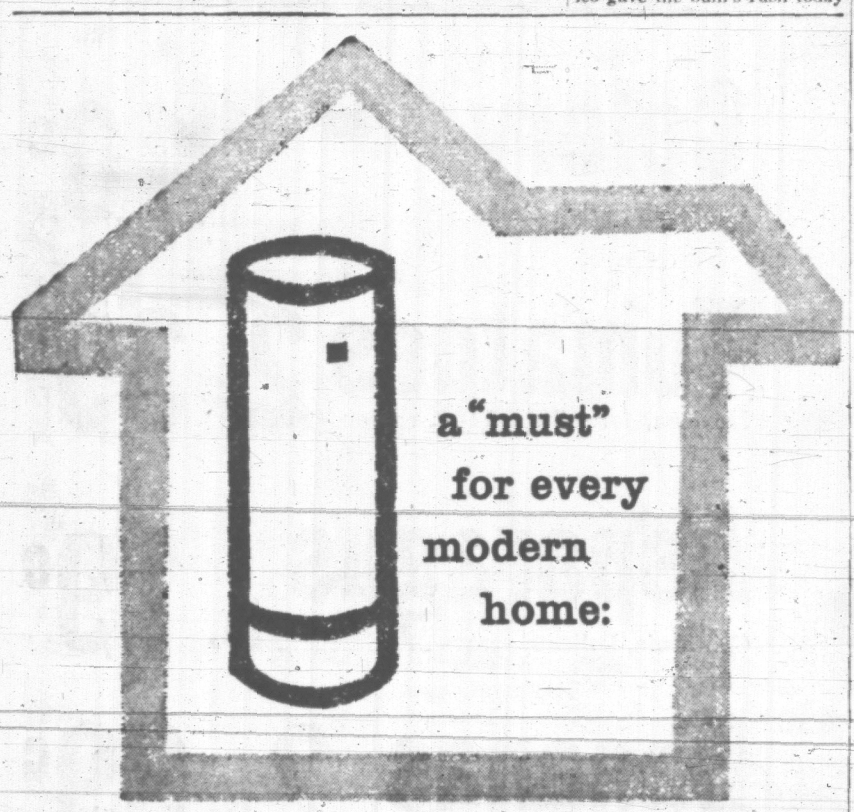

The race against death for little Wilma van Oosterhout began at Wellington two days ago and ended on the runway of London airport while surgeons were preparing for the operation in a London hospital.

Mrs. Maria van Oosterhout walked carefully down the steps of an airliner, carrying her infant daughter wrapped in blankets. An ambulance, with oxygen equipment, was waiting on the runway to speed Wilma the 20 miles to the hospital.

But it was too late. The baby died moments after she was placed in the ambulance.

Train Derailment Blocks CPR Traffic

KENORA, Ont. (CP) — A Canadian Pacific Railway freight train was derailed Monday night just west of Keewatin, Ont., blocking traffic on the railway's main line. No one was injured.

automatic storage water heater!

In the modern home, an abundance of clean hot water is more than a convenience . . . it's a necessity! End the waiting, the shortages, the inefficiency of that old-fashioned hot water system — and add modern convenience to your home by installing an automatic storage water heater now! If your future plans include such labor-saving appliances as an automatic washer or dishwasher, an everlasting supply of hot water at the correct temperature is especially important. And surprisingly economical, too! There's a just-right size storage water heater for every home, every family — with an average operating cost of only a few cents per person per day!

Duff Scores Overtime Goal To Give Leafs 3-2 Victory

TORONTO (CP) — Young Dickie Duff, so exhausted he fired from long range rather than try to barge in on goal for a clear shot, scored in sudden-death overtime Tuesday night to give Toronto Maple Leafs their first win in the Stanley Cup final.

The 23-year-old left-winger tallied at 10.06 of the extra period on a 45-foot blast as Leafs edged Montreal Canadiens, 3-2. Montreal leads the best-of-seven set, 2-1.

Duff, who logged plenty of mileage but was not impressive earlier, took a pass at Toronto's blue line from right-winger George Armstrong, raced down centre ice and let a shot go as he was about to flit around Montreal rearguard Tom Johnson just inside the Hab blue line.

It grazed Johnson's ankle and hit the corner of the net before goaltender Jacques Plante knew what happened. Plante flashed out his right foot after the puck went in.

"I was going to go in closer but I changed my mind because I was tired," Duff said. "I don't remember much. . . . All I know is that it was a slap shot."

Centre Billy Harris and left-winger Bert Olmstead, a one-time Montrealer who guided Leafs with a tremendous performance of checking and determination, were the other Leaf marksmen. Left-winger Marcel Bonin and Dickie Moore scored for Canadiens.

The teams meet here Thursday night, then head for Montreal for a fifth engagement Saturday.

"That was the key game," yelled an elated Punch Imlach, Leaf coach.

Imlach has said Leafs will take Canadiens in seven games. But the bookies have made the Habs heavy favorites to win the crown for an unprecedented fourth straight time.

HERO ADMITS

Didn't Know What to Do

TORONTO (CP)—"That was the big one. Watch out for us now."

That's the way coach Punch Imlach summed up Toronto Maple Leafs' 3-2 overtime victory against Montreal Canadiens, Tuesday night, which cut Montreal's lead in the Stanley Cup final series to 2-1.

"Our guys played their best game of the series so far and they won't stop until they've won that cup," Imlach said.

While photographers were grouped around Dickie Duff, whose goal at 10:06 of the first overtime period won the hockey game, veteran leftwinger Bert Olmstead had the following cautious comment:

"Those Canadiens won't be pushovers. That was the big game for us, I admit, but they are still leading the series. It's going to be a tough road to the Stanley Cup."

DICKIE DUFF

Duff said he didn't know what to do when George Armstrong passed the puck to him.

"I was going to go in closer to the net but at the last moment I changed my mind and shot the puck towards the Montreal net. The next thing I saw was the red light go on."

CANADIENS STUNNED

There was more an air of stunned disappointment than gloom in Canadiens' dressing room.

Coach Toe Blake, sitting on a big trunk, was deeply depressed. He had nothing to say before leaving the room quietly ahead of the players.

Goalie Jacques Plante said Duff's winning goal went in off Tom Johnson — and the Montreal defenceman nodded assent.

"I don't know where Duff shot from but I know the puck hit my ankle going in," said Johnson. Plante said the puck was just off the ice when it went in.

Defenceman Bob Turner was nursing a charleyhorse. He said Leaf defenceman Carl Brewer "leaped into me and jammed his knee into my thigh," in the second period.

There was no confirmation but it was thought likely that Turner will be able to play in the fourth game of the series here Thursday.

Rocket Took Only Few Regular Turns

Plante was disconsolate in the dressing room. Johnson agreed with him that Duff's winner went in off his leg.

Montreal coach Toe Blake also was depressed. He had nothing to say before leaving the dressing room quietly ahead of his players.

Canadiens were laboring under injuries and the failure of Maurice (Rocket) Richard to overcome a minor groin injury. The Rocket took a few regular turns on a line with Moore at left wing and Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard at centre early in the first period but sat out the rest of the game.

"The muscles were stiff," he said. "I thought the other guys were in better condition than I was."

Defenceman Bob Turner pulled up with a charleyhorse early in the third period when he collided with Toronto defenceman Carl Brewer and was out the remainder of the engagement. He is expected to be back Thursday night.

Blake benched left winger Andre Pronovost at the start of the third period because he was not up to form. In the stands with the 13,121 customers was Montreal centre Jean Beliveau, recovering from a spinal injury.

Eddie Was Tough Early in Game

Harris sent Leafs ahead 1-0 at 16.29 of the first period, flicking Frank Mahovlich's goalmouth pass over Plante after the netminder sprawled on his side trying to intercept the relay. Each side was one man short.

Bonin got his goal, his ninth of the playoffs, on his specialty play, tipping in Bernie Geoffrion's hard blueline drive at 17.31 while Leafs were one short.

Olmstead restored Leafs' one-goal lead at 17.11 of the second period, scoring on a difficult angle from the left boards.

Moore put the teams on even terms at 1.30 of the third period. He was standing alone 20 feet in front of Toronto netminder Johnny Bower and slapped Turner's pass from the blueline into the net.

That set the stage for Duff, who scored 29 goals for Leafs during the regular season.

Evcoes Waiting For Boot Debut

Victoria Evcoes take their first plunge into the Pacific Coast Soccer League pool Saturday, when they meet Vancouver Halecos at Macdonald Park.

It will be the start of a rough grind that will run through to Sept. 19 and include a cup trial during August.

Half the Evcoe players, however, have been through the mill of inter-city competition before, either on the former Victoria Strathconas or on last season's Nanaimo PCSSL entry.

"We've had the team working together in the last few practices," says coach Willie Hamilton. "And, they are beginning to jell as a unit."

"It may take a game or two to work them in, but we are banking on the experienced players to pull them together," he continued.

ABBOTT A CENTRE

Dipping their feet for the first time in inter-city league action will be goalie Al Davies, fullbacks Bernie Tyson and Ron Jenkins, centre-half Harry Carruthers and outside-right Henry Vanderhorst.

EXPERIENCED RESERVES

In addition, Hamilton will have four coast league-experienced reserves waiting to move into action in Cell Robb, Ernie Eastlake, Dick Nellestijn and George Paul. His other reserves are Alex Stewart, Maurice Bunyan, Volker Stoldt, Pete Moran and Tim Walker.

Hamilton is allowed to name 20 provisional players to the team, but must cut down to a maximum of 16 within the first three weeks of play.

This will give him games against Labatt's, formerly St. Andrew's, April 25, and against New Westminster Royals May 9 in which to test his team and on which to form his decision.

All home games of the Victoria entry will be played Saturdays at Macdonald Park, starting at 2.30 p.m.

Totems Rally To Grab Lead

CALGARY (CP) — Seattle Totems, coast representative in the Western Hockey League final, will hold a one-game edge when they meet Calgary Thursday in the second game of the WHL best-of-seven series.

Totems scored three goals in less than four minutes in the last period Tuesday night to overcome a 3-1 deficit and earn a 5-3 victory over the Stampeders in the first game.

Totems, who stepped off the train only three hours before the game, were hard-pressed to keep pace in the first two periods but came back strongly in the last. They took the lead for the first time at 11.33 of the third and kept command of the situation from that time.

FILION SETS PACE

Lou Jankowski, Dusty Blair and Sid Finney scored for Stamps, who led 3-1 after two periods after a scoreless first period.

Most of the action in the first period was concentrated in middle ice with both teams checking closely. Stampeders pressed the attack near the three-quarter mark and hemmed Totems in their own zone but could not break through.

There were no shots on goal in the first period and Stampeders' Roy Edwards made only one stop in the session.

The teams played scoreless hockey for another 10 minutes but then both struck fast with four goals inside four minutes to give Stampeders a 3-1 lead.

Jankowski, out for a month with a shoulder injury scored the first at 10.24 when he deflected Eddie Dorohoy's shot at the side of the net. Dusty Blair made it 2-0 at 11.20 on a breakaway from inside the Seattle blue line and Finney made the count 3-0 at 13.26 on a low 20-foot drive from the side.

Filion put Seattle in the picture at 14.01 slapping in a loose puck from a scramble in front of the Calgary net.

Leonard and Filion made it a new game with goals at 7.53 and 8.36 of the third, both on shots from close in, but Don Chiupka gave Totems the lead for the first time at 11.33 as his shot went between Edwards' pads.

Norwich Soccer Skein Snapped at 17 Games

LONDON (CP) — Norwich City, this year's giant-killer in the Football Association Cup, ended one of the greatest unbeaten runs in the Football League Tuesday night as Bury downed the Norfolk team 3-2.

It was Norwich's first defeat in 17 Third Division games and ended a four-month success spell in both league and cup soccer. The longest unbeaten run in modern league soccer was in 1920-21 when Burnley went 30 games without defeat.

The run has taken Norwich City from 18th to fourth place in the Third Division. But the loss virtually killed any hopes of promotion to the second division.

In the FA Cup, Norwich reached the semi-final after beating such talented opposition as Manchester United, Cardiff City, Tottenham Hotspurs and Sheffield United. In the semi-final, Norwich drew with Luton Town before going out in the replay.

CHINOOKS NEAR TITLE

Fellers Falter In Last Quarter

OTTAWA (CP) — Southern Alberta Chinooks, after two fourth-quarter comeback victories, stand tonight within one game of their first Canadian basketball championship.

The Lethbridge squad trailed until the final four minutes Tuesday night before edging Ottawa Fellers, 60-57. In the opening game Monday, Chinooks blew an early 23-point lead before recouping in the final 10 minutes for a 70-63 victory.

Third game of the best-of-five series—first national title play for both teams—is scheduled tonight. Fourth and fifth games, if necessary, are slated for Friday and Saturday.

WEAK FIRST QUARTER

Fellers may have lost Tuesday night's game in the first quarter. After the initial 8½ minutes, southern Alberta still was trying for its first field goal, but Ottawa meanwhile could take advantage of the situation for only 10 points.

After the first quarter, Ottawa's lead was narrowed to 12-7. Fellers led 32-26 at half time and 45-43 at the end of the third quarter.

BRADLEY TOPS

Chinook centre Bob Bradley, top point-getter Monday with 25 points, again led both teams Tuesday night with 21. Don Dorman hooped in 12 for the winners and Jack Lilja netted eight.

Kevin McGuire, Ottawa's big six-foot-six centre, paced Fellers with 17 points, followed by Don Guest with 12 and Glen Pettinger with eight.

Both McGuire and guard Ed Laschuk played for Ottawa with slight fevers because of the flu, which sidelined high-scoring forward George Seymour. However, all three were expected to play tonight.

Chinooks—Bradley 21, Lilja 8, Al West 10, Stevenson 3, Larry West 2, Karren 4, Ennis 6, Kruger 4, Terry 2. Total—60.

Ottawa—Keir 5, McGuire 17, Guest 12, Ross, Carswell 6, Pettinger 7, Laschuk 6, McCimbley, Gibbs 4. Total—57.

Basket Winners

Mrs. S. Paterson and Helen Wilson, combining to score a net 75½, captured the Wenger Basket competition for ladies of the Gorge Vale Golf Club.

Blasts by Popgun Pair Keep Braves, Sox Aloft

By UP INTERNATIONAL

Johnny O'Brien and Luis Aparicio, a pair of little popgun hitters, are the big reasons why the Milwaukee Braves and Chicago White Sox are still in orbit.

O'Brien, who didn't make a hit all last season, singled across the winning run in the 10th inning to give the Milwaukee Braves a 4-3 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday while Aparicio, a slick-field but light-hitting shortstop, drove in both runs with a fifth-inning single as the Chicago White Sox beat the Kansas City Athletics, 2-0.

The third straight victory for the unbeaten Braves enabled them to take over sole possession of first place in the National League when the Chicago Cubs whipped the San Francisco Giants, 5-2. With four straight wins the White Sox are off to their best start in years and are technical leaders of the American League although both the Cleveland Indians and world champion New York Yankees also are undefeated.

SCORE IN FORM

The Cincinnati Reds handed the Pittsburgh Pirates a fourth straight setback, 3-2, and the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Dodgers, 6-2, before a record crowd of 61,552 at Los Angeles. In the American League, the Indians made it three in a row when Herb Score "blinded" the Detroit Tigers, 8-1, the Yankees blitzed the Baltimore Orioles, 13-3, and the Boston Red Sox beat the Washington Senators, 7-3.

O'Brien, acquired as "bench strength" from the Phillies, got his first chance with the Braves after entering the game as a pinch-runner. Hank Aaron and Wes Covington had singled to start the 10th and O'Brien delivered the decisive run with a looping single to right field on a 3-and-2 pitch by Dick Farrell. Mickey Vernon, another Milwaukee "pick up", singled home the tying run in the last of the ninth after Wally Post's two-run triple gave the Phillies a 3-2 lead in the top of the frame.

Aparicio continued his torrid spring hitting for the White Sox when he singled home both their runs after a single by Johnny Callison and a double by Bubba Phillips. Billy Pierce, ace of the White Sox staff, yielded six hits, no walks and struck out three in posting the 32nd shutout of his career.

Stone Upset At Car 'Spiel

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two Vancouver Curling Club rinks Tuesday night advanced to the finals in the second annual Burnaby car spiel with convincing semifinal victories.

Howie Christopherson easily turned back Tony Folk of Cloverdale 11-5 and Al Argue built up a 9-0 lead and coasted to a 13-8 victory over Bill Hoffman of Chilliwack.

Folk appeared to have nothing left after his stunning 9-6 win over six-time B.C. champion Reg Stone of Trail in the quarter-finals. It was the most stunning upset of the Bonspiel.

The final will be played tonight with Argue, 1958 champion, the favorite.

Results:

SEMIFINAL

QUARTER-FINAL

Folk 9, Stone, Trail 6. Christopherson 9, Britton, Vancouver 6. Argue 12, Mills, Vancouver 4. Hoffman 11, Hollingsworth, Vancouver 6.

City Cadet Selected For Shoot at Bisley

OTTAWA — Twelve young Canadian marksmen, including Patrick Barclay of Victoria, were named Tuesday to represent the Royal Canadian Army Cadets in National Rifle Association matches at Bisley, England, July 1 to Aug. 6.

Others selected are: British Columbia — Clifford Bolton, Lytton; Saskatchewan—Allan MacQuarrie, Regina; Ontario —William McRae, Michael Johnson, Harry Kleiner and Cameron Begg, all of Hamilton, Charles Younghusband of Ottawa, and Jan Parks of Amherstburg; Quebec — Winston MacKelvie, Verdun, and William Baker, Val d'Or; New Brunswick—Daryl Perry, Lancaster.

They fly from Montreal's Dorval Airport June 30 with their sights set on the Alexander Graham Bell Trophy, held for the last three years by British cadets.

Lt.-Col. G. E. Armstrong of Toronto is team commandant and Capt. D. G. MacKinnon of Ottawa, adjutant.

CHALLENGER IN HIDING — ANYWAY, DATE IS SET

London Ducking Before Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—How can you hide a guy with a chin as big as Brian London's?

It's a strange cup of tea when the challenger goes ducking into hiding away from publicity outlets with a heavyweight title fight a little more than two weeks off.

The British heavyweight arrived in New York last weekend by plane. He immediately ducked behind a "no comment," referring all questions to Edwin Schweig, an attorney who also happens to represent Cus d'Amato, manager of Floyd Patterson, the champion.

And Mr. Schweig?

"Sorry, sir. Mr. Schweig is not in. What is your name please? I will add it to the list. I already have 20 names."

Well, how about the promoter? His name is Cecil Rhodes, a steelman who is promoting his first fight.

"Mr. Rhodes is not at his office.

A cool voice answers the phone. His name is George.

"He hasn't been around for several days. I have no idea where you could get in touch with him. Is he in town or out of town? You might say he is in and out of town."

Well, Tom Gallery, the sports director of the television network (NBC) that is shelling out $200,000 for the rights ought to know.

"Mr. Gallery is at a meeting."

Patterson was discovered at the training camp in Summit, N.J. He didn't come to the phone either.

Oh, yes, the fight is supposed to be in Indianapolis. Date, Friday, May 1.

BUT GONZALES LEADS TOUR

Hoad New Net King?

NEW YORK (AP) — Lew Hoad is the new king of the tennis pros and could prove it in a head-to-head series with Pancho Gonzales, the two rookies of the tour said Tuesday.

"It's not my Australian nationalism coming to the front," said Wimbledon champion Ashley Cooper. "I honestly think Lew is a better player now than Pancho and would come out ahead if they were thrown together man to man."

"I agree," tossed in Queenslander Mal Anderson. "Gonzales is leading the tour because of his success in beating Ashley and me. Lew still has him, nine matches to four."

LEW HOAD

Under the new pro format, the lineups change at each site with winners of the previous matches always thrown together in the next town. This means Gonzales and Hoad meet less than half as many times as when they played head-to-head last year, big Pancho winning.

In Tuesday's matches, Gonzales beat Hoad 14-12, 6-3 to cut Lew's winning margin to 9-5.

In overall victories Gonzales' widened his lead to a 25-9 won-lost mark. Hoad now has 22-12 and Cooper and Anderson have identical 10-23 records.

OUTDOOR REPORT
BY Doug Peden

Our furtive friend the cougar seems to be prowling on both sides of the fence this month.

First of all, the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association presented a proposal to have a bounty on mountain lions, which was abolished by the game branch a couple of years ago, brought back into effect.

The cogitation behind the plan, of course, was that bounties would result in more dead cougars, which would mean more live deer for us to shoot.

Then this week we have the launching of a movement designed to have the big cats declared game animals. The thought behind this plan is that cougars are persecuted pussies that rate better treatment because of their role in maintaining the "balance of nature."

It is estimated that a healthy cougar includes an average of one deer per week in his diet, which indicates that a pair of panthers prowling in a well-stocked deer area could do quite a bit of balancing over a year.

Since at first glance the "game animal" plan suggests more healthy cats and thus fewer deer to shoot, hunters are certain to raise a squawk. It will probably be just a murmur compared with the shouts of ranchers who can remember what a care-free cougar can do to sheep.

Actually, there seems little reason for hunters to holler. Nor does there seem any need to give the cats a new classification. Perhaps they would enjoy the prestige of being listed on the statutes as game animals, but cougars in our country have all the protection they need right now.

Cats Too Smart for Human Hunters

Cougar hunting isn't a haphazard recreation. You don't just pick up a rifle and go for a walk in the woods expecting to see Mr. Mountain Lion. He's usually too crafty for human predators. I've been walking the woods for something like 25 hunting seasons and have yet to make his acquaintance. He can't be classed as dangerous game, but he has enough in the way of muscles and meanness to rate respect and I enjoy the feeling that he may be just around the next corner.

Anyone chasing cougars as a pastime needs at least one, preferably two or three well-trained hounds, which, in turn, need a lot of feeding and exercise. Since they dropped the cougar bounty, I haven't heard of anyone following the hounds for kicks instead of cash.

This isn't New Mexico or Arizona, where panther-pursuing puppies can be followed on horseback. There is no glamor connected with the sport in our neck of the woods; just hard work. Our slash, salal and timber make us the infantry of the cougar-killing corps. Following dogs across our hills is foot-slogging of a laborious type that doesn't excite the appetites of wealthy sportsmen more than once or twice.

Calling the mountain lion a game animal won't start a new shooting fad or do much for cougar conservation. He would be in season at the same time deer are legal targets and a hunter would be willing and eager to drill a hole in his ribs any time he had the chance. Which is precisely the situation today.

Farmers and stockmen would also be walking almost the same road. They could shoot any animal threatening their livestock. The only difference would be that they might be expected to report the shooting to the game branch. And I have no doubt they would still be able to obtain the assistance of a government predatory animal hunter when having cougar trouble, just as they do now.

Cougar bounties have varied over the years. The arrangement in effect prior to their abolishment called for a fellow to receive $20 for each dead cat, plus a $20 bonus if he owned dogs and was registered as a cougar hunter.

The last year the bounty was in effect, only five were paid by the Victoria office of the game branch, all to bonus hunters.

They Are Not Worst Enemies of Deer

Cougar kills have also varied with the years. In 1946, 77 bounties were paid on Vancouver Island. The number climbed to 203 in 1948 and the most prolific recent period of the panthers was in the three years starting with 1951, when 275, 268 and 294 cougar bounties were paid on the Island.

And just for the record, from 1922 until 1956 a total of 13,882 panther pelts were presented for bounty fees throughout the province.

Cougars have caused little excitement on the Island in the past few years, which means they are either scarce or, more likely, finding such happy deer hunting they can stay in the solitude they prefer.

Predators increase as their food supply increases. Our local lions are probably eating well right now, but when we get a tough winter that trims Island deer herds we can expect the cats looking for three square meals a week to again come a-calling closer to civilization.

Cougars are not the worst enemies of deer. Neither are human hunters. Long, hard winters and over-browsing are greater dangers.

Currently hunters have liberal bag limits and the lions are possibly performing a service by trimming deer herds in lightly-hunted areas. But when the deer population crashes, game biologists should have a method to control killing by both panthers and people—cutting bag limits and shooting cougars.

Public opinion and pressure from hunters and ranchers will probably defeat any plan to have cougars classed as game animals. But as long as he doesn't have a big price on his ears, the mountain lion will get along very well on his own.

Patients at the Queen Alexandra Solarium may not know it, but they lost a mighty fine friend with the death this week of Capt. A. C. Cruchley.

A past president of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association, Cap has always been one of the hardest workers for the Solarium Derby, which has raised a total of $65,000 for the crippled children's hospital.

Despite his 76 years last summer, Cap worked his usual quota of long hours and sold his usual quota of more than 1,000 derby tickets. A conservative estimate is that Capt. Cruchley personally collected $10,000 for the Solarium since the derby was started 13 years ago.

Abrupt at times, Cap was a square-shooter all the way and he played a big part in making the VSIAA a successful organization. Once you got to know him, you had to like him and his passing was a great loss for both sportsmen and the Solarium youngsters.

Sportsmen will be able to pay their last respects to Cap at his funeral at Thomson Funeral Chapel Thursday at 11.15 a.m.

Starter Tom Cureton fires a gun which flashes as well as reports in track meet at Stanford, Calif. Closeup shows simple mechanism by which circuit to flash bulb is closed as hammer hits cartridge, giving both timers and contestants instant knowledge of when race starts. Most track officials agree timing done by sound of gun can be woefully inaccurate. (NEA).

MAY LOSE TITLE

Sugar Must Face Higher Brass Now

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sugar Ray Robinson, who has been ducking a former Marine corporal, will take on a retired Marine general Thursday morning in New York Supreme Court.

Maj.-Gen. Melvin J. Krulewitch (ret.), chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, will be asked to show cause why he should not be restrained from vacating Robinson's middleweight title, which Sugar Ray has not defended in almost 13 months.

The commission issued an ultimatum to Robinson April 3, warning him to sign for a title defence against ex-Marine Carmen Basilio by noon Wednesday or face the loss of his crown.

Sugar Ray's counter move was interpreted as a "delaying action." He knows now Krulewitch and the commission mean business, but he would like more time to wait for a crack at Archie Moore's light-heavyweight title.

HOPING FOR MOORE

Robinson was dickering for a fight with Moore when an ancient Archie signed to meet Canadian Yvon Durelle in a return bout at Montreal July 15. If Moore disposes of Durelle as expected, Sugar Ray plans to renew his bid for a shot at the 175-pound crown, possibly in September.

If and when Robinson does catch up with Moore, he would automatically surrender his middleweight crown. But Krulewitch wants to strip him of the title now, and that's why Sugar Ray's lawyers have resorted to the courts.

Neither Robinson or his attorney, Martin J. Machat, was willing to comment on the case today, but Sugar Ray's longtime spokesman, George Gainsford, decried the failure of the commission to give the champ a hearing.

LEGAL WRANGLE

"The commission never has called him in to explain his side of the story," Gainsford said.

Asked why Robinson doesn't want to fight Basilio a third time, Gainsford replied: "Because Basilio called him a pig." This was in reference to a legal wrangle over terms for one of the previous fights. Robinson lost to Basilio at Yankee Stadium in 1957, then regained the title in a return bout at Chicago last March.

Upsets Feature Opening Bouts

WINNIPEG (CP)—A couple of upsets and five knockouts featured three hours of ring action Tuesday night as fighters from across the Dominion battled in preliminary bouts of the Canadian Army boxing championships.

The evening's action opened the four-day fistic festival. Finals are scheduled for Thursday and Friday nights, with winners seeking the possible additional honor of membership on the Canadian Pan American Games team.

The battling continued today with slates of preliminary matches.

QUICK FOOTWORK

L./Bdr. Earl McNeil, 29, of Dominion, N.S., won a bantam open class bout by decisioning Rflm. Harold Burke, 24, of Forest, Ont. McNeil hit repeatedly with a strong left to Burke's head and relied on quick footwork to keep away from punches after a cut was opened on his nose early in the first round. McNeil was the 1958 army and Manitoba bantam champion.

Pte. Charlie Tynes, 27, of Truro, N.S., 1958 light-middleweight champion was dethroned by 29-year-old Pte. Don Cameron of Swan Lake, Man. Tynes was stunned in the first with Cameron's sharp jabbing and forced to keep on the defensive throughout the fight. Cameron won by decision.

Under army boxing rules, novice matches consist of three two-minute rounds and open classes three rounds of three minutes.

Shuttle Tourney Reaches Semis

Semifinals in the annual Cordova Bay Badminton Club tournament will be played on Thursday at the Cordova Bay Community Hall.

Champs Stay in Battle For Empress Tee Titles

Albertans just about took charge Tuesday in the men's championship flight of the 29th annual Empress Golf Tournament, being played over the Victoria Golf Club links.

Defending champion Art Davis, of Calgary, and medalist Ed Schuman of Camrose, Alta., moved a notch closer to a possible meeting in Saturday's championship final.

Davis downed S. S. Selak of Seattle, 3 and 2, to stay in the race and Schuman nipped fellow-Calgarian Verne Miller, one up.

A repeat of last year's final was played today between Davis and club-mate Don Anderson, who advanced with a win over Earl Adell, medalist in the 1958 contest, 2 and 1.

Only two Victorians remained for today's round when Jim Barrie finally defeated Dr. T. E. Zuelke of Portland on the 22nd hole and Fred Ranson dumped one handicapper C. A. Jonson of Seattle's Rainier Club 4 and 2.

The longest match of the day went 23 holes between C. V. H. (Boysie) Bryan of Calgary and Harry Carson of Portland. Bryan, a perennial championship threat, proved the eventual winner in the marathon match.

Of the other Victoria golfers among the men, Keith Olson dropped a 2-and-1 decision to Pross Clark of Portland, A. W. Ockell was beaten, one-down, by Ernie Ketcham of Seattle, and J. F. Fidler lost, one-down, to J. L. Johnson of Seattle.

Seattle Swingers Still in Running

Other Albertans remaining in the chase toward the Sir Edward Beatty Trophy are Ray Tull, and Fred King of Calgary and M. D. Stewart of Edmonton.

F. J. Gleeson and J. A. Hanover still have a chance to take the trophy back to Seattle. Also in the running are Clark of Portland and H. C. Miller of Salem.

Among the ladies, Mrs. T. L. Christie moved into the favorite's role Tuesday after defeating Mrs. Hurley, one-up.

Defending champion, Mrs. Christie is playing over her home course, at Uplands.

Monday's medallist, Mrs. Gordon Green of Seattle, a former champion and twice runner-up, lost in the first match-play round to Mrs. F. F. Patterson, also of Seattle, one-up.

Only one other Victoria lady continued in contention for the Sir Edward Beatty Trophy, as Mrs. C. H. Moore defeated Mrs. G. H. Waterman, Seattle, 5 and 3.

Mrs. L. G. d'Easum, Victoria, lost to Mrs. J. Craigin of Seattle, one-up, and Mrs. D. W. Spencer of Victoria was defeated by Mrs. Freda Bryan of Calgary, 3 and 3.

Others moving into the ladies quarter-finals were Mary-Jo O'Brien of Seattle, Mrs. C. Thompson, Seattle, and Mrs. W. V. King, Burlington.

EMPRESS GOLF RESULTS

'This is Only Beginning of Our Work for God'

By PETER SYPNOWICH

TORONTO (CP)—"God is leading us." This is the expressed belief of Rev. Hirwin Davies, who is managing the Freedom Foundation of Canada while executive director Rev. Leslie Millin tries to straighten out the British Columbia gold venture that has drained away money of about 300 Ontario Baptists.

Mr. Davies, an assistant director of the foundation and pastor of Toronto's Dorset Park Baptist Church, was among the clergymen and congregations who put $410,000 into the scheme in 1957 at the urging of Mr. Millin.

Now all the money, plus at least $77,000 raised in Vancouver, appears to be gone. The Fraser River gold operations are closed down. There is no sign of the radio station that profits were to establish at Prince George to beam religious programs to Red China.

The venture has been denounced by Dr. T. B. McDormand, secretary-treasurer of the Baptist Federation of Canada.

And the Freedom Foundation itself has been repudiated by a string of former supporters like Social Credit Premier Ernest C. Manning of Alberta. An assistant director, Rev. Bernard Smith, of Bayview Baptist Church in Toronto, has quit.

But all this doesn't mean the end of the Freedom Foundation, says Mr. Davies.

"We have faith in Mr. Millin. Our office is still here, the staff is still here. This is only the beginning of our work for God."

Probers at Work

Meanwhile, investigators in British Columbia and Ontario are working to unravel the scheme that J. Stewart Smith, superintendent of brokers in B.C., has called "the strangest I have ever seen since I entered office 20 years ago."

The investigation has been under way for six months but it wasn't until last month that public attention was first focussed on the Freedom Foundation.

Dr. Watson Kirkconnell, president of Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S., wrote a letter to his town's weekly newspaper questioning a decision to fluoridate community water supplies. He quoted a Freedom Foundation pamphlet suggesting fluoridation is a Communist plot to soften brain tissues and make its users susceptible to domination.

The Freedom Foundation, it turned out, had issued other pamphlets which claimed Communists are attempting to take over mental health organizations in a bid to gain control of North American minds.

Its bulletins were accompanied by copies of the Canadian Intelligence Service, published weekly by Ron Gostick at Flesherton, a Grey County community 75 miles northwest of Toronto. Mr. Gostick is an anti-Communist who has denounced the United Nations as "subversive" and Brotherhood Week as "the brainchild of organized Jewry."

Displayed Books

An associate of Mr. Gostick's was William Guy Carr of nearby Willowdale, who has circulated copies of "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion," long known as an anti-Semitic forgery. Some of Mr. Carr's books used to be on display in the windows of the Freedom Foundation.

The foundation's headquarters are in a five-room, $12,000-a-year suite in Toronto's north end, formerly leased by the National Social Credit Party of Canada.

Chairman of the board of directors for the last two years has been Stanley Patterson, a chartered accountant from nearby Gormley, who is also president of the Social Credit Association of Ontario.

Orvis Kennedy, national organizer for Social Credit, says the Freedom Foundation originally was organized as a non-political wing of the party but connections were severed more than two years ago.

"We ended our association because the foundation was distributing literature that many people considered anti-Semitic."

The foundation's executive director, Mr. Millin, spent 20 years in China as a missionary and left his pastorate with Immanuel Baptist Church in Toronto to join the foundation last year.

He helped organize the foundation three years ago after the late Dr. W. J. Sheridan, a medical missionary in China for 37 years, made a speech at the University of British Columbia in 1954 calling for an organization outside of government to oppose Communism. Dr. Sheridan's widow, Mrs. Pearl Sheridan, is secretary of the foundation.

$3,000 Monthly

Mr. Millin, who says contributions to the foundation last year averaged $2,000 to $3,000 a month, became interested in the gold mining scheme in 1957, considering it a further source of funds for the foundation.

Through a friend of Mrs. Sheridan's, he was introduced to James Harris McKee, 69-year-old Vancouver mining promoter who had developed a chemical process for removing gold from what is called black sand.

Mr. McKee is a graduate and former bursar of Brandon College in Manitoba, which was founded by his father, the late Dr. Samuel McKee.

Geologists explain the term "black sand" in this way: Action of water on sand takes away the lighter particles, leaving the heavier behind. Often the heavy particles are of magnetite or some other mineral of a black color. Since gold is heavier than magnetite it will also remain behind in the black sand if there is any gold.

Mr. Millin began raising funds for Mr. McKee, mostly from among the 4,000 persons on the foundation's mailing list — persons like Dr. Kirkconnell, although the university president says he wasn't among the investors.

Promissory Notes

The lenders were given promissory notes assuring repayment with six-per-cent interest by April 1, 1958, and Oct. 1, 1958. They were signed by Mr. McKee as president of Allied Holdings Limited and gave him authority to use the money in any way he wished.

Financial troubles had already begun when negotiations were started with Marconi (Canadian) Limited for purchase of a 50,000-watt radio station to beam propaganda across the Pacific.

Sufficient quantities of black sand couldn't be obtained by Allied Holdings at its placer operations along the Fraser, although a processing plant had been established in Burnaby, a Vancouver suburb.

Mr. Millin went to Vancouver last summer and found the project running out of money. Rev. R. W. Wighton of Oshawa, who had gone west to supervise the work as "chief consulting engineer," quit and later severed his connection with the Freedom Foundation.

In September, Mr. Millin sent a letter of apology to lenders in which he said the scheme would be salvaged through "a very wise investment" made by Mr. McKee with funds from Allied Holdings—1,000 shares in a firm called Rex Chain Saw Company, which held patents to a new invention.

"As soon as these assets have been sold in whole or in part, Mr. McKee will be in the position to repay loan notes, plus interest, and have sufficient moneys to continue developing Allied Holdings Limited," the letter said.

An investigation was soon started by the superintendent of brokers in B.C. and the Ontario Securities Commission. It broke into the open last week.

In Vancouver, police raided the offices of Allied Holdings and seized the books. In Toronto, an investor signed an affidavit declaring he put up $500 in July, 1957, after he was shown samples of gold and told "a $500 investment at that time might easily return as high as $500 monthly, a year after the payments of initial expenses."

Before delving into the books, the B.C. superintendent of brokers gave this accounting:

Of $77,000 raised in Vancouver, $31,415 was refunded to investors who wanted their money back. Of $410,410 raised in Ontario, $22,780 was refunded, $51,350 turned over to the Freedom Foundation, $1,261 used for expenses and $4,668 left on account.

Apparently Mr. McKee was left with about $375,930 for his gold venture. But recorded expenditures up to May 31, 1958, were listed as $298,489 and the account was overdrawn by $3,500.

The broker superintendent said Rex Chain Saw was supposed to have a contract with a German firm which would pay it $40,000,000 in royalties for the invention.

"We figured they would have to sell 39,500,000 saws to collect the money."

Mr. Millin then called a press conference in Vancouver, expressed "complete confidence" in Mr. McKee, declared all the money can be accounted for and announced a new venture was being launched to recoup losses.

Raised $250,000

The same day Mr. McKee was interviewed in Santa Rosa, Calif., where he had gone for a holiday that turned into a business trip. He said he raised $250,000, not $77,000, in Vancouver.

He also expressed confidence in the chain saw venture and declared he had a new mine in California which would produce large quantities of gold-bearing black sand.

Mr. McKee issued a statement saying:

"I am most thankful to say that we have now gotten this mine to within 60 days of starting producing and should be able to start payments on the notes this fall and payments in full within 18 months to two years.

"I want to ask those of you who are my friends, old and new, those of you who have believed in my integrity enough to lend me money in this manner, to trust me just a little longer and to help me a little further financially in the final effort."

diet!

A so-called saving of a cent or two can endanger your dog's health. He needs complete nourishment — not mere bulk — in his meals. That's why it pays to give your dog balanced nutrition in every meal with Dr. Ballard's Champion Dog Food.

Into every can of Dr. Ballard's Champion Dog Food go fresh, wholesome ingredients —all the known food elements he needs —a complete, scientifically balanced diet, developed by Dr. Ballard's veterinary experts.

DR. BALLARD'S Champion DOG FOOD

REGULAR Red label · CHICKEN Yellow label · LIVER Blue label

9 Nations Aid Ceylon Sugar Scheme

KANTALAI, Ceylon (CP)—Men and equipment from both sides of the Iron Curtain are at work in a unique $6,000,000 sugar-cane project in the jungles of northeastern Ceylon.

At least nine countries are participating in this 8,000-acre scheme, financed and managed by the Ceylonese themselves near the former Royal Navy base at Trincomalee. Completion of the factory, scheduled for the fall, will enable Ceylon to manufacture sugar for the first time.

Kantalai's unusual international combination includes a Canadian employed by the United Nations, Russian technicians, and Czechoslovak, Polish and Indian engineers. Iron Curtain equipment is used side by side with machinery from Britain, United States and Colombo-plan gifts from Canada and Australia.

E. H. W. Jayasekara, Ceylonese general manager who has guided the project since its start two years ago, expressed satisfaction at the way men from different countries work under him.

"There are distinct divisions of responsibilities," he said. "There is no room for friction."

CANADIAN NATIVE

Only Western expert at Kantalai is George Bryce, a native of Riverhurst, Sask., now working for the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO). He advises on the operation and maintenance of farm machinery and helped the Ceylonese clear 3,000 acres of jungle with British and American equipment before the government asked a Russian team to finish the job.

Today nine Russians, representing the first Soviet assistance in this Commonwealth country, are in charge of jungle clearing. They are training Ceylonese to use Russian bulldozers, often closely resembling the North American machines but usually not as well finished nor as efficient mechanically.

Ceylon foots the bill for the wages and expenses of the Russians, expected to stay in the country for one year. Russia offers long-term credit and machinery at low prices.

Thirteen Czechs and five Poles are supervising construction of the $4,000,000 sugar factory, which will be run by an Indian engineer when completed. All material is Czech-made except the steel structure and boilers which are Polish. A Czech engineer said his country's steel mills cannot meet the demand for orders.

MAPLE LEAFS

Canadian and Australian irrigation pumps, Australian tractors and Canadian panel trucks with maple leafs painted on the door—gifts under the Colombo Plan—now are in use at Kantalai.

At present Ceylon imports all her sugar, costing about $20,000,000 a year in foreign exchange. Kantalai is expected to meet one fifth of the island's requirements when it is in full production in four year's time—a saving of $2,000,000 a year in foreign exchange at today's sugar prices.

Roblin Enters Campaign

WINNIPEG (CP)—Premier Duff Roblin invades the stronghold of Liberal-Progressive Leader D. L. Campbell tonight to start his campaign for the May 14 Manitoba election.

Mr. Roblin will deliver his first major speech in Portage la Prairie, surrounded by the rural lakeside constituency where voters have decisively returned former premier Campbell since 1922.

However, when the Conservatives won power last year for the first time in 43 years, Tory John F. Bate put up a strong fight before bowing 2,119 to 1,582. Mr. Bate again is Mr. Campbell's opponent.

Former Leader Ready To Guide Radical Sons

Latest Move In Upheaval Of Douk Sect

KRESTOVA, B.C. (CP) — A new ruling body has not been appointed to control radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor affairs, members of a recently disposed 52-man fraternal said here Tuesday night.

The council was stripped of its powers last Sunday in a fiery meeting. Women members apparently took control and indicated individual leaders will not necessarily be named.

But at Trail, B.C., a former chairman of the religious sect said he is ready to again claim leadership of the minority Doukhobor sect.

The latest upheaval in the sect's governing body was sparked by failure of the council to gain the freedom of Freedomite children housed by the provincial government in a dormitory at New Denver, B.C., about 80 miles northwest of here.

More than 150 women crowded into a barn here which is used as a community hall and school, and berated the men for the lack of success. The women voted the council out of power.

Doukhobor children are taken to New Denver and placed under government control when parents refuse to obey school attendance laws. They are held until they are 15 years old.

Freedomites have labelled the dormitory a concentration camp.

OWN SCHOOLS

In a late attempt to win the children's freedom, the Sons established four schools of their own and taught lessons in Russian.

They asked the provincial government to recognize the schools and allow Freedomite children to attend.

The provincial government said it could not make a policy statement on the schools until it knew more about the curriculum, teaching staff and facilities.

Tuesday at Trail, John Lebedoff, deposed as chairman in 1951 by spiritual leader Stefan Sorokin, said he is again ready to take control of the group.

He said his followers would adhere to three main declarations:

1. Education in state schools for all Doukhobors up to the final elementary school grade.
2. Renunciation of violence, bombings and fires.
3. A sincere intention of settling down to an industrious agricultural life.

TO HELP NEEDY

Canada May Join Food Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada may join with other major exporting countries in a plan to distribute surplus wheat among needy nations of the world, particularly in Asia.

This, officials said Tuesday, is one of the ideas being canvassed in connection with the five-nation food-for-peace conference in Washington next month.

Tied in with the surplus-disposal idea is the suggestion of a world food bank, long one of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's cherished objectives.

In a Commons reply Tuesday to Opposition Leader Pearson, Mr. Diefenbaker said he hopes the bank proposal never outlined in detail will be considered at the Washington talks, to be held May 5-6

ARE EXPLORATORY ONLY

The conference, visualized in official quarters here as preliminary and exploratory, will be attended by cabinet-level representatives of Canada, Australia, Argentina, France and the United States. Trade Minister Churchill will likely head the Canadian delegation.

The ministerial meetings, preceded by talks at the official level April 27, mark a first step in implementing President Eisenhower's food-for-peace plan outlined in the president's message to Congress Jan. 29.

Ezra Taft Benson, U.S. secretary of agriculture at the conference, has said delegates will seek through joint consultation to develop "improved approaches" to surplus distribution and marketing.

It is estimated Canada will have a surplus of about 500,000,000 bushels at the end of the current crop year.

ALVIN HAMILTON
. . . hits at U.S.

Iron Ore Industry 'Captive'

MONTREAL (UPI)—Northern Affairs and Natural Resources Minister Hamilton Tuesday night launched a sharp attack on United States financial control of the Canadian iron ore industry.

He charged that because of this financial control by the United States, "there is no free market in iron ore — it is nearly all captive."

SOME CONTROL

The cabinet member, while admitting Canadians did control some important iron ore operations such as Dominion Wabana in Newfoundland, said the central fact remained that the industry to a large degree was externally controlled.

Mr. Hamilton said that Canada would be happier with this capital gain if the control were equally divided among 10 different countries.

"But it is not, it is concentrated in one country — the United States," he went on.

MORE AUTONOMY

He called on American firms operating in Canada through their subsidiaries to make their Canadian operations as truly Canadian as possible, and urged that American firms grant their Canadian subsidiaries greater operational autonomy.

Mr. Hamilton was addressing the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

Canadian scientists at McGill University and elsewhere are experimenting with the effect of hormones in cancer growth. Some researchers believe that an "imbalance" of the endocrine (ductless gland) system may have some bearing on the growth of malignant cells.

Alaska Governor Back on the Job

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — William A. Egan returned to Juneau Monday to assume the duties of governor of the 49th state. The 44-year-old Democrat and his wife flew here by plane from Seattle, where he had been convalescing from an emergency abdominal operation performed Jan. 20. At that time doctors gave him only a 50-50 chance to live.

VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, APRIL 15, 1959 21

Three Plays Start Festival Tonight

Four nights of live drama, involving a large proportion of Victoria's amateur thespians, starts at 8 this evening when the Southern Vancouver Island Drama Festival gets under way at Oak Bay Junior High School.

A program of three one-act plays will be seen at the opening session.

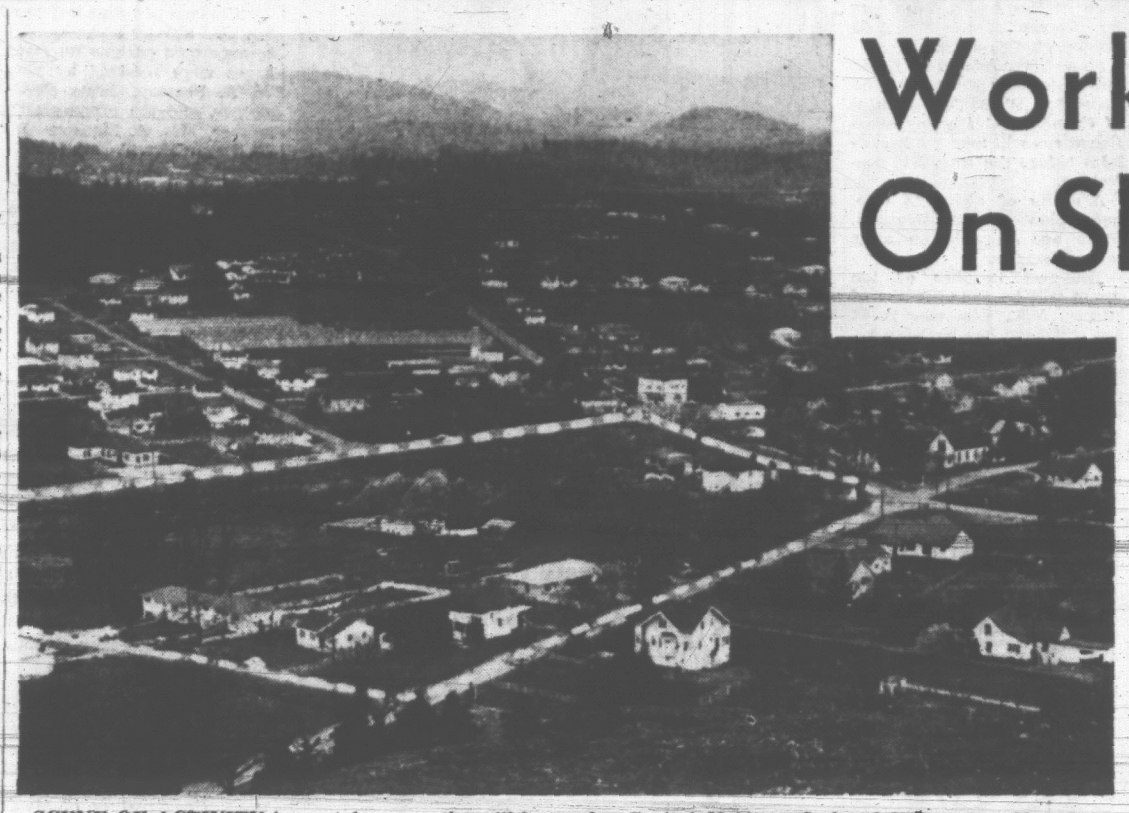

First will be St. Luke's Players with a costume drama, "Wayside War." A farce, "Prisoner of Love," will be presented by Fireside Players, and a tragic farce, "The Chairs," by Intimate Stage.

At the conclusion, brief comments will be made by adjudicator Antony Holland.

Thursday night, four plays will be seen. They are Victoria Theatre Guild's "Before the Flood," St. Andrew's Cathedral Players' "Return of Chandra," Columbine Players' "The Boor" and Royal Jubilee Hospital Nurses' Drama Club, "The Happy Journey."

Three best plays will be selected Friday night, for an honor performance Saturday, when best actor, best actress, best director and best play awards will be made.

The winning play will go to B.C. finals at Trail during the week of May 25 to 30.

SCENE OF ACTIVITY in next four months will be this 10-acre site bounded by Shelbourne, Cedar Hill Cross Road, Richmond and Pear Streets as outlined in white. A & B Construction Co., Nanaimo, will start work next week on $1,000,000 shopping centre for Capital Holdings Ltd., of Vancouver. Shopping centre will be spread over seven acres and is six-sided, skirting around houses on Cedar Hill Cross Road, Richmond and Pear Streets. There will be 800 feet frontage on Shelbourne. (Times Photo.)

Work Starting On Shop Centre

Nanaimo Builders On Cedar Hill Job

Work will begin next week on a $1,000,000 shopping centre at the southeast corner of Cedar Hill Cross Road and Shelbourne in Saanich, it was announced today.

A & B Construction Co. of Nanaimo will begin excavating the site and filling in a small creek which runs across the seven-acre property.

A company spokesman said first stores will be completed by the end of August.

More than 40 men will be employed at the peak of construction.

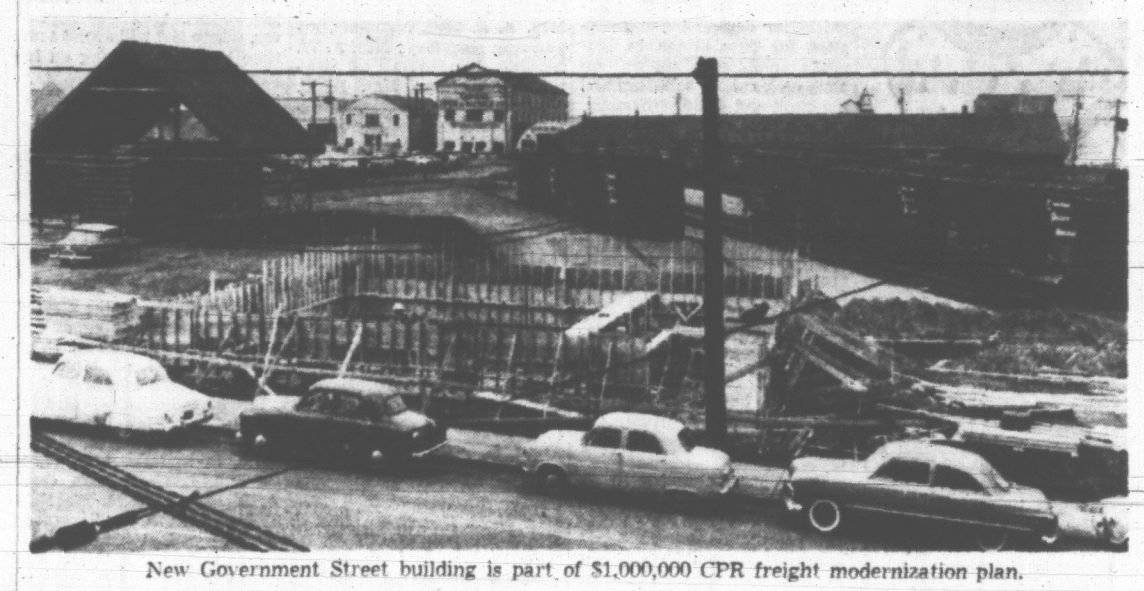

Main store will be a Shop-Easy supermarket. There also will be accommodation for a bank, restaurant, drug store, medical and dental offices, gas station and nine other stores.

The project is being developed by Capital Holdings Ltd. of Vancouver. W. H. Malkin Co., Vancouver, operators of Shop-Easy stores, will be the largest tenant in the centre.

ONE OF 10

Hillside-Cedar Hill Cross Road centre is one of 10 A & B is building throughout B.C. this year. Four of the units will arise on Vancouver Island, the rest in other parts of the province.

A & B has done a number of major construction jobs in the Victoria area. The company built the Safeway at Hillside and Quadra, an addition to the Ewing Building at Victoria College and rebuilt jetty B at the Dockyard.

$1 Million Freight Project

Streamlined freight handling facilities are being built by the CPR in Victoria, Nanaimo, Fort Alberni and Vancouver, at an estimated cost of $1,000,000.

The new terminal facilities will provide for integrated handling of all traffic other than carload now being handled by the railway, CP Express and the trucking subsidiary.

In Victoria a one-storey office building is being built on Government Street, at the Esquimalt and Nanaimo railway yard opposite the brewery.

Although it is a one-storey building, it is being constructed with a basement floor to be used in freight handling. Basement floor and main floor are each of 2,000 square feet.

SEPTEMBER START

New loading ramps have also been built, and when operations start here, probably in September, the terminal will handle six trailers, 14 pick-up and delivery trucks and four box cars.

Major expenditure in the modernization program will be at Vancouver, where $780,000 will be spent on a merchandise service terminal alongside freight and express sheds on West Pender Street.

A portion of these sheds will be demolished on completion of the new terminal. The office building fronting on Pender Street will be retained.

NEW TERMINAL

At Nanaimo, a new terminal is under construction to provide 2,300 square feet of office space and 4,800 square feet for the dock, with accommodation for 10 trailers, 10 pick-up and delivery trucks and two box cars.

New dock facilities at Port Alberni will handle five trailers and five pick-up and delivery trucks.

At all four terminals the most modern merchandise handling equipment, including conveyor belts, will be used to route shipments as quickly as possible.

Court Upholds $18,700 Award In Woman's Death

A Nanaimo jury's award of $18,700 for the death of Lois Christine Doran was upheld in B.C. Court of Appeal here Tuesday.

The appeal was heard before Chief Justice A. C. DesBrisay and Justices James M. Coady and Sidney A. Smith.

The appellant was Joseph Mellor of Vancouver. Mrs. Doran was killed at Nanoose Bay overpass on the Island Highway about 10 miles north of Nanaimo, April 4, 1957. She was in a car struck from behind by a vehicle driven by Mellor. Her auto left the highway and tumbled 40 or 50 feet to railway tracks below the bridge.

MONTE ROBERTS

Courtroom scene which I sincerely hope never happens to William Ostler, that nice new acting magistrate of ours:

FYDD: Here.

MAGISTRATE: Guilty or not guilty?

FYDD: Not guilty, like.

PROSECUTOR: This is an open and shut case, Your Honor. This man Fydd drove into the Fountain Circle and failed to yield the right of way to an automobile already in the Fountain Circle, thus causing an accident.

MAGISTRATE: Have you anything to say, Mr. Fydd?

FYDD: It's like the man says, see, I am driving along, I am driving into the Fountain Circle, there is this other car also driving in the Fountain Circle, we come together—bong, like that, you know what I mean?

MAGISTRATE: Did you or did you not yield to the other car?

FYDD: So why should I yield to the other car? So why shouldn't the other car yield to me, like? You know what I mean?

MAGISTRATE: Was the other car in the Fountain Circle ahead of you?

FYDD: Why of course, he was in the Circle, going roundabout like, when we come together—bong, like that, you know what I mean?

MAGISTRATE: Let's not go through that again. You admit the other car was in the Fountain Circle first, why didn't you yield the right of way?

FYDD: So he was in the Circle first, like, so that's why I didn't yield. You think I can't read or sumpun?

MAGISTRATE: What has reading to do with this charge?

FYDD: Why, ain't you never read the signs up by the Fountain Circle? In big white letters, like, right on the pavement?

MAGISTRATE: Of course I've read the signs. And if you had done the same, you wouldn't be in this courtroom.

FYDD: Whaddaya mean? I even memorized what the signs say: TRAFFIC CIRCLE TO YIELD. So if the traffic in the Circle is supposed to yield, why didn't this other car yield to me, like?

MAGISTRATE: No, no. You have it all wrong. The sign reads YIELD TO CIRCLE TRAFFIC.

FYDD: Cheese, what kind of a school did you get to, reading from the bottom up instead of the top down, like?

ROBINS ROBBED BY CROWS

Pirates are operating in the Inner Harbor area and Mrs. Rena Patenaude, 631 Superior, today appealed to city council to launch a campaign against them.

Crows are robbing eggs from robin's nests on ledges of the Empress Hotel and the Legislative Buildings, she said in a letter to City Hall.

Phone Manager To Run 'Chest'

Appointment of Eric Mallett, manager of the B.C. Telephone Co. here as campaign chairman for Greater Victoria's 1959 Community Chest drive was announced today by Justin Harbord, president.

Mr. Harbord made the announcement at a luncheon meeting of the board of directors in the Union Club. He said the directors were confident Mr. Mallett would give first-rate leadership.

Mr. Mallett said he is proud to take on the job.

"The work of the Community Chest, with its 20 agencies, contributes more to the well-being of the community than any other fund-raising organization," he said.

MORE TAXES

"Without it, the people of Greater Victoria would be faced with further tax burdens in order to take care of essential services run by the various agencies.

"Last year's campaign was exceedingly successful and it is my sincere hope that the same good people who served us last year will come forward again."

Mr. Mallett said the system of united giving was established in an effort to overcome repeated solicitations for funds which could become both a burden and an annoyance to the public.

"It is the aim of the Community Chest to increase the number of agencies served so that ultimately there will be only one drive throughout Greater Victoria each year."

This year's drive is expected to take place in September.

ERIC MALLETT

26% HIGHER DONATIONS APPLAUDED

Victoria's Community Chest has been commended for doing "a wonderful job" by George Hart of Ottawa, executive secretary of the community funds division, Canadian Welfare Council.

During last year's drive Victoria, like many other centres, fell short of its goal. But Mr. Hart noted that the district's donations increased 26 per cent over the previous year.

"This is an excellent effort on Victoria's part considering the national average for increased donations was only eight per cent," Mr. Hart said.

Mr. Hart is here to advise the local organization on the best way to improve drives and agency operations in the future.

THURSDAY MEETINGS

Rotary: 12.10 p.m., Empress Hotel. B.C. Penitentiary Warden F. C. B. Cummins speaks on "Penitentiaries."

Optimist: 12.10 p.m., Pacific Club.

Cosmopolitan Club: 6.45 p.m., James Bay Hotel.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A marked improvement over the rainy weather of Tuesday is due for Victoria, weatherman William Mackie said today.

There will be sunshine late this afternoon and mostly clear skies tonight, he said. Thursday morning will be cloudy, but the rest of the day will be "mostly sunny," he said.

Temperatures will vary between 33 and 40 degrees throughout Greater Victoria tonight, and the maximum Thursday will be 57 degrees. Wind will be northerly at 15 miles per hour.

Butchart's world-famous gardens are now opened to the public between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Visitors to the gardens this week will see nisasses of tulips at the height of their spring beauty, and many beds of primroses and hyacinths.

Equally as attractive at this time of the year are the many flowering trees and shrubs.

Esquimalt Golden Age Club has elected Mrs. A. McVie as 1959 president. Other officers are M. Pilcher, vice-president; E. Strawson, secretary, and J. Hudnut, treasurer.

The annual meeting also voted donations of $25 to the Royal Jubilee Hospital building campaign and $7 to the Silver Threads Service to help purchase a washing machine.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Would you please tell me the origination of the movie "Oscar" awards, and why the name? H.D.S.

A. The gold-plated figurine awarded annually by the American Academy of Motion Pictures and Sciences for the best film acting, writing or production of the year started in 1927. In 1931 the present executive secretary of the academy, Mrs. Margaret Herrick, was a librarian with the academy. On seeing the nameless gold statue for the first time she exclaimed, "It reminds me of my Uncle Oscar"—and the name stuck.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

Painter Wins Support for Drive To Stop Wanton Flower Picking

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

One of Victoria's most valuable tourist attractions is threatened by the wanton picking of flowers.

Many people agree with painter Emily Sartain that the public should be educated not to destroy this asset by picking any flower which takes their fancy.

This week is Wild Life Week throughout Canada but every week should be Wild Life Week in Victoria, said Miss Sartain in a letter to the Victoria Times.

THOUGHTLESS

"The very thing which makes Victoria so beautiful is fast being destroyed by thoughtless people," Miss Sartain wrote.

Since her letter appeared Miss Sartain has had dozens of letters and phone calls from local citizens who feel as she does.

"Many of these people tell me they have trained their children not to pick wild flowers," she said, "and our local schoolteachers are helping in this direction."

INSPIRING

Dr. Adam Szczawinski, provincial botanist, described Miss Sartain's letter as "an inspiration".

"It is particularly important that the public should not pick the white lilies," he said. "If they are left alone the white lilies go to seed and then multiply.

"Already we have lost some fine natural displays of white lilies through wanton picking."

Mrs. J. S. Winthrop, who came here from England four years ago, said she had noticed parties of children "competing" to see who could pick the most flowers in Victoria parks.

"There should be a law against this," she said. "Our wild flowers are the most valuable tourist asset we have."

At present dogwood, trillium and rhododendrons are protected by law.

Mrs. Chris Phillips of 1166 Rhoda Lane, said one of the first things that attracted her to Victoria were the wild flowers.

"It would be a tragedy if we lost them," she said. "I think everyone should co-operate in helping to preserve our flowers."

TAKE YOUR CHOICE

Cigaret Price Here Still Unsettled

Cigaret prices were all over the place today . . . and different in virtually every place.

Latest change, following an increase in excise tax laid down in the federal budget, saw two brands selling in Victoria cheaper than in Vancouver.

A leading tobacco wholesaler reported that some stores today are selling Vogue and Daily Mail packages of 20 at 33 cents plus two cents tax.

Other brands are selling for 37 cents plus two cents tax.

B.C. Cigaret Vending Service Ltd. of Victoria says it will sell ordinary brands for 39 cents. To avoid complicated and costly changes in the coin systems of its machines, the company will require the buyer to insert 40 cents and will give a package of matches with each pack of cigarets in lieu of a penny change.

Keating Centre Focal Point For Big Civil Defence Test

The B.C. civil defence control centre at Keating Cross Road will be the focal point of a province-wide exercise planned for April 24 and 25.

Liaison officers from headquarters, B.C. area, at Vancouver; from the PPCLI at Work Point, and from the Royal Canadian School of Engineering, Chilliwack, will assist CD officials at the control centre.

At 8 a.m., April 24, 500 members of the PPCLI, commanded by Lt. Col. James Allen, will leave Victoria for a mobile support column exercise at Duncan, including evacuation drill, traffic control, and rescue operations.

Both 25 Militia Group headquarters in Victoria and 25 Militia Group HQ in Vancouver will take part in the exercises.

The army teletype system across Canada will operate for 24 hours during the exercise and army signal equipment will link control centres at Victoria, Abbotsford, Chilliwack and Vancouver.

Handy New Grooming Aid—Scissors-Handled Tweezers

By PENNY SAVER

A neat, clear eyebrow line means so much to a woman's appearance. Don't neglect yours just because your tweezers aren't adequate. Did you know that special tweezers are made just for eyebrow plucking? They have scissors handles—for extra strength. Easy to manoeuvre, the handles are curved, so your hand is out of the way and vision is clear for the delicate and tricky job. Tips meet exactly, and always stay in line because they are precision made.

For the odd unsightly single dark hair that most women have under the chin, or growing below the hair line on the face, these are specially helpful. Pair of scissors-handled tweezers cost only 50 cents.

Another good-grooming aid is here for the woman who dislikes the fuss and caution necessary when using a razor, or who is allergic to wax hair removers. A washable, mild emery cloth mitten solves the problem very nicely, indeed. Skin is rubbed with cold cream. Slip mitt on the hand like a glove, and lightly—and gently—rub the hair off. A circular motion works best. No hard rubbing or pressure allowed!

Results will last from 10 days to two weeks. Mitten is 25 cents, a marvellous saving over other excess hair-removing methods.

If your little girl has a pony tail or pigtails, a rubber hair band is made especially for her. It's designed to save a lot of time. Mother will probably use these hair holders herself, if her own hair is done in a smart and flattering chignon or bun.

Fashioned of heavy duty elastic they are made for hair holding without tears. Wrap length around hair, then just pull arrowhead tip through loop of other end. The double band holds hair securely, stays locked, and won't slip . . . ever. Release by simply pulling tape. This holder has all the good qualities of a rubber band, but eliminates the grief.

Inexpensive, a bag of 10 is 25 cents.

Planning a new home permanent? Short on curlers? Don't fret. Buy the money-saving refill (no curlers provided) and eke out your curler supply with a card of six you can buy for 29 cents. Good for any home permanent, these will really keep your costs down.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The Men Are Having Their Day in Fashions

Shades of Grandfather's long underwear and black undertaker ties! They are a far cry from today's bikini undershorts and tuxedos in brilliant colors.

I might as well warn the gals that times are changing—and I, for one, am glad of it. For much too long men have been burdened with clothes which were very heavy and very dull.

Because of the men who read this column, and their wives who are so interested in the way they look, I felt fortunate to be present at the first national male fashion show ever to be held in the United States.

We women have had our day with "The New Look," "The Empire Style," "The Sack" and so forth, and now the men have theirs. It is called "The Continental." Yep! They are catching up with us fast.

Over the past few years there has been a noticeable shift away from the old, conservative, never-changing masculine styles to more colorful and varied attire. This is all to the good. I feel sure that more color and variety in style is restful as a change of pace to men just as it is to women.

As for wives, they love to see their husbands dressed attractively and appropriately, that is, unless they are the jealous type and feed their spouses whipped cream and such in order to make them less appealing to other females. I do not believe there are very many of these.

Recently there has been quite a swing toward Ivy League clothes and while this style suits many men and many moods and many occasions, the extreme Ivy League may look a bit strange when worn by an older man at business.

Men are no different from women in that they cannot look their best in any fashion unless they rid themselves of overweight. If you would like to have my 12-Day Tubby Hubby slimming diet, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

HUSBANDS TRAVELLING TO CONFERENCE

OTTAWA (CP) — Several husbands and a 13-year-old girl will go along with Canada's 90 delegates to a conference of the Associated Country Women of the World in Edinburgh this summer.

Mrs. J. W. Adams of Ethelton, Sask., tour director for the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada said Monday some Canadians will tour the British Isles before the Aug. 3-16 conference.

A group of about 15 delegates plan to visit Brussels, Paris and Copenhagen after the conference.

Youngest member of the group will be Jane Steeves of Surrey, N.B., who now is 12 but will have her birthday before she leaves for Scotland. She will act as a messenger during conference sessions.

IODE Gives Service, Money

Grand total of 19,142 hours of volunteer service and a sum of $44,310.88 was given by IODE chapters in the province for service at home and abroad in the past year.

Reporting at this morning's session of the 46th annual meeting of Provincial Chapter, IODE, the secretary, Mrs. G. H. Tresidder, said $1,055.46 had been used in remembrance of those who gave their lives in defence of the Empire; $3,081.38 for equipment and supplies for furnishings in hospitals, children's wards, orphanages, cancer solarium and for blind and senior citizens.

Four thousand, eight hundred and seventeen dollars was spent on clothing and bedding for needy at home and overseas. A special appeal for children's clothing at Crawford Bay and Fort St. John brought donations valued at $180. Value of clothing and bedding for needy and welfare cases in local areas was reported as $19,985.03.

Food was distributed, nursery bags sent overseas, supplies given to burnt-out families, cancer dressings made and toys given to retarded children.

Donations amounting to $2,450 were made to summer camps, the blind, girls' home and Woodlands School.

Members from 30 chapters in the lower mainland area have manned a coffee bar in the Solarium at the B.C. Cancer Institute throughout the year, Mrs. Frank Stead, secretary of the Jessie R. Burke Memorial (Cancer Fund), reported this morning.

Other reports were given by Mrs. J. N. Keen, civil defence; Mrs. J. H. Hall, standard bearer; Mrs. C. McMurtrie, Empire and world affairs.

Reports of Municipal Chapter at Vancouver, Victoria, Burnaby, Chilliwack, Prince Rupert and New Westminster were given this afternoon. Mrs. A. C. Coles, provincial secretary, summarized reports of isolated chapters.

Wedding Gown of Taffeta Worn By Bernice Burley

A shimmering white taffeta gown was worn by bride Miss Bernice Marion Burley for her wedding in the Metropolitan United Church recently. Full-length dress was fashioned with a scooped neckline appliqued with flowers encrusted with rhinestones and pearls. The bodice was styled with a high Empire waistline and long lily-point sleeves. The wide skirt was posed over a hoop. Her circular veil was held in place by a matching Juliet cap. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and lily of the valley and wore a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Wilfred Thomas Burley, Estevan Avenue, and the late Mrs. Burley and her groom, Robert Melvin Rumsby, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Rumsby, of Maddock Avenue, East.

Dr. F. E. H. James conducted the double ring ceremony in a setting of white stocks and pink gladioli.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Gowns of organza were worn by attendants, Mrs. Darrell Burley, matron of honor; Mrs. Jack Harding and Mrs. Ronald Henning, bridesmatrons. Fashioned in waltz-length, the aqua-toned dresses had fitted bodices, scooped necklines and bouffant skirts. They wore aqua feather bandeaux and carried bouquets of white iris and feathered carnations.

Best man was Burton Rumsby and ushers were Darrell Burley, Chuck Brown and Jack Harding.

Alexander Allen, Tacoma, Wash., proposed the toast at a reception in St. Alban's Church hall. A wedding cake made by Mrs. R. Grant, centred the bridal table. It was cut with a sword which belonged to the grandfather of the groom.

Leaving on a wedding trip in the United States, the new Mrs. Rumsby donned a navy blue suit with navy accessories and white coat with a corsage of pink roses.

They will live in Victoria.

Fete Bride-Elect

Miss Annlyn Florence was feted at a shower given by Mrs. H. McDougall, at her Parker Avenue home, recently. Co-hostess was Mrs. R. Macmurchie. Orchid corsages were presented to the bride-elect, her mother, Mrs. W. J. Florence, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. A. Lambrick. Gifts were concealed in a miniature house, duplicate of the affianced couple's own new home. Guests were Mrs. F. Campion, Mrs. F. Drysdale, Mrs. W. Holman, Mrs. J. Wilkinson, Mrs. W. Geddie, Mrs. I. Watson, Mrs. M. Lambrick, Mrs. J. Sedgman, Mrs. M. Sedgman, Mrs. P. Evans, Mrs. R. Sedgman, Mrs. E. Sedgman, Mrs. B. Viggers, Mrs. B. Miller, Mrs. L. Main, Mrs. J. McKenzie, Mrs. J. Lambrick, Mrs. A. Florence, Mrs. C. Lambrick, Mrs. C. Simpson, Mrs. C. Burnett, Mrs. K. Lambrick, Mrs. A. Lewis, Mrs. B. Mathews, Mrs. E. McDougall, Mrs. H. Campion, Mrs. J. McDougall, Mrs. H. McKenzie, Mrs. W. Blair, Mrs. S. Geddie, Jr., Mrs. M. Smith, Mrs. M. McKenzie, Port Alberni, and the Misses B. Ford, V. Lassally, San Salvador; M. Smith, Dos Palos, Calif.; H. Main, C. Lambrick, C. Florence, S. Miller, B. Macmurchie, V. Rose, J. Lewis and A. Miller.

PRESENT FASHIONS ON FRIDAY

Mrs. R. C. Nichols, Mrs. J. Gillespie, Mrs. C. B. Jameson and little Miss Moragh Jameson, left to right, will be among a group of models presenting fashions at a coffee party and an afternoon tea arranged by Metropolitan United Church Women's Association in Pendray Hall this Friday. Fashion presentations will be from the T. Eaton Company and proceeds will be used for work of the church. Coffee party is at 11 a.m. and tea will be served at 3 p.m. Other mannequins will be Mrs. A. M. Holder, Nona Damaske, Sheila Morgan, Mrs. C. Margison and Mrs. G. A. Brebner.

Newlyweds to Live In Alberta

To make their home in Namao, Alta., where the groom is stationed with the Royal Canadian Air Force, are newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Tames.

St. Paul's Naval Garrison Church, Esquimalt, was setting for the wedding in which Patricia Elaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart of Meade Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Tames of Saltair, exchanged vows. Rev. J. A. Roberts conducted the ceremony in a church decorated with baskets of pink tulips, fern and daffodils.

Master David Palmer was organist.

The bride was escorted up the aisle by her father. She was wearing a gown of white nylon chiffon posed over taffeta. The strapless bodice was topped with a fine lace jacket fashioned with a tiny stand-up collar and lily-point sleeves. Bouffant skirt flowed gracefully to floor length. Her finger tip veil of net embroidered at the edge misted from a coronet of sequins and pearls. Her only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and pink roses.

Daffodil yellow and orchid tone were colors of gowns worn by maid of honor Miss Christine McDonald and Miss Sandra Bloomfield. Fashioned in princess lines, the dresses were of embossed organza over net and taffeta. Both wore floral bandeaux and carried bouquets of white carnations and pink roses.

William Burgess was best man, and ushers were James Moody and Robert Tames.

Gordon Eaton, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast at a reception in the Wallace Room, Holyrood House. Daffodils and ferns decorated the room and the bridal table was centred with a three-tier cake made by the groom's mother.

A red chiffon velvet sheath-style dress was worn by the bride for travelling on honeymoon to Washington state. She topped it with a black duster coat and white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

CLUB WOMEN'S NEWS

Scholarship — Oak Leaf Junior Chapter, IODE, voted a sum of $50 to the Music Scholarship Fund to send a student to Banff School of Fine Arts this summer, at their recent meeting. Regent Miss Glenda Gordon presided. A sum of $10 was also voted to Royal Jubilee Hospital building fund.

Speaker — Curator of Victoria Art Gallery, Colin Graham spoke on the future of the gallery and the possible ways in which weavers might co-ordinate their work with that of other craftsmen at a recent meeting of the Victoria Handweavers' Guild. Mrs. C. M. Thomson was new member welcomed. Mrs. A. G. Kinnis, exhibitions chairman, reported plans for exhibiting guild work at an Alberta crafts exhibition in Calgary and Edmonton and the Silver Jubilee exhibition to be held in June.

Delegates — Mrs. A. Cluff, Mrs. E. Webster, Mrs. L. Melauder and Mrs. I. Williams were named delegates to attend Provincial Grand Lodge sessions of Loyal True Blue Association in Abbotsford, May 2, at a recent meeting of the Capital City No. 303 LTB Association. Mrs. Cluff presided, assisted by Mrs. Melauder. Mrs. A. Edmonds, provincial grand mistress of LTD, addressed the group. There were seven new candidates initiated.

Apron Sale—A sum of $80 was realized at an Old Age Pensioners' organization, Salt Spring Branch, apron sale and tea, held in the Legion Hall, at Ganges. The president, Mrs. F. Gunterman, welcomed the guests, and luncheon and afternoon tea were convened by Mrs. J. Zetterburg, Mrs. E. Parkes and Mrs. M. Martin.

Shower—Plans were made at a meeting of the Anglican Woman's Auxiliary, at Ganges, Salt Spring Island, for a donation shower in the Parish Hall, at Ganges, on April 24. Fifty dollars was voted to St. George's porch fund; $25 to the Anglican Theological College; $25 to St. Mary's Guild (Fulford), and $20 to Mrs. V. Jackson for Dorcas work. Mrs. G. H. Holmes presided and reported on a parcel sent to Rev. D. Whitbread and Mrs. Whitbread (nee Miss Pat Thompson, of Salt Spring) who are prayer partners of the auxiliary at Spence in the Arctic. Mrs. H. Price reported on a diocesan meeting; Archbishop Holmes took devotions and Mrs. A. W. Barber and Mrs. W. Palmer were tea hostesses.

Elderly Find Welcome Room Happy Spot

There was an attendance of 457 with one new member at Women's Welcome Room in February and 473 with a new member in March, it was reported by Mrs. J. Boyle at meeting of the committee held recently. Sixty-two donations of cakes, cookies, other supplies and cash were reported for the two months.

Women's Welcome Room, which is a meeting place for elderly, lonely women, is dependent on voluntary contributions. There is no membership fee and no charge of any sort is made to members. A group of hostesses volunteer time daily, except Wednesdays, to serve tea, cookies or bread and butter for lunch and teatime.

It was reported at the meeting that profits from a small rummage sale organized by the hostesses will go toward expenses of the room.

Women's Institutes Meeting in Qualicum

QUALICUM BEACH — One hundred and thirty-two members, delegates and guests gathered in the community hall here Tuesday morning for the North Vancouver Island District Women's Institutes conference. Mrs. J. P. McMillan, president, was in the chair.

Delegates from 15 out of a total of 19 Up-island branches were present, representing Qualicum Beach, Parksville, Campbell River, Bella Bella, Mudge Island, Bow Horne, Courtenay, Denman Island, Dove Creek, Gabriola Island, Hornby Island, Kla-Anch, Lasqueti Island, Lazo and Sayward.

Numbered among guests-of-honor were: Mrs. J. O. Decker, Pemberton, B.C., provincial president; Mrs. E. G. Woodward, Brentwood Bay, provincial director; Mrs. E. Robinson, Victoria, president of the South Island District Board; Mrs. G. M. Young, Comox, secretary-treasurer, North Island; Mrs. C. Coates, Gabriola Island director; Mrs. V. Arthurs, Hornby Island director; Mrs. J. Smith, Lazo United Nations and international exchange program for Provincial W.I.

Resolutions presented by Mrs. Morris Taylor during the morning session and passed by the meeting ran the gamut through such weighty matters as: proposed full citizenship for B.C. Indians; alterations in School Board Act to enable spouses of ratepayers to seek election; compulsory inspection and certification of road worthiness prior to sale of all used cars; improvement in quality of spool thread and prevention of access by beetles to spice containers.

Eye-appealing, tongue-tantalizing dessert planned to tempt appetities during spring days.

Oranges Used in Dessert

Here's a recipe that's been developed for effortless preparation . . . a gourmet's taste . . . and a budget-minded homemaker's delight. It's made with oranges that are at their peak of perfection and so plentiful in the markets right now . . . a baker's sponge cake . . . sour cream that's been subtly seasoned with creme de menthe (or mint flavoring) and spiked with fresh lemon juice. Glamorous and easy! Try it and see for yourself.

ORANGE DELIGHT

One baker's sponge cake, 1 cup orange chunks (sweetened), ½ cup sour cream, 1 to 2 tablespoons creme de menthe or 1 to 2 drops mint flavoring, 1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice, 1 teaspoon sugar, green maraschino cherries.

Put sweetened orange chunks on top of sponge cake. Combine sour cream, creme de menthe (or mint flavoring and a few drops of green food coloring), lemon juice and sugar. Top cake with sauce and garnish with cherries. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

DEAR ABBY . . .

A Pinch, a Jab, a Nudge

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Dear Abby: Please help us teen-aged girls who don't know what to do when these middle-aged (and older) men hug and squeeze us and even kiss us in an overly-friendly way. They are usually friends of our families and respected members of the community, so we can't just haul off and slap their faces. I am getting sick and tired of being pawed by these old geezers who say, "My, you're getting pretty!" while they pat and pinch me. Their wives can be two feet away but they make it look innocent by putting on the fatherly act. What can we girls do? NAUSEATED.

Dear Nauseated: When you see one of these old wolves with a lecherous look in his eye give him the straight arm even if it takes a little fancy footwork. (Too bad the hat pin went out.)

Dear Abby: I have been happily married for nine years and we never had children. I went to a doctor and found out I could never have a child of my own so we want to adopt a baby. When I was young and foolish (12) I ran with a wrong crowd and another girl and myself were picked up for shoplifting. We were sent to a reform school for punishment. Abby, my husband knows this and tells me that the adoption agency will probably hold that against us. Do you think one foolish mistake I already paid for would stand in our way of having an adopted baby? I pray every night it won't matter. ASHAMED TO SIGN MY NAME.

Dear Ashamed: Each adoption agency has its own regulations. Answer their questions honestly and if they are satisfied that you meet the qualifications, you have nothing to fear.

Dear Abby: My problem is that I am married to a man who is married to the company he works for. He brings home work every night and never seems to forget his job. I wouldn't mind this if they would show their appreciation and give him a raise or a promotion. How can I get my husband to pay more attention to me and forget about his job when he is at home? IGNORED.

Dear Ignored: Occasionally a man will have "homework," but the well-organized businessman does not have to bring his work home every night. Perhaps he's working nights in self-defence. Cultivate some interesting friends and encourage a little social life. When he finds something more interesting to do, he'll put away his work.

Dear Abby: I am in love with a girl but I can't bring myself to ask her to marry me because she is pathetically overweight. I mean about 70 or 80 pounds. How can I tell her to reduce? BOYD.

Dear Boyd: Are you kidding? Tell her you love her, but there is too much of her to love.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

LAS VEGAS—"C'mup and see me," Mae West said with a wiggle-waggle in her voice and then, just to show you how she's changed, she added, "in a bout an hour, honey."

It was about 6 p.m. and Mae was in a pink nightgown, negligee, or whatever it's called now. She wasn't up high anywhere but on the first floor of the Sahara and she had a surprise for me. And I had one for her.

"They want me to do this TV May 3 for Dean Martin and Bob Hope," Mae said. "They're two good men. But it depends on material. I have to have a certain kind of material." (Dean says she's signed "and she's going to give us a lot of viewers. I hope she keeps it clean because I want to be on some more.")

I asked the great siren of the 1930s and early 1940s how much TV she's done. "Just the one with Rock Hudson for the Academy and that was the talk of the whole world. It was when we did Baby, It's Cold Outside.' They even bootlegged that in Italy and other places. Just that little bit of film—only about two minutes."

"Do you remember the time you got practically barred from radio because of the program you did with Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy?"

Mae's bosom shook when she laughed about it.

"I didn't write that," she reminded me. "Arch Oboler wrote an Adam and Eve sketch. Don Ameche played Adam. It stopped traffic."

I had come to tell Mae that something new in the falsie line had been developed—entire false fronts (approximately half a false girl) are being worn by chorus girls in the Burl Ives show at the Flamingo.

Girls bounce out with their tummies and torsos covered with a very thin mesh. Under the mesh appears to be—on each girl—the most perfect front ever beheld by man.

While the customers are marveling that anybody should have found such perfectly molded young maidens, the girls peel off the false fronts which are made of plastic and rubber and fit down to the hips.

Under the false fronts the young ladies are shapely but not that shapely, and they're also modestly covered.

This spoof on the nude show trend in Vegas was created by a talented young designer and choreographer named Barry Ashton, an Englishman.

First given his big chance by Beldon Katleman at El Rancho Vegas, he's spread out and now selling these false fronts to other shows — he thinks women in ordinary walks of life might like these instead of mere falsies. If they like wigs, why not?

"I guess they'd be all right for girls who need such things," Mae West said. "Personally, I never have."

HOMEBREW TALENT

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Conference announced today the signing of three "Canadians"—End Steve Bendiak, tackle Mike Volcan and lineman Steve Kmech.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy" Victoria Daily Times

Where Does Andy Get His Answers?

Old Andy, as you know, claims to be a pixie and pixies are supposed to do out-of-the-ordinary tricks. However, there is nothing out of the ordinary about how Andy answers your questions. He goes about it the same way you or anybody else would go about solving a problem.

When he starts to answer a question he is just as interested in it and just as curious about it as you are. Even if he has studied the subject in detail, the proper answer is not on the top of his head. Each question is special and it deserves a special answer.

The first step is detective work, a job which Andy likes to call Research. Books are very handy at this stage and Andy has a vast supply of up-to-date books written by experts. These experts know the latest things in their various fields. Unfortunately they do not always state what they know in everyday language. What's more, they often tend to gloss over the many things which neither they nor anyone else knows as yet.

Snags of this type make it hard for you to find the answers to your questions for yourself—which is why Andy tries to help you out.

Andy is never content with one written report, no matter how expert it is. Sometimes he studies 20 different reports to find the answer you want. As you can imagine, there are times when he becomes as baffled as you would be. But his notebook helps, and finally the various clues begin to fall into a pattern and the answer is clear.

Written for Proper Age

The next step calls for what is known as local color. Neither you nor Andy are interested in a list of dry-as-dust facts. It so happens that Andy has a number of friends who work as experts in the various fields in which you are interested. Chances are, he will now have a chat with this one about insects or that one about meteorology—which is weather study. The subject matter to go into the answer is now clear in Andy's head and he has pages of notes on hand to aid him.

It is time now to restudy the question and the letter or card on which it is written. He notes the age of the young person. If he or she is 10 years old the answer will be written for all 10-year-olds. Nobody has had time to learn many long words in 10 years. Long words are for teen-agers. They have had time to learn them and naturally enjoy using them. Andy tries to write the answer for the person who asked it and his friends.

Andy has another advantage. He travels a great deal. You may be quite sure he has visited your town more than once and he knows your province or state. He has these facts in mind when he writes and you have noticed how often he mentions your town. Your home town is especially dear to him.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Rae McCutcheon, age nine, of Havelock, Ontario, for his question:

What are snow crystals?

A large puffy snowflake is made of a number of snow crystals. In a cool cloud water vapor, which is a gas, turns into tiny fragments of ice. These fragments are too small for our eyes to see. But they tend, to gather in groups. When tiny fragments gather together in this way we say that they form crystals.

Crystals form in certain patterns. Crystals of frozen water vapor always form into a delicate six-sided design. Tiny pockets of air trapped between the specks of ice and the ice itself join together to give the snow crystals a frothy white appearance. In one dainty six-sided snow crystal there are millions of ice fragments and perhaps millions of air pockets.

Sometimes a single snow crystal, dainty as a doily, falls as a small snowflake. But larger snowflakes are bundles of snow crystals.

Forest Farm Applications Open Tuesday

The hearing, at the Legislative Buildings, will be on the application of Canadian Forest Products, Ltd., for a tree farm operation in the Nimpkish Valley area.

Mr. Williston will hear an application for a similar licence from the Powell River Co., May 5. Both applications had been tentatively approved by the late Mr. Sloan, prior to his death in January.

Mr. Williston announced earlier that he would conduct all future hearings until a new forestry adviser is appointed.

Canada Escort Ships Given to Belgium

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—The Canadian government has given Belgium two converted coastal escort vessels to be renamed Lecointe and Dufour—the defence ministry said Tuesday.

TRAFFIC FINES

In Saanich police court Tuesday:

Edmund Keith Adkin, 1641 Cedar, $35 for careless driving and $50 for driving while under suspension.

Edgard J. Jensen, Ophir, $25 for speeding over 30 and $25 for violation of driver's licence restriction.

Base Set Up On Arctic Ice Floe

ALPHA TWO, Arctic Ocean (AP) — Ice Skate, a cold weather scientific mission with military overtones, was launched Tuesday on this tiny block of ice in the barren Arctic.

Two C-124 four-engine Globemaster planes parachuted 22 tons of equipment, food and shelter to a small contingent of air force men and navy scientists from California who will study meteorology, hydrology, oceanography and what animal and fish life there is.

Russia has two similar stations and is landing a third within 100 miles of Alpha Two, successor to Alpha One, an ice island which broke up last November and had to be evacuated.

EXPERTS AT WORK ON SAGE'S VISION

Shaw's Simple Alphabet May Be Reality This Year

LONDON (CP) — George Bernard Shaw's dream of a new and simplified English alphabet may become a reality this year.

A team of English language experts now is in the process of wading through 450 suggested designs, all with more than 40 letters, and later this year will decide which one, if any, will fulfill Shaw's dream.

If the suggestions of the late Irish dramatist are followed, the chosen alphabet will have at least 16 letters with vowel sounds, and no one sound will require more than one letter. Shaw never did like "PH" being used for an "F" sound, and he thought the word "though" was a "wild absurdity."

His will, published in 1951 a year after he died at the age of 94, specified that as much money as necessary could be taken from his estate to cover the development of his alphabet. The remainder of the estate, then worth £367,237, was to be divided among the British Museum, the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art and the National Gallery of Ireland.

LEGAL SQUABBLE

The alphabet project was hung up for six years while the museum and the Royal Academy successfully argued in a court action that it could not be carried out as specified. Would-be language reformers launched an appeal, but before it was heard in 1957 a compromise agreement was reached whereby the alphabet project received £8,300 from the estate.

By this time the value of the estate had risen to £716,000 as royalties kept coming in from Shaw's works. The biggest contribution came from My Fair Lady, a musical version of Pygmalion that has earned about £250,000 in royalties since it first opened three years ago.

When the will was eventually settled in 1957, the enlarged estate was divided among the British Museum, the Royal Academy and the National Gallery, but a spokesman at the public trustee's office refuses to say if royalties will continue to go to these beneficiaries. "We consider this a private affair and do not disclose details," he said.

NO FAST CHANGE

Although the new alphabet is expected to be put in writing some time this year, nobody expects it to get widespread usage for a long time. Language experts have said it would take generations to change over to an entirely new way of writing. And the trustees' office says this new alphabet will have little resemblance to the existing one.

When the office called for designs a year ago it said that, besides having at least 40 letters, the alphabet must save time, energy and paper; it must be convenient to write and easy to read. The practical problems of topography must also be taken into account.

8 IN 8 DAYS

Rash of Murders Keeps Yard Busy

LONDON (UPI) — Scotland Yard's famous murder squad faced the heaviest challenge in its history today with eight murders in eight days including the sex slaying of a pretty 12-year-old girl.

Murder in Britain is rare—though often spectacular when it happens. In a normal year London has an average of 22 although it is the world's second largest city. In the first three months of this year there have already been 12.

But eight murders in just over a week has never happened before, and although most of them are outside London where Scotland Yard is centred, the celebrated crime fighting organization is always on call to other municipalities.

The latest victim, schoolgirl Janice Holmes, was intercepted by a sex-maniac as she hurried home to see a television show and raped and strangled.

Carpenters' Wages Conciliator Named

The British Columbia labor department has appointed G. A. Carmichael, of Vancouver, as conciliation officer in a dispute between the Victoria Building Industries Exchange and 300 carpenters, represented here by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners in America, Local 1598. The dispute centres on wages but involves other terms of employment.

EDWARD G. ROBINSON TO ACT IN EOKA MOVIE

ATHENS, Greece (Reuters)—American movie actor Edward G. Robinson will play Gen. George Grivas in a movie being prepared by the Greek-Cypriot EOKA underground and its leaders, it was learned Tuesday.

Instructor Course Set by Red Cross

Persons completing the course will receive Royal Life Saving bronze medallions and will be qualified to teach swimming and to take positions as lifeguards on beaches.

The course consists of five lessons to be held on Sunday April 19, Saturday April 25, Sunday April 26, Saturday May 2 and Sunday May 3.

The classes will be under the instruction of Dr. Max Howell of the University of British Columbia; Richard Mitchell, provincial chairman of Water Safety; Andy Wong, Victoria examiner and well-known member of Victoria Chinatown Lions Club, assisted by Mrs. Eleanor Curtis and PO Al Aylward.

STRONG SWIMMERS

Any fairly strong swimmer is elegible to take the course. Applications should be made direct to Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street.

The Canadian Red Cross Society trains about 20 instructors in Victoria every year and the percentage of successful candidates is high.

Many women take the course in order to teach their own children and those of neighbors. The instructors conduct private classes and teach at camps all over B.C.

Last year instructors travelled by boat to Thetis Island, by plane to Ucluelet and by car to most parts of Vancouver Island.

Judge Blames 2 Ships In Strait Collision

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice Sidney Smith of the British Columbia Admiralty Court Tuesday found the oil tanker Britamerican and the fishing vessel Ocean Cape equally at fault for a collision last Sept. 30 in Johnstone Strait.

The Ocean Cape was towed by another fishing vessel, the Cape George, to Knox Bay on West Thurlow Island in Johnstone Strait, following the collision, where repairs were made, after which the vessel continued to Seattle.

Mr. Justice Smith found that the oil tanker was on the wrong side of the channel and the Ocean Cape, although on the proper side, should have kept a better lookout.

The Ocean Cape was owned by New England Fish Company of Oregon and chartered by Leo A. Woods of Seattle.

The tanker was owned by Britamerican Limited and chartered by British-American Oil Company Limited.

Damages of $50,000 were claimed by the New England Fish Company, but His Lordship stated that the defendant's liability would be limited under the Canada Shipping Act to $30,614.

On a finding of equal liability, the plaintiffs can recover only half of this amount.

Goals in cancer research are to find the causes of cancer, to find ways to cure it, to find ways to prevent it and to alleviate suffering. The Canadian Cancer Society is the largest supporter of cancer research.

Bob Hope Makes Merry With Ginger Rogers, Jack Benny at 9

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

ALL BY HERSELF—When it comes to comedy slapstick style Lucille Ball romps to the fore as possibly the greatest female exponent of the art of her time. She is today's feminine answer to Chaplin, Keaton, Sennett, Semon and the Keystone Cops. There is, quite literally, nothing to match her.

Like all the previously named comics Lucy doesn't need lines. She is a pantomimist of the first water. She can milk a scene until it is as dry as a bone, often long after there seems to be any laughs to be had.

Monday night she again demonstrated this remarkable ability of hers in an hour-long joust with mirth called "Lucy Wants a Career," abetted by husband Desi Arnaz and guest star Paul Douglas. Actually it was one of the weakest Lucy-Desi hours in a long while but there were moments which could take their place alongside the veteran's best.

There was, for instance, Lucy's magnificent bit of stewpot with Douglas as his Girl Friday on an early morning television show. Suffering from stage fright she, in turn, saved a live lobster from a watery death, kicked a hole through the wall, dropped the various weather forecasts she was supposed to stick on the map and generally gefuffled the entire show.

In another happy spot of hankey-pankey she scared away several gorgeous models who were competing for the Girl Friday job by informing each one in turn that Douglas was the original wolf and a girl should wear running shoes and carry a letter opener during the interview.

But the best scene of all was reserved for the end as it should be: Lucy, quite doped by sleeping pills, being hauled from bed by hubby Desi and a desperate Douglas and carried to the studio. I don't remember laughing any louder or longer over Lucy repeatedly falling face first into her cereal while the program was in progress. It was a side-splitter.

On the not-so-funny side, however, was the play itself. It had more slack in it than a snapped fishing line. There were far too many empty periods in between the major scenes.

Nonetheless, Lucy is well worth waiting for.

BOTH ED SULLIVAN and Steve Allen were clobbered by Maverick again last Sunday. The oater also galloped over competing Bachelor Father. But what must have hurt most the Maverick episode was a re-run.

Ed Murrow's Person to Person fans should note that Harry Belafonte has been dropped next Friday because of technical difficulties. His place will be taken by Mrs. Babe Ruth. Lawrence Welk's Wednesday night show goes off the air for 10 weeks after May 27 but his Saturday night musical will carry on throughout the summer.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

THURSDAY, APRIL 16, 1959

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—A.M. is ideal time to contact or confer with civic leaders or merchantile men in order to adjust any important affairs. Latter part of day you can then round out much needed data. Also, there will be welcome news from far away.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—During the morning you will be in a position to get the information and ideas from others that will greatly facilitate your labors and chores. P.M. is ideal for entertaining or just having fun at home. Be happy and thoughtful of others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Do repairing on property or add touches of beauty and art to your immediate surroundings today. Clean and polish everything so that they are immaculate. P.M. is fine then for relaxation at the cinema, or corresponding and studying.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)—A.M. splendid for new outlets, so long as they are constructive and economical. During the evening you will then get even finer ideas for expansion that will result in your realizing a far greater income. Think.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Plan to stay in your own little preferred niche today for deep concentration. Jot down in black and white your ideas and plans. P.M. is then fine for fun and happiness with kindred spirits. Be more prosperous by increasing popularity.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—At last you are able to know just how your comrades and kin can assist you in your endeavors best. Be of help to them, too, in some tangible way. P.M. confer with some influential person you know. Assist those in need, also.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Spend day hours hastily getting your credit higher, attending to much-delayed civic chores, business affairs on which you have procrastinated. P.M. go out to some important social meeting, affair.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Look into your paper and other periodicals for the information you have searched for in vain to date. P.M. you have the opportunity to be with a most influential person who can assist you in your greatest needs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Fine day for putting all government papers, statements, etc., in ideal order. P.M. is then free for you to be with persons of different cultural background than yours to gain further knowledge and enlightening ideas.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—You can now cement better relations with all those persons who play a vital part in your daily living. P.M. be romantically inclined and show your mate the gentility and affection that he or she rightfully deserves.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Morning is just fine for rolling up your sleeves and plunging into all the work that awaits you, whether at home, office, on your vehicle, etc. P.M. get together with associates and come to a better meeting of minds.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Day hours are spent best in the lighter aspects of your daily living, such as getting appearance at its peak, planning current entertainment programs, visiting, etc. P.M. be with fellow worker to get work plans perfected.

162 Lots Sold Soon At Duncan

DUNCAN — Centennial Heights subdivision lots will be on the market soon, according to C. J. Dowling, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation manager.

The 47-acre tract, of 162 lots, is almost fully developed.

City council has apporved a plan listing suggestions for placing of houses on lots, and most suitable architecture.

Builders also will be encouraged to leave trees on their properties.

The area was developed as a three-way venture undertaken by the city and federal and provincial governments.

Clean Up Time Hits Esquimalt

Clean up week was started in Esquimalt Monday and municipal officials urged all residents to dispose of their unwanted "junk."

"We will take anything that can be moved" said engineer John Graeme, "provided the householders put it where we can get at it."

The annual campaign is designed to help tidy up and promote pride in the community.

A steadily mounting pile of junk behind municipal hall is being fed continuously by trucks as residents clear out everything from old stoves to bottles and oil drums.

Campaign is scheduled to end Friday evening.

New High Hit In Welfare Aid

DUNCAN — Welfare payments were $2,454 in March to set a new record for the city, Ald. Steve Saunders told council here.

Beneficiaries were 40 persons in 16 families, 24 single men, three women, a boarding house case, a tuberculosis victim and 10 transients.

Crime in Nanaimo Hit by Recession

NANAIMO — Announcement of a $6,000 decline in police court fines in a year caused aldermen no concern whatever.

"It's a sign the court is doing its job," said Ald. Douglas Greer.

"It also appears crime in Nanaimo doesn't pay," said Ald. Haig Burns.

INCOME TAX UP

Personal income taxes will yield the federal government about 30 cents of every revenue dollar for the 1959-60 fiscal year.

Finance Minister Fleming announced an increase in the tax in his budget presented to Parliament Thursday. Of a total revenue of $5,267,000,000, the tax would yield $1,578,000,000.

RECOVERY BUDGET

Finance Minister Fleming estimated a deficit of $393,000,000 for the 1959-60 fiscal year in his budget presented to Parliament Thursday night. He estimated expenditures at a record $5,660,000,000 and revenues at $5,267,000,000. The budget deficit last year was a peacetime record $616,600,000 on expenditures of $5,387,400,000 and revenues of $4,770,800,000.

Graph shows revenues and expenditures for the fiscal years 1949-50 to 1958-59 and Mr. Fleming's forecast for 1959-60.

Mr. Fleming imposed heavier taxes on personal and corporation incomes and commodity sales in what was termed a "recovery" budget aimed at a smaller federal deficit. (CP)

COUGAR CONTROVERSY

'Cats' Find Friend In Forestry Men

By HUMPHRY DAVY

A battle over whether the cougar should be exterminated or persecuted wherever found in B.C. is waxing stronger than ever today between conservationists, hunters and farmers.

The flames of controversy over the woodland cat reached new heights as foresters and biologists armed with statistics and scientific data jumped into the fray.

They lent their full support to retired game inspector George Stevenson who has started a campaign to protect the cougar from "unwarranted persecution" by hunters.

OPPOSE BOUNTY

They oppose a move by hunters to have a $20 bounty reimposed on the animal because the cougar takes a heavy toll of deer.

A spokesman for the government reforestation branch disclosed that the cougar saves the Pacific Northwest forest industry thousands of dollars every year by keeping the deer population down.

It was estimated, he said, that $1,000,000 is lost every 10 years in tree growth as the result of deer browsing. Deer chew the top of seedlings and retard new forest growth, he said.

The damage was much heavier, he said, if time and labor loses were taken into consideration.

If it were not for the cougar and wolf, he said, the damage would be heavier.

Eric Crossin, silverculturist for MacMillan and Bloedel, and Bob MacMillan, forester for B.C. Forest Products Ltd., confirmed that loses of new forest growth due to deer browsing was "considerable" on some parts of Vancouver Island.

"I'm against the extermination of the cougar," said Mr. MacMillan. "I would hate to see the noble cat of our forests disappear like some of our birds and other animals."

Charlie Guiguet, provincial biologist, said the attitude of some people towards the cougar was "asinine."

LEAVE THEM

"Regardless of whether the cougar kills dear or not, he should be left alone," he said. "The only exception should be when a cougar starts molesting cats and dogs and frightening children. Now and again a few do this."

Mr. Guiguet explained that the cougar, the deer and wolf all evolved together and are dependent on each other.

"In a sense they live in harmony," he said. "This is nature's way of controlling the deer population, as well as the cougars."

An official of the B.C. government livestock branch was unable to estimate the damage done by cougars to sheep.

"Farmers only report to us the killing of sheep by dogs," he said. "This seems to be the sheep industry's major problem."

$500 Award Won By Colonist Writer

George ("Gem") Mortimore, 35, Victoria newspaper columnist, has won the Powell River Company's award of $500 for the best newspaper writing by a B.C. newsman in 1958.

Jack Cahill, Vancouver Sun reporter, received honorable mention for his series on the pollution of Vancouver's beaches.

Presentation of the awards will be made next Saturday by Harold Foley, chairman of the board o. Powell River Co., at Suds 'n' Skits, the annual stag party given by the Newsmen's Club of B.C.

Mr. Mortimore's 52 articles, entitled "The Strangers," also won the $400 feature writing national award of the Toronto Men's Press Club.

The judges said the series measured up to all standards and showed a high degree of personal initiative and writing quality.

Fruit Growers Want More Financial Help

(From CP Dispatches)

PENTICTON — Five resolutions to be presented to a special general meeting of the B.C. Fruit Growers' Association here next Tuesday urge financial help for the province's orchardists, it was learned today.

The meeting is being held primarily to consider the report of Dean E. H. MacPhee, who as a one-man royal commission studied the fruit-growing industry last year.

A report on the new three-party contract, involving producers, B.C. Tree Fruits Limited, and processors, also will be considered by the one-day convention. The contracts now are signed by more than 60 per cent of the 3,500 registered growers.

YOUNG ADDICT JAILED

VANCOUVER — Carol Williams, 19, was sentenced to 15 months in jail here Tuesday when she pleaded guilty to a charge of heroin possession. It was her third conviction.

WORKMAN BURNED

VANCOUVER — Gordon Woodrow, 29, a taxi company serviceman here, was taken to hospital with third degree burns Tuesday night when a light for his cigaret ignited gasoline which had spilled on his clothes.

The accident occurred just after Mr. Woodrow had refuelled a cab. Flames engulfed his clothes and he wrestled away from a taxi driver trying to extinguish the fire with his coat, ran to a hose and splashed water on himself.

Driver Howard Meneley said Mr. Woodrow "Got away from me and ran to the pumps."

"The water just made it worse," he said.

MURDER TRIAL BEGINS

KAMLOOPS—Joe Bells, 65, pleaded not guilty Tuesday as his trial on a charge of murder opened in Assize Court. Bells is charged with the knife-slaying of Angus MacDonald following a party in a riverside shack last Sept. 5.

BARBERS LOSE FIGHT

VANCOUVER — Seventeen barbers in downtown Vancouver lost their fight to remain open Wednesdays and close Saturdays when city council Tuesday voted to support the Barbers' Union which was opposed to any change in current work days.

DOGS STAY FREE

VANCOUVER—After turning down a motion to put dogs on leashes here, city council Tuesday said it will name a committee to study recommendations by the SPCA which would control stray dogs by fining the owners $5.

Victoria Daily Times Silhouette Contest

No. 33

Silhouette Contest Rules

1. The Silhouette Contest is simple and easy to work. It consists of 60 silhouette drawings of widely known persons and 120 pictures. All you have to do is identify the silhouettes, not by name but by pairing them with pictures of the people you think are portrayed in the silhouettes. Each person shown in silhouette will be shown by picture but not necessarily on the same day. In addition there will be 60 pictures of other persons who will not be shown in silhouette drawings. Thus you will have 120 pictures from which to make your 60 selections to go with the 60 silhouettes. Keep the 60 left over pictures. They will be needed for the final Silhouette Scramble.

2. The contest starts on Saturday, March 7, 1959. Each day for 60 days one silhouette and two pictures will be printed. After you have paired a silhouette with a picture, paste or in some way fasten the matching pair on a single sheet of paper. All 60 sheets are to be fastened together in order and each sheet should bear your name.

3 The Times will award $750 in cash prizes to the winners. There are no entry fees. The prizes are:
1. $500
2. $100
3. $150
and four prizes of $25 each.

4. The contest is open to all residents of Vancouver Island with the exception of employees of the Times and Victoria Press Ltd. and members of their families. Not more than one prize will be awarded to any one immediate family.

5. The final silhouette and pictures will appear on Saturday, May 16, and with this set will appear a master score sheet on which you must enter the numbers of your silhouette-picture combinations. Do not send in your entries until all silhouettes and pictures have been published.

6. The contestant getting the greatest number of the 60 regular silhouettes correctly solved is automatically the winner of the first prize. Second highest score gets second prize, and so on.

7. A Silhouette Scramble will be published with Silhouette No. 60. This will consist of a number of silhouettes which are to be identified from the 60 pictures left over from the regular contest. This Silhouette Scramble will be used by the judges ONLY in case of ties. If ties exist in the regular contest, then those contestants making the best scores in the Silhouette Scramble will be declared winners.

8. Address entries to Silhouette Contest, Victoria Daily Times, 2631 Douglas Street, Victoria. All entries must be postmarked not later than Monday, May 25. Entries must be sent with first class postage fully paid, since The Times cannot be responsible for entries delayed because of improper address or insufficient postage, or for any other reason not received at The Times in due time.

9. By entering the contest, the participant agrees to accept the decision of the judges as final.

FUNERAL FRIDAY

Fire Victim Asphyxiated

DUNCAN—Death of William Henry Bradshaw, 78, in his burning cabin at Westholme early Tuesday morning was caused by asphyxiation, a coroner's jury decided here Tuesday afternoon.

The victim's home was on the Mount Sicker Road property of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Heyd. It was his daughter who found the cabin filled with smoke at 6.30 a.m.

DEAD ON FLOOR

She called her husband, and they found the elderly man dead on the floor in front of a burning chair. The floor also was smoldering, according to Mr. and Mrs. Heyd, but there was little other damage.

Mr. Bradshaw, however, had been badly burned.

LIVED ALONE

Mr. Bradshaw had resided in the Mount Sicker area for 24 years, and had lived alone in the cabin since 1945.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. A. Kempthorne, Westholme; Mrs. Phillip Turner, London, England, and Mrs. Heyd.

Funeral service will be held Friday, at 1.30 p.m., at All Saints' Anglican Church, Westholme.

COMMISSION 'OVER BARREL' WITH MINISTER

NANAIMO (CP) — The Nanaimo Civic Properties and Recreation Commission is "over a barrel" in connection with the issuance of a water licence to Recreation Minister Earle Westwood and his brother Frank.

The recreation minister represents Nanaimo in the provincial Legislature, so the commission didn't think it could get help from him before filing a notice of appeal against the licence.

Recreation commissioners in Nanaimo believe this could cause the river to dry up in the Bowen Park area.

BANG GOES $75 of the taxpayers' money every time this happens. B.C. Power Commission employee Marion Eckert, 552 Nelson, holds reflector portion of a luminaire street light which was blasted by a shotgun Up-Island. "We lose hundreds on the Island generally," power officials state. Gun vandals risk heavy fine or jail.

FERRY FIRM SHELVES OUTER RUN PROPOSAL

GANGES — Plans for a special outer Gulf Islands summer ferry schedule have been shelved because the vessel proposed for the run will not be available until July.

An inspection trip was made on Mv. Motor Princess by government and Chamber of Commerce officials, and was arranged by Gavin C. Mouat, of Gulf Islands Ferry Co. (1951) Ltd.

More Equipment, Students, Teachers for Tech School

NANAIMO (CP) — Some $250,000 in equipment, 80 students and six instructors will be added to Nanaimo Vocational Training School when it opens for the fall term this year, it was announced by Jack Macready, principal of the school.

The school now has 187 students, 12 instructors and is valued at $1,500,000.

A new workshop will be built by municipal and provincial governments and equipment for it will be supplied by manufacturers and various companies.

Early-Day Gas Lamp For Nanaimo

NANAIMO (CP) — A gas lamp post from Baltimore, first city in the United States to have gas, is on its way to Nanaimo as a gift from Baltimore's gas company.

It will be set up in Nanaimo's Dallas Square.

SPECIAL FERRIES, BUSES

Gavel Ceremony Set at Fulford

GANGES—Plans have been completed by Canadian Legion, Branch 92, Salt Spring Island, for a travelling gavel ceremony to be held in Fulford Community Hall May 9.

Special ferries and buses are planned for members and their wives who will attend from branches at Cobble Hill, Duncan and Chemainus.

Impressive ceremonies will be followed by refreshments and dancing, to be arranged by Walter Mailey.

Plans also have been made for a full church parade and color party to attend morning service May 3 in the United Church at Ganges, with Rev. C. G. MacKenzie officiating. Mr. MacKenzie is padre of the local Legion branch, and this will be his last church parade service before he retires later this year.

MILLHANDS SAFER THAN HOUSEWIVES

NANAIMO (CP) — A man working in a sawmill is safer than his wife is at home, safety director George Norris told a meeting of B.C. lumber manufacturers here.

He said dangers of working in a sawmill have been vastly reduced in the last 10 years.

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE WORMS

1 OUT OF 3 DOES!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms or Round-Worms . . . ugly parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of these ugly pests, they must be killed in the intestines where they live and multiply. And clinical tests have proved that JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE kills both Pin-Worms and Round-Worms quickly and easily. Then they are expelled from the system in a normal manner and you are free of them.

JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE has a pleasant, fruity taste. Children love it—take it without fuss or fret.

Remember, Pin-Worms and Round-Worms are highly contagious and can spread through the whole family.

So, at the first sign of worms, be sure to ask your druggist for JAYNE'S LIQUID VERMIFUGE.

West Dismayed by Loss of Chief Spokesman

(Times News Services)

LONDON — The resignation of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles hit the western world with sorrow and shock today, although it was not unexpected.

Diplomats frankly admitted that the western alliance was losing one of its strongest—if not the strongest—figures at a critical point in East-West relations.

Many of these diplomats frequently had differed with Dulles on his approach to international events and he had not always been the most popular secretary of state. But all sympathized with him in his moment of personal tragedy.

His departure was no surprise and no doubt the Geneva foreign ministers conference on May 11 would go on as scheduled. But the West's number one ambassador had departed, weakening the free world's position.

The decision of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to step out of the active political arena and move up to the West German presidency already had struck the west a serious blow — even though Adenauer will remain in office until after this summer's East-West meetings.

Now Dulles' surrender to cancer has added to the serious shortage of leaders just when the West is gearing for a probable summit meeting with Communism's toughest negotiator — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

In a statement to the House of Commons, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said: "This is indeed sad news. President Eisenhower once referred to Mr. Dulles as a dedicated man. From my long experience of him I know how true this is."

A spokesman of the premier's office in Paris expressed regret at the news and said Dulles was greatly admired in France for his "courage, strength of character and bravery during his illness."

The West German foreign office said the resignation of Dulles was a "great loss," not only for the American people, but for the whole of the West and particularly for the German people.

First mention of the news behind the Iron Curtain was in a short bulletin carried by the official Soviet news agency Tass about 40 minutes after the announcement. It contained no comment.

"Leaving policies aside, the man's devotion to his principles was indeed admirable," a Soviet spokesman said.

It Ottawa, Opposition Leader Pearson, former Liberal external affairs minister who knew Mr. Dulles well, said the free world has lost a "towering and dedicated public servant."

"If any man was ever a casualty in battling for the things he believes in, Mr. Dulles was that man," said Mr. Pearson. The secretary's work in building up collective resistance to aggression had been of "immense, at times of decisive, value."

25,000 FLEE HOMES IN URUGUAY FLOODS

MONTEVIDEO (Reuters)—Some 25,000 persons were homeless in Uruguay today as floods devastated about three-quarters of the 72,000-square-mile republic.

In Buenos Aires, Argentine authorities closed the port of Buenos Aires and the International Airport for the second day as rains and high winds increased the flooding of low-lying districts along the entire River Plate.

$9.40 Hike In City's School Tax

A school levy increase of some 1½ mills—equivalent to about $9.40 for the average taxpayer—was indicated today for Victoria.

City comptroller Dennis Young made the tentative estimate after school assessments were revised by provincials orders and the education department announced it would pay $2,997,000 of Greater Victoria's school board's $6,900,000 1959 budget.

School tax increases were expected to be higher in Oak Bay and Esquimalt, and slightly lower in Saanich, as a result of the assessment redistribution orders.

BREAKDOWN

Assessment adjustments ordered by the provincial commission and a year's population expansion will slice up the school budget among area residents (with last year's shares in brackets) on this basis:

Victoria 49.82 per cent (49.95); Saanich 27.88 per cent (26.97); Oak Bay 14.78 per cent (15.72); Esquimalt 5.53 per cent (5.4); and View Royal 1.99 per cent (1.96).

Although Victoria's share of the costs is lower, its actual dollar payments will be higher because the school budget soared $1,100,000 this year.

UNHAPPY

Esquimalt and Oak Bay officials were unhappy with the assessment commission's orders rasing their rolls but Saanich Reeve George Chatterton said he was pleased with the reduction in that municipality's roll.

Percy Wright, assistant assessment commissioner, said Greater Victoria was "not the only centre" that received orders to increase and decrease rolls.

SOME SLOW

He said the sweeping changes were necessitated because:

"This is the first year that the school rolls have achieved equalization across the province. It has taken four years and some municipalities were not moving toward equaliza-

CAPSULE EJECTED

Nose Cone Hunted In Arctic

WASHINGTON (AP) The Pentagon said today it believes the capsule from the Discoverer II satellite was dropped successfully in the North Polar region. There is some hope it may be recovered.

A brief announcement said that analysis of radio beacon and telemetry signals "indicates that the capsule did eject from the satellite as predicted."

The capsule was set to be ejected automatically when the Discoverer II satellite made its 17th orbit around the earth. That was about 7 p.m. Tuesday night.

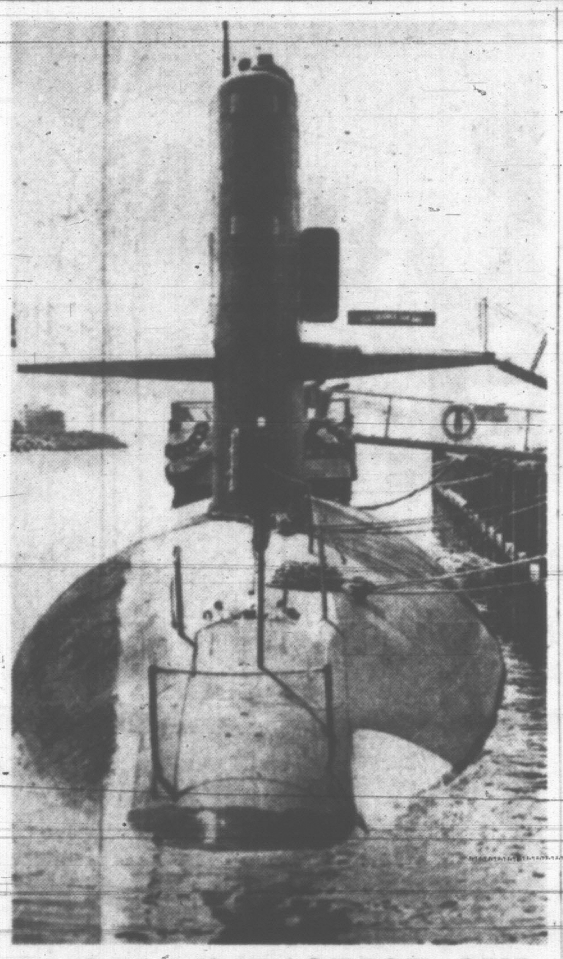

There was no direct way of telling whether this took place. But scientists today studied intricate data radioed back from the satellite. They hoped that slight changes in its weight, its centre of gravity and altitude could tell them whether the capsule was successfully fired back toward earth.

CN Chief Appeals To 3,500 Firemen

(See Page 7)

MONTREAL (CP) — CNR President Donald Gordon today appealed to the railway's 3,500 firemen across Canada to "make known to your union representatives your desire to have an agreement."

He asked firemen to urge union leaders to sign a new contract based on the recommendations of a federal conciliation board.

In a personal letter mailed today to the firemen, Mr. Gordon explained the CNR decision to go ahead May 1 and implement the conciliation proposals—including wage increases and a plan for gradual withdrawal of firemen from yard and freight diesel engines.

He said the union's rejection of the conciliation report and the company's May 1 move will leave firemen "without a collective agreement and the mutual security which it would give.

"It is, I assure you, not the wish of management to leave you in this position of uncertainty. Consequently, in your own interests, I urge you to make known to your union representatives your desire to have an agreement.

"The proposals of the company are open for acceptance," Mr. Gordon said.

Police To Ring Castro

Special Precautions For Visit to U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) —Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro will arrive tonight for an 11-day unofficial visit to North America.

U.S. state department security agents, teaming with the Washington police, have arranged to give him one of the tightest protective rings ever given a foreign visitor.

Castro, accompanied by a heavy guard of bearded revolutionary protectors, will fly in with a party of about 35 persons in a chartered Cuban government C-54 transport.

A number of threats, warning that Castro will never leave the U.S. alive, have alarmed authorities. Demonstrations and picketing are expected during his five-day stay in the capital and a similar visit to New York.

He is scheduled to visit Montreal April 26 and Toronto April 28 or 29. Canadian officials are trying to arrange a visit to Ottawa—possibly on April 28.

The National Press Club here said the 505 seats for its luncheon next Monday honoring Castro were sold out less than an hour after they became available.

Businessmen Applaud Labor Move

VANCOUVER (CP) — Business leaders today applauded a plan by British Columbia trade unions to draw up a code of ethics.

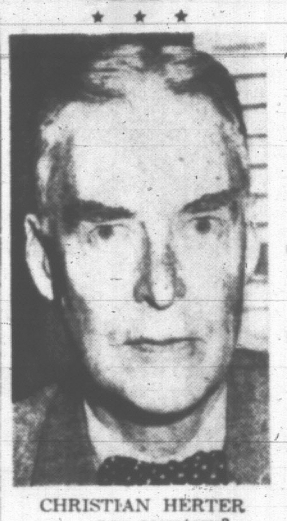

"A constructive move, a responsible action on the part of unions, and one which would undoubtedly assist in establishing a better atmosphere in management-labor relations," commented Archie Cater, president of the Board of Trade.

Plans for the code, which would be the first of its kind in Canada, were announced Tuesday by Bill Black, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor.

It would be aimed at ending inter-union raiding, racketeering, jurisdictional strikes, and at promoting public confidence in labor.

Said R. V. Robinson, manager of the B.C. Manufacturers' Association: "It is a great step forward . . . the general public is too often the party to suffer from the actions of irresponsible labor leaders."

Ralph Pybus, past president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce: "The code will be helpful but I suggest we go one step further and make it a joint code for the benefit of labor, management and public interest."

CHRISTIAN HERTER
. . . new secretary?

Dulles Favors Herter for Post

(Times News Services)

WASHINGTON—Administration officials said today they expect Under-Secretary Christian A. Herter to be named secretary of state within the next few days to succeed John Foster Dulles.

It has been generally understood that the former Massachusetts governor, who has been acting secretary since mid-February, would step into the job if Dulles had to quit.

Some officials still conceded an outside chance to some other possible nominee — particularly C. Douglas Dillon, under-secretary of state for economic affairs.

Some of Herter's close friends were surprised that Eisenhower did not name him immediately as secretary at the same time as Dulles' resignation was announced.

Herter is afflicted with arthritis of the hips which pains him if he walks more than 10 or 20 yards or stands for any length of time. But this physical limitation has never caused him to miss a day's work.

'Unable To Carry On'

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower today announced the resignation of cancer-stricken State Secretary Dulles.

With moisture in his eyes, Eisenhower told reporters that Dulles is "incapacitated" to carry on the burden of his office and to make policy.

Eisenhower said he will announce a successor soon to Dulles, who has been secretary of state since 1953.

The president declined to say that the job will be taken by undersecretary of state Christian A. Herter, who has been serving as acting secretary.

Eisenhower said he has asked Dulles to continue to serve him as a foreign policy consultant.

A reporter told Eisenhower it has been pretty much taken for granted that Herter would move up to Dulles' cabinet post.

Asked whether he had someone other than Herter in mind, Eisenhower said there are "all kinds of considerations" to take into account.

'NUMBER OF PEOPLE'

He added there are a "number of people with particular talents" who could fill the post.

Eisenhower's statement came less than 24 hours after Dulles' doctors concluded that his cancer probably has spread to the neck area. Earlier it apparently had been confined to the abdominal area.

The president's emotion regarding the turn for the worse in Dulles' condition became more and more obvious as he talked.

Eisenhower reported that he had talked to Dulles by telephone earlier this morning and that, in view of the doctors' latest findings, the secretary had decided to resign. A formal letter will reach him later, the president said.

HEAPS PRAISE

Eisenhower said he wanted to make it clear that Dulles is not helpless but that the secretary is "absolutely incapacitated for carrying on the administration load" and the policy-making chores of the state department.

Eisenhower heaped praise on Dulles, calling him one of the most able men the country has known.

In reply to a question, Eisenhower said that whether or not the job goes to Herter, the acting secretary will be on hand for the United States at

IKE PRESSED BY DULLES ON STATEMENT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ailing Secretary of States Dulles is reported to have insisted that President Eisenhower hurry the announcement of his resignation. From his hospital bed, Dulles prevailed on Eisenhower to make the announcement today instead of next week as planned.

Dulles insisted on this, a responsible informant said today, because he did not want to make it appear he was hanging on tenaciously to his job.

Dulles has known for more than a week, informants said, that he would not be able to continue in the job he loved so dearly.

14-YEAR PROBE

Broker Arrested In Theft

TORONTO (UPI)—The first move in a seven-month investigation by the Ontario Securities Commission into alleged theft of $1,000,000 14 years ago from a Toronto brokerage house, came today with the arrest of a former employee.

E. Alfred Lloyd, 58, was remanded to April 28 on charges of theft of $74,512 in securities after he surrendered at city hall to officials of the Ontario Securities Commission on the theft charge, seven others of forgery and one of falsifying records.

He was released on $25,000 bail.

Lloyd is a former office manager for Frank S. Leslie & Company, members of the Toronto Stock Exchange and one of the city's largest brokerage firms.

The theft was uncovered after one of the most exhaustive investigations ever conducted by the audit branch of the commission, called in last September after the president, Frank Leslie, ordered a surprise audit which uncovered a rumored $1,000,000 shortage.

One investigator said the thefts had remained hidden during a dozen audits held over a period of 12 to 14 years.

SIGHTSEEING CHARLES CHEATS ON QUEUE

Coo Mum, the Prince Snuck In

LONDON (AP)—A Cockney schoolboy caught the future king of England benefitting from a royal prerogative—and the Cockney kid didn't like it.

Dressed in a pair of unpressed pants and a rumpled sweater, the 10-year-old prince wandered with an equerry into the public area of the castle and over to St. George's Chapel. There he found a long line of sightseeing mothers, fathers and their children on vacation between the spring and summer school terms.

Charles hung back, but the royal equerry marched to the head of the line and whispered to a uniformed attendant:

The attendant missed the magic name Charles — or failed to connect it with England's next monarch. He took one look at the unpressed youngster and replied:

"Then let him join the queue—a the back."

"Quite obviously," said the equerry, "you don't realize that Charles is Prince Charles."

Charles entered the chapel just the same and inspected the six-foot eight-inch sword of King Edward III, father of that hero of all British schoolboys, the Black Prince.

'This is Only Beginning of Our Work for God'

By PETER SYPNOWICH

TORONTO (CP)—"God is leading us." This is the expressed belief of Rev. Hirwin Davies, who is managing the Freedom Foundation of Canada while executive director Rev. Leslie Millin tries to straighten out the British Columbia gold venture that has drained away money of about 300 Ontario Baptists.

Mr. Davies, an assistant director of the foundation and pastor of Toronto's Dorset Park Baptist Church, was among the clergymen and congregations who put $410,000 into the scheme in 1957 at the urging of Mr. Millin.

Now all the money, plus at least $77,000 raised in Vancouver, appears to be gone. The Fraser River gold operations are closed down. There is no sign of the radio station that profits were to establish at Prince George to beam religious programs to Red China.

The venture has been denounced by Dr. T. B. McDormand, secretary-treasurer of the Baptist Federation of Canada.

And the Freedom Foundation itself has been repudiated by a string of former supporters like Social Credit Premier Ernest C. Manning of Alberta. An assistant director, Rev. Bernard Smith, of Bayview Baptist Church in Toronto, has quit.

But all this doesn't mean the end of the Freedom Foundation, says Mr. Davies.

"We have faith in Mr. Millin. Our office is still here, the staff is still here. This is only the beginning of our work for God."

Probers at Work

Meanwhile, investigators in British Columbia and Ontario are working to unravel the scheme that J. Stewart Smith, superintendent of brokers in B.C., has called "the strangest I have ever seen since I entered office 20 years ago."

The investigation has been under way for six months but it wasn't until last month that public attention was first focussed on the Freedom Foundation.

Dr. Watson Kirkconnell, president of Acadia University, Wolfville, N.S., wrote a letter to his town's weekly newspaper questioning a decision to fluoridate community water supplies. He quoted a Freedom Foundation pamphlet suggesting fluoridation is a Communist plot to soften brain tissues and make its users susceptible to domination.

The Freedom Foundation, it turned out, had issued other pamphlets which claimed Communists are attempting to take over mental health organizations in a bid to gain control of North American minds.

Its bulletins were accompanied by copies of the Canadian Intelligence Service, published weekly by Ron Gostick at Flesherton, a Grey County community 75 miles northwest of Toronto. Mr. Gostick is an anti-Communist who has denounced the United Nations as "subversive" and Brotherhood Week as "the brainchild of organized Jewry."

Displayed Books

An associate of Mr. Gostick's was William Guy Carr of nearby Willowdale, who has circulated copies of "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion," long known as an anti-Semitic forgery. Some of Mr. Carr's books used to be on display in the windows of the Freedom Foundation.

The foundation's headquarters are in a five-room, $12,000-a-year suite in Toronto's north end, formerly leased by the National Social Credit Party of Canada.

Chairman of the board of directors for the last two years has been Stanley Patterson, a chartered accountant from nearby Gormley, who is also president of the Social Credit Association of Ontario.

Orvis Kennedy, national organizer for Social Credit, says the Freedom Foundation originally was organized as a non-political wing of the party but connections were severed more than two years ago.

"We ended our association because the foundation was distributing literature that many people considered anti-Semitic."

The foundation's executive director, Mr. Millin, spent 20 years in China as a missionary and left his pastorate with Immanuel Baptist Church in Toronto to join the foundation last year.

He helped organize the foundation three years ago after the late Dr. W. J. Sheridan, a medical missionary in China for 37 years, made a speech at the University of British Columbia in 1954 calling for an organization outside of government to oppose Communism. Dr. Sheridan's widow, Mrs. Pearl Sheridan, is secretary of the foundation.

$3,000 Monthly

Mr. Millin, who says contributions to the foundation last year averaged $2,000 to $3,000 a month, became interested in the gold mining scheme in 1957, considering it a further source of funds for the foundation.

Through a friend of Mrs. Sheridan's, he was introduced to James Harris McKee, 69-year-old Vancouver mining promoter who had developed a chemical process for removing gold from what is called black sand.

Mr. McKee is a graduate and former bursar of Brandon College in Manitoba, which was founded by his father, the late Dr. Samuel McKee.

Geologists explain the term "black sand" in this way: Action of water on sand takes away the lighter particles, leaving the heavier behind. Often the heavy particles are of magnetite or some other mineral of a black color. Since gold is heavier than magnetite it will also remain behind in the black sand—if there is any gold.

Mr. Millin began raising funds for Mr. McKee, mostly from among the 4,000 persons on the foundation's mailing list — persons like Dr. Kirkconnell, although the university president says he wasn't among the investors.

Promissory Notes

The lenders were given promissory notes assuring repayment with six-per-cent interest by April 1, 1958, and Oct. 1, 1958. They were signed by Mr. McKee as president of Allied Holdings Limited and gave him authority to use the money in any way he wished.

Financial troubles had already begun when negotiations were started with Marconi (Canadian) Limited for purchase of a 50,000-watt radio station to beam propaganda across the Pacific.

Sufficient quantities of black sand couldn't be obtained by Allied Holdings at its placer operations along the Fraser, although a processing plant had been established in Burnaby, a Vancouver suburb.

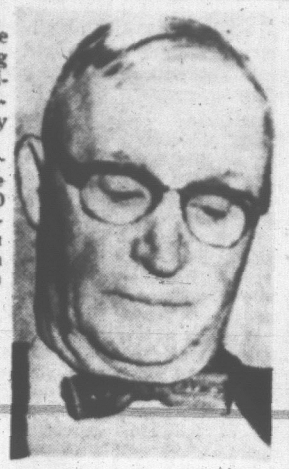

Mr. Millin went to Vancouver last summer and found the project running out of money. Rev. R. W. Wighton of Ottawa, who had gone west to supervise the work as "chief consulting engineer," quit and later severed his connection with the Freedom Foundation.

In September, Mr. Millin sent a letter of apology to lenders in which he said the scheme would be salvaged through "a very wise investment" made by Mr. McKee with funds from Allied Holdings—1,000 shares in a firm called Rex Chain Saw Company, which held patents to a new invention.

"As soon as these assets have been sold in whole or in part, Mr. McKee will be in the position to repay loan notes, plus interest, and have sufficient moneys to continue developing Allied Holdings Limited," the letter said.

An investigation was soon started by the superintendent of brokers in B.C. and the Ontario Securities Commission. It broke into the open last week.

In Vancouver, police raided the offices of Allied Holdings and seized the books. In Toronto, an investor signed an affidavit declaring he put up $500 in July, 1957, after he was shown samples of gold and told "a $500 investment at that time might easily return as high as $500 monthly, a year after the payments of initial expenses."

JAMES HARRIS McKEE
. . . "very wise investment"

REV. LESLIE MILLIN
. . they have faith in him

Before delving into the books, the B.C. superintendent of brokers gave this accounting:

Of $77,000 raised in Vancouver, $31,415 was refunded to investors who wanted their money back. Of $410,410 raised in Ontario, $22,780 was refunded, $51,350 turned over to the Freedom Foundation, $1,261 used for expenses and $4,668 left on account.

Apparently Mr. McKee was left with about $375,930 for his gold venture. But recorded expenditures up to May 31, 1958, were listed as $298,489 and the account was overdrawn by $3,500.

The broker superintendent said Rex Chain Saw was supposed to have a contract with a German firm which would pay it $40,000,000 in royalties for the invention.

"We figured they would have to sell 39,500,000 saws to collect the money."

Mr. Millin then called a press conference in Vancouver, expressed "complete confidence" in Mr. McKee, declared all the money can be accounted for and announced a new venture was being launched to recoup losses.

Raised $250,000

The same day Mr. McKee was interviewed in Santa Rosa, Calif., where he had gone for a holiday that turned into a business trip. He said he raised $250,000, not $77,000, in Vancouver.

He also expressed confidence in the chain saw venture and declared he had a new mine in California which would produce large quantities of gold-bearing black sand.

Mr. McKee issued a statement saying:

"I am most thankful to say that we have now gotten this mine to within 60 days of starting producing and should be able to start payments on the notes this fall and payments in full within 18 months to two years.

"I want to ask those of you who are my friends, old and new, those of you who have believed in my integrity enough to lend me money in this manner, to trust me just a little longer and to help me a little further financially in the final effort."

HOWARD HUGHES SUED BY FORMER EXECUTIVE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Tycoon Howard Hughes has been sued for $2,111,965 by one of his former executives. The suit on behalf of Noah Dietrich alleges Hughes has not kept promises to Dietrich during their association in airplane manufacturing, industrial enterprises and operation of RKO Studio. Hughes and Dietrich ended their business relationship in 1957.

Three Plays Start Festival Tonight

Four nights of live drama, involving a large proportion of Victoria's amateur thespians, starts at 8 this evening when the Southern Vancouver Island Drama Festival gets under way at Oak Bay Junior High School.

A program of three one-act plays will be seen at the opening session.

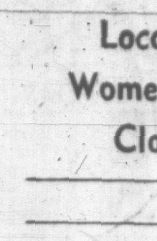

First will be St. Luke's Players with a costume drama, "Wayside War." A farce, "Prisoner of Love," will be presented by Fireside Players, and a tragic farce, "The Chairs," by Intimate Stage.

At the conclusion, brief comments will be made by adjudicator Antony Holland.

Thursday night, four plays will be seen. They are Victoria Theatre Guild's "Before the Flood," St. Andrew's Cathedral Players' "Return of Chandra," Columbine Players' "The Boor" and Royal Jubilee Hospital Nurses' Drama Club, "The Happy Journey."

Three best plays will be selected Friday night, for an honor performance Saturday, when best actor, best actress, best director and best play awards will be made.

The winning play will go to B.C. finals at Trail during the week of May 25 to 30.

MONTE ROBERTS

Courtroom scene which I sincerely hope never happens to William Ostler, that nice new acting magistrate of ours:

FYDD: Here.

MAGISTRATE: Guilty or not guilty?

FYDD: Not guilty, like.

PROSECUTOR: This is an open and shut case, Your Honor. This man Fydd drove into the Fountain Circle and failed to yield the right of way to an automobile already in the Fountain Circle, thus causing an accident.

MAGISTRATE: Have you anything to say, Mr. Fydd?

FYDD: It's like the man says, see, I am driving along, I am driving into the Fountain Circle, there is this other car also driving in the Fountain Circle, we come together —bong, like that, you know what I mean?

MAGISTRATE: Did you or did you not yield to the other car?

FYDD: So why should I yield to the other car? So why shouldn't the other car yield to me, like? You know what I mean?

MAGISTRATE: Was the other car in the Fountain Circle ahead of you?

FYDD: Why of course, he was in the Circle, going roundabout like, when we come together—bong, like that, you know what I mean?

MAGISTRATE: Let's not go through that again. You admit the other car was in the Fountain Circle first, why didn't you yield the right of way?

FYDD: So he was in the Circle first, like, so that's why I didn't yield. You think I can't read or sumpun?

MAGISTRATE: What has reading to do with this charge?

FYDD: Why, ain't you never read the signs up by the Fountain Circle? In big white letters, like, right on the pavement?

MAGISTRATE: Of course I've read the signs. And if you had done the same, you wouldn't be in this courtroom.

FYDD: Whaddaya mean? I even memorized what the signs say: TRAFFIC CIRCLE TO YIELD. So if the traffic in the Circle is supposed to yield, why didn't this other car yield to me, like?

MAGISTRATE: No, no. You have it all wrong. The sign reads YIELD TO CIRCLE TRAFFIC.

FYDD: Cheese, what kind of a school did you go to, reading from the bottom up instead of the top down, like?

(Let the traditional merciful curtain fall before the magistrate has to make his hypothetical decision.)

SCENE OF ACTIVITY in next four months will be this 10-acre site bounded by Shelbourne, Cedar Hill Cross Road, Richmond and Pear Streets as outlined in white. A & B Construction Co., Nanaimo, will start work next week on $1,000,000 shopping centre for Capital Holdings Ltd., of Vancouver. Shopping centre will be spread over seven acres and is six-sided, skirting around houses on Cedar Hill Cross Road, Richmond and Pear Streets. Work Starting On Shop Centre

Nanaimo Builders On Cedar Hill Job

Work will begin next week on a $1,000,000 shopping centre at the southeast corner of Cedar Hill Cross Road and Shelbourne in Saanich, it was announced today.

A & B Construction Co. of Nanaimo will begin excavating the site and filling in a small creek which runs across the seven-acre property.

A company spokesman said first stores will be completed by the end of August.

More than 40 men will be employed at the peak of construction.

Main store will be a Shop-Easy supermarket. There also will be accommodation for a bank, restaurant, drug store, medical and dental offices, gas station and nine other stores.

The project is being developed by Capital Holdings Ltd. of Vancouver. W. H. Malkin Co., Vancouver, operators of Shop-Easy stores, will be the largest tenant in the centre.

ONE OF 10

Hillside-Cedar Hill Cross Road centre is one of 10 A & B is building throughout B.C. this year. Four of the units will arise on Vancouver Island, the rest in other parts of the province.

A & B has done a number of major construction jobs in the Victoria area. The company built the Safeway at Hillside and Quadra, an addition to the Ewing Building at Victoria College and rebuilt jetty B at the Dockyard.

$1 Million Freight Project

Streamlined freight handling facilities are being built by the CPR in Victoria, Nanaimo, Fort Alberni and Vancouver, at an estimated cost of $1,000,000.

The new terminal facilities will provide for integrated handling of all traffic other than carload now being handled by the railway, CP Express and the trucking subsidiary.

In Victoria a one-storey office building is being built on Government Street, at the Esquimalt and Nanaimo railway yard opposite the brewery.

Although it is a one-storey building, it is being constructed with a basement floor to be used in freight handling. Basement floor and main floor are each of 2,000 square feet.

SEPTEMBER START

New loading ramps have also been built, and when operations start here, probably in September, the terminal will handle six trailers, 14 pick-up and delivery trucks and four box cars.

Major expenditure in the modernization program will be at Vancouver, where $780,000 will be spent on a merchandise service terminal alongside freight and express sheds on West Pender Street.

A portion of these sheds will be demolished on completion of the new terminal. The office building fronting on Pender Street will be retained.

NEW TERMINAL

At Nanaimo, a new terminal is under construction to provide 2,300 square feet of office space and 4,800 square feet for the dock, with accommodation for 10 trailers, 10 pick-up and delivery trucks and two box cars.

New dock facilities at Port Alberni will handle five trailers and five pick-up and delivery trucks.

At all four terminals the most modern merchandise handling equipment, including conveyor belts, will be used to route shipments as quickly as possible.

Court Upholds $18,700 Award In Woman's Death

A Nanaimo jury's award of $18,700 for the death of Lois Christine Doran was upheld in B.C. Court of Appeal here Tuesday.

The appeal was heard before Chief Justice A. C. DesBrisay and Justices James M. Coady and Sidney A. Smith.

The appellant was Joseph Mellor of Vancouver. Mrs. Doran was killed at Nanoose Bay overpass on the Island Highway about 10 miles north of Nanaimo, April 4, 1957. She was in a car struck from behind by a vehicle driven by Mellor. Her auto left the highway and tumbled 40 or 50 feet to railway tracks below the bridge.

FAG FOUL-UP

Pay Your Money, Take Your Choice

Cigaret prices were all over the place today . . . and different in virtually every place.

Latest change, following an increase in excise tax laid down in the federal budget, saw two brands selling in Victoria cheaper than in Vancouver.

A leading tobacco wholesaler reported that some stores today are selling Vogue and Daily Mail packages of 20 at 33 cents plus two cents tax.

Other brands are selling for 37 cents plus two cents tax.

B.C. Cigaret Vending Service Ltd. of Victoria says it will sell ordinary brands for 39 cents. To avoid complicated and costly changes in the coin systems of its machines, the company will require the buyer to insert 40 cents and will give a package of matches with each pack of cigarets in lieu of a penny change.

ROBINS ROBBED BY CROWS

Pirates are operating in the Inner Harbor area and Mrs. Rena Patenaude, 631 Superior, today appealed to city council to launch a campaign against them.

Crows are robbing eggs from robin's nests on ledges of the Empress Hotel and the Legislative Buildings, she said in a letter to City Hall.

She urged assistant sanitary inspector to exterminate the crows as he once wiped out some rats.

Phone Manager To Run 'Chest'

Appointment of Eric Mallett, manager of the B.C. Telephone Co. here as campaign chairman for Greater Victoria's 1959 Community Chest drive was announced today by Justin Harbord, president.

Mr. Harbord made the announcement at a luncheon meeting of the board of directors in the Union Club. He said the directors were confident Mr. Mallett would give first-rate leadership.

Mr. Mallett said he is proud to take on the job.

"The work of the Community Chest, with its 20 agencies, contributes more to the well-being of the community than any other fund-raising organization," he said.

MORE TAXES

"Without it, the people of Greater Victoria would be faced with further tax burdens in order to take care of essential services run by the various agencies.

"Last year's campaign was exceedingly successful and it is my sincere hope that the same good people who served us last year will come forward again."

Mr. Mallett said the system of united giving was established in an effort to overcome repeated solicitations for funds which could become both a burden and an annoyance to the public.

"It is the aim of the Community Chest to increase the number of agencies served so that ultimately there will be only one drive throughout Greater Victoria each year."

This year's drive is expected to take place in September.

26% HIGHER DONATIONS APPLAUDED

Victoria's Community Chest has been commended for doing "a wonderful job" by George Hart of Ottawa, executive secretary of the community funds division, Canadian Welfare Council.

During last year's drive Victoria, like many other centres, fell short of its goal. But Mr. Hart noted that the district's donations increased 26 per cent over the previous year.

"This is an excellent effort on Victoria's part considering the national average for increased donations was only eight per cent," Mr. Hart said.

Mr. Hart is here to advise the local organization on the best way to improve drives and agency operations in the future.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A marked improvement over the rainy weather of Tuesday is due for Victoria, weatherman William Mackie said today.

There will be sunshine late this afternoon and mostly clear skies tonight, he said. Thursday morning will be cloudy, but the rest of the day will be "mostly sunny," he said.

Temperatures will vary between 33 and 40 degrees throughout Greater Victoria tonight, and the maximum Thursday will be 57 degrees. Wind will be northerly at 15 miles per hour.

Butchart's world-famous gardens are now opened to the public between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Visitors to the gardens this week will see masses of tulips at the height of their spring beauty, and many beds of primroses and hyacinths.

Equally as attractive at this time of the year are the many flowering trees and shrubs.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Would you please tell me the origination of the movie "Oscar" awards, and why the name? H.D.S.

A. The gold-plated figurine awarded annually by the American Academy of Motion Pictures and Sciences for the best film acting, writing or production of the year started in 1927. In 1931 the present executive secretary of the academy, Mrs. Margaret Herrick, was a librarian with the academy. On seeing the nameless gold statue for the first time she exclaimed, "It reminds me of my Uncle Oscar"—and the name stuck.

Painter Wins Support for Drive To Stop Wanton Flower Picking

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

One of Victoria's most valuable tourist attractions is threatened by the wanton picking of flowers.

Many people agree with painter Emily Sartain that the public should be educated not to destroy this asset by picking any flower which takes their fancy.

This week is Wild Life Week throughout Canada but every week should be Wild Life Week in Victoria, said Miss Sartain in a letter to the Victoria Times.

THOUGHTLESS

"The very thing which makes Victoria so beautiful is fast being destroyed by thoughtless people," Miss Sartain wrote.

Since her letter appeared, Miss Sartain has had dozens of letters and phone calls from local citizens who feel as she does.

"Many of these people tell me they have trained their children not to pick wild flowers," she said, "and our local schoolteachers are helping in this direction."

INSPIRING

Dr. Adam Szczawinski, provincial botanist, described Miss Sartain's letter as "an inspiration".

"It is particularly important that the public should not pick the white lilies," he said. "If they are left alone the white lilies go to seed and then multiply.

"Already we have lost some fine natural displays of white lilies through wanton picking.

Mrs. J. S. Winthrop, who came here from England four years ago, said she had noticed parties of children "competing" to see who could pick the most flowers in Victoria parks.

"There should be a law against this," she said. "Our wild flowers are the most valuable tourist asset we have."

At present dogwood, trillium and rhododendrons are protected by law.

Mrs. Chris Phillips of 1166 Rhoda Lane, said one of the first things that attracted her to Victoria were the wild flowers.

"It would be a tragedy if we lost them," she said, "I think everyone should co-operate in helping to preserve our flowers."

Keating Centre Focal Point For Big Civil Defence Test

The B.C. civil defence control centre at Keating Cross Road will be the focal point of a province-wide exercise planned for April 24 and 25.

Liaison officers from headquarters, B.C. area, at Vancouver; from the PPCLI at Work Point, and from the Royal Canadian School of Engineering, Chilliwack, will assist CD officials at the control centre.

At 8 a.m., April 24, 500 members of the PPCLI, commanded by Lt. Col. James Allen, will leave Victoria for a mobile support column exercise at Duncan, including evacuation drill, traffic control, and rescue operations.

Both 25 Militia Group headquarters in Victoria and 25 Militia Group HQ in Vancouver will take part in the exercises.

The army teletype system across Canada will operate for 24 hours during the exercise and army signal equipment will link control centres at Victoria, Abbotsford, Chilliwack and Vancouver.

Ottawa Bows on Navy Fuel Oil Fight

OTTAWA (UPI) — The federal government has answered a barrage of criticism by switching its purchases of fuel oil for the navy from American to Canadian-based companies, Defence Production Minister Raymond O'Hurley revealed today.

He told the Commons that two Canadian companies, Standard Oil of Vancouver and British-American Oil of Toronto have already been awarded contracts. Both will refine Alberta crude at Canadian-based refineries, he said.

St. Lawrence Seaway to Open April 25

OTTAWA (CP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway will open for navigation Saturday, April 25, Transport Minister Hees announced today.

Mr. Hees made the announcement in the Commons following completion of an aerial survey indicating ice will have cleared the Montreal end of the big ditch by that date.

$9.40 Hike In City's School Tax

A school levy increase of some 1½ mills—equivalent to about $9.40 for the average taxpayer—was indicated today for Victoria.

City comptroller Dennis Young made the tentative estimate after school assessments were revised by provincial orders and the education department announced it would pay $2,997,000 of Greater Victoria's school board's $6,900,000 1959 budget.

School tax increases were expected to be higher in Oak Bay and Esquimalt, and slightly lower in Saanich, as a result of the assessment redistribution orders.

BREAKDOWN

Assessment adjustments ordered by the provincial commission and a year's population expansion will slice up the school budget among area residents (with last year's shares in brackets) on this basis:

Victoria 49.82 per cent (49.95); Saanich 27.88 per cent (26.97); Oak Bay 14.78 per cent (15.72); Esquimalt 5.53 per cent (5.4); and View Royal 1.99 per cent (1.96).

Although Victoria's share of the costs is lower, its actual dollar payments will be higher because the school budget soared $1,100,000 this year.

UNHAPPY

Esquimalt and Oak Bay officials were unhappy with the assessment commission's orders raising their rolls but Saanich Reeve George Chatterton said he was pleased with the reduction in that municipality's roll.

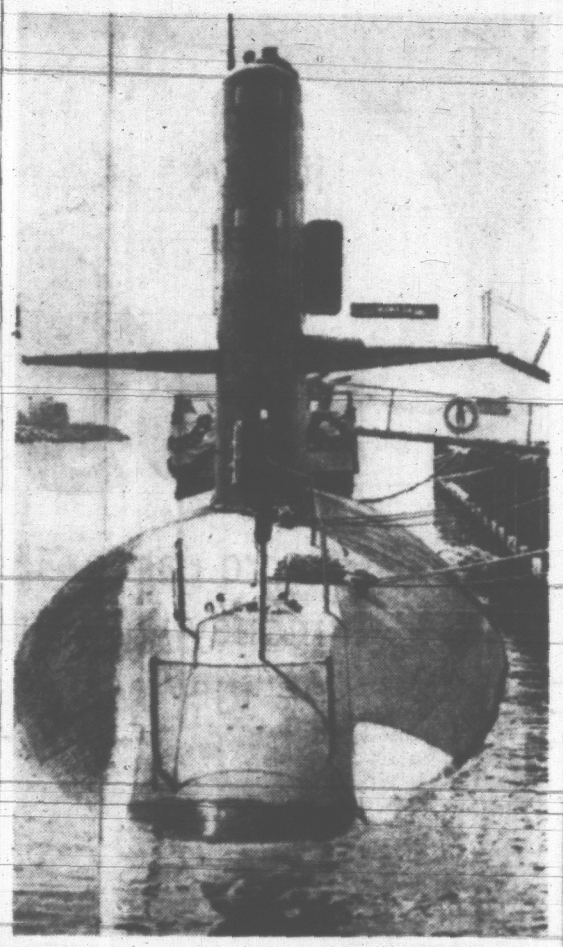

Percy Wright, assistant assessment commissioner, said Greater Victoria was "not the only centre" that received orders to increase and decrease rolls.

SOME SLOW

He said the sweeping changes were necessitated because:

"This is the first year that the school rolls have achieved equalization across the province. It has taken four years and some municipalities were not moving toward equaliza-

Appointment May Be Made In Few Days

(Times News Services)

WASHINGTON—Administration officials said today they expect Under-Secretary Christian A. Herter to be named secretary of state within the next few days to succeed John Foster Dulles.

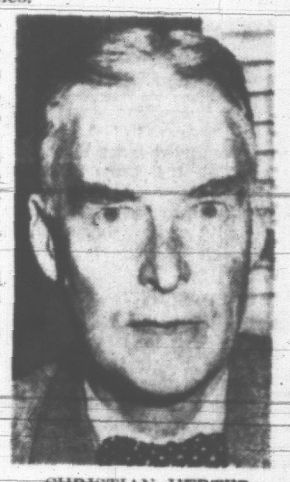

It has been generally understood that the former Massachusetts governor, who has been acting secretary since mid-February, would step into the job if Dulles had to quit.

Some officials still conceded an outside chance to some other possible nominee — particularly C. Douglas Dillon, under-secretary of state for economic affairs.

Some of Herter's close friends were surprised that Eisenhower did not name him immediately as secretary at the same time as Dulles' resignation was announced.

Herter is afflicted with arthritis of the hips which pains him if he walks more than 10 or 20 yards or stands for any length of time. But this physical limitation has never caused him to miss a day's work.

CHRISTIAN HERTER

Diplomats Regret Loss of Dulles

(Times News Services)

The resignation today of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles hit the western world with sorrow and shock today, although it was not unexpected.

Diplomats frankly admitted that the western alliance was losing one of its strongest—if not the strongest—figures at a critical point in East-West relations.

Many of these diplomats frequently had differed with Dulles on his approach to international events and he had not always been the most popular secretary of state. But all sympathized with him in his moment of personal tragedy.

His departure was no surprise and no doubt the Geneva foreign ministers conference on May 11 would go on as scheduled. But the West's number one ambassador had departed, weakening the free world's position.

The decision of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to step out of the active political arena and move up to the West German presidency already had struck the west a serious blow — even though Adenauer will remain in office until after this summer's East-West meetings.

Now Dulles' surrender to cancer has added to the serious shortage of leaders just when the West is gearing for a probable summit meeting with Communism's toughest negotiator — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

In a statement to the House of Commons, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said: "This is indeed sad news. President Eisenhower once referred to Mr. Dulles as a dedicated man.

IKE PRESSED BY DULLES ON STATEMENT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ailing Secretary of States Dulles is reported to have insisted that President Eisenhower hurry the announcement of his resignation. From his hospital bed, Dulles prevailed on Eisenhower to make the announcement today instead of next week as planned.

Dulles insisted on this, a responsible informant said today, because he did not want to make it appear he was hanging on tenaciously to his job.

Dulles has known for more than a week, informants said, that he would not be able to continue in the job he loved so dearly.

Police To Ring Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) —Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro will arrive tonight for an 11-day unofficial visit to North America.

U.S. state department security agents, teaming with the Washington police, have arranged to give him one of the tightest protective rings ever given a foreign visitor.

Castro, accompanied by a heavy guard of bearded revolutionary protectors, will fly in with a party of about 35 persons in a chartered Cuban government C-54 transport.

A number of threats, warning that Castro will never leave the U.S. alive, have alarmed authorities. Demonstrations and picketing are expected during his five-day stay in the capital and a similar visit to New York.

He is scheduled to visit Montreal April 26 and Toronto April 28 or 29. Canadian officials are trying to arrange a visit to Ottawa—possibly on April 28.

The National Press Club here said the 505 seats for its luncheon next Monday honoring Castro were sold out less than an hour after they became available.

Dulles 'Unable To Carry On'

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower today announced the resignation of cancer-stricken State Secretary Dulles.

With moisture in his eyes, Eisenhower told reporters that Dulles is "incapacitated" to carry on the burden of his office and to make policy.

Eisenhower said he will announce a successor soon to Dulles, who has been secretary of state since 1953.

The president declined to say that the job will be taken by undersecretary of state Christian A. Herter, who has been serving as acting secretary.

Eisenhower said he has asked Dulles to continue to serve him as a foreign policy consultant.

A reporter told Eisenhower it has been pretty much taken for granted that Herter would move up to Dulles' cabinet post.

Asked whether he had someone other than Herter in mind, Eisenhower said there are "all kinds of considerations" to take into account.

'NUMBER OF PEOPLE'

He added there are a "number of people with particular talents" who could fill the post.

Eisenhower's statement came less than 24 hours after Dulles', doctors concluded that his cancer probably has spread to the neck area. Earlier it apparently had been confined to the abdominal area.

The president's emotion regarding the turn for the worse in Dulles' condition became more and more obvious as he talked.

Eisenhower reported that he had talked to Dulles by telephone earlier this morning and that, in view of the doctors' latest findings, the secretary had decided to resign. A formal letter will reach him later, the president said.

HEAPS PRAISE

Eisenhower said he wanted to make it clear that Dulles is not helpless but that the secretary is "absolutely incapacitated for carrying on the administration load" and the policy-making chores of the state department.

Eisenhower heaped praise on Dulles, calling him one of the most able men the country has known.

In reply to a question, Eisenhower said that whether or not the job goes to Herter, the acting secretary will be on hand for the United States at

Businessmen Applaud Labor Move

VANCOUVER (CP) — Business leaders today applauded a plan by British Columbia trade unions to draw up a code of ethics.

"A constructive move, a responsible action on the part of unions, and one which would undoubtedly assist in establishing a better atmosphere in management-labor relations," commented Archie Cater, president of the Board of Trade.

Plans for the code, which would be the first of its kind in Canada, were announced Tuesday by Bill Black, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor.

It would be aimed at ending inter-union raiding, racketeering, jurisdictional strikes, and at promoting public confidence in labor.

Said R. V. Robinson, manager of the B.C. Manufacturers' Association: "It is a great step forward . . . the general public is too often the party to suffer from the actions of irresponsible labor leaders."

Ralph Pybus, past president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce: "The code will be helpful but I suggest we go one step further and make it a joint code for the benefit of labor, management and public interest."

New Raiding Charge Against SIU

OTTAWA (CP) — The Seafarers' International Union (CLC), already accused of raiding membership of another union in Eastern Canada, has been charged with raiding the same union on the West Coast.

The National Association of Marine Engineers, a fellow affiliate of the Canadian Labor Congress, announced today it has filed the new charge with the CLC executive council.

The 22-member council is to try the turbulent seafarers on the raiding counts late this month. It has power to suspend the 10,000-member union headed by Hal C. Banks of Montreal.

In the West Coast case, the engineers' union said SIU officials attempted to intimidate a N.A.M.E. member at Vancouver into joining the seafarers and signing a petition to have the N.A.M.E. decertified as bargaining agent for engineer employees of Northland Navigation Company.

CN Chief Appeals To 3,500 Firemen

MONTREAL (CP) — CNR President Donald Gordon today appealed to the railway's 3,500 firemen across Canada to "make known to your union representatives your desire to have an agreement."

He asked firemen to urge union leaders to sign a new contract based on the recommendations of a federal conciliation board.

In a personal letter mailed today to the firemen, Mr. Gordon explained the CNR decision to go ahead May 1 and implement the conciliation proposals—including wage increases and a plan for gradual withdrawal of firemen from yard and freight diesel engines.

He said the union's rejection of the conciliation report and the company's May 1 move will leave firemen "without a collective agreement and the mutual security which it would give.

"It is, I assure you, not the wish of management to leave you in this position of uncertainty. Consequently, in your own interests, I urge you to make known to your union representatives your desire to have an agreement.

"The proposals of the company are open for acceptance," Mr. Gordon said.

CAPSULE EJECTED

Nose Cone Hunted In Arctic

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon said today it believes the capsule from the Discoverer II satellite was dropped successfully in the North Polar region. There is some hope it may be recovered.

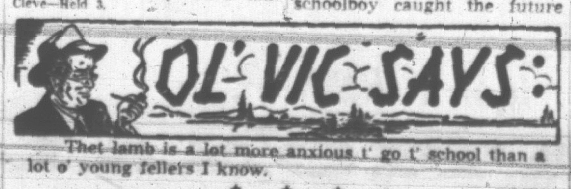

A brief announcement said that analysis of radio beacon and telemetry signals "indicates that the capsule did eject from the satellite as predicted."

The capsule was set to be ejected automatically when the Discoverer II satellite made its 17th orbit around the earth. That was about 7 p.m. Tuesday night.

There was no direct way of telling whether this took place. But scientists today studied intricate data radioed back from the satellite. They hoped that slight changes in its weight, its centre of gravity and altitude could tell them whether the capsule was successfully fired back toward earth.

SIGHTSEEING CHARLES CHEATS ON QUEUE

Coo Mum, the Prince Snuck In

LONDON (AP)—A Cockney schoolboy caught the future king of England benefitting from a royal prerogative—and the Cockney kid didn't like it.

Dressed in a pair of unpressed pants and a rumpled sweater, the 10-year-old prince wandered with an equerry into the public area of the castle and over to St. George's Chapel. There he found a long line of sightseeing mothers, fathers and their children on vacation between the spring and summer school terms.

Charles hung back, but the royal equerry marched to the head of the line and whispered to a uniformed attendant: "Charles would like to see King Edward's sword."

The attendant missed the magic name Charles — or failed to connect it with England's next monarch. He took one look at the unpressed youngster and replied:

"Then let him join the queue—a, the back."

"Quite obviously," said the equerry, "you don't realize that Charles is Prince Charles."

Charles entered the chapel just the same and inspected the six-foot eight-inch sword of King Edward III, father of that hero of all British schoolboys, the Black Prince.

Session Ends in Sask.; Labor Liveliest Topic

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan Legislature, elected by a predominantly farming population, had its liveliest debates this year while discussing labor.

The legislature prorogued Tuesday.

A. P. Weber, Social Credit House leader, introduced labor in the sessions' first week by backing Premier Joseph Smallwood in Newfoundland's loggers' dispute. Mr. Weber called for legislation to keep unions not affiliated with a Canadian-dominated union out of Saskatchewan.

Referring particularly to the South Saskatchewan Dam project, Mr. Weber said the International Teamsters' Union was hovering like a vulture waiting to pounce on its prey. Work on the dam is expected to be in full swing this summer.

The CCF government's reply came from W. G. Davies, member for Moose Jaw, who said any foreign domination in the Newfoundland dispute is on the side of the companies, not labor. He described Mr. Weber's remarks as an unwarranted reflection on the trade union movement.

While deploring corruption found in union administration in North America, Mr. Davies said Canada has had numerous examples of corruption in government, but this has not led to condemnation of government as an institution.

Asmundur Loptson (L, Saltcoats) accused United States labor leaders of fomenting strikes in Canadian industries so that they cannot compete with American industries. He added that "every union leader in Eastern Canada is coaching his members to vote CCF."

ANTI-UNION WAVE

Late in the session, Premier T. C. Douglas said a wave of anti-labor feeling seems to be sweeping across North America. It began with right-to-work legislation in the U.S. and continued with the Senate investigations.

In Canada, the trend had begun in Newfoundland in the loggers' dispute and was continuing in British Columbia where legislation had been brought in to stop picketing in some cases and to make unions a legal entity.

The premier defended unions and said more time has been lost by unemployment in previous years than through strikes.

Agriculture was not neglected during the session.

Liberals blamed both the Saskatchewan and federal governments for the depressed state of agriculture and came out in support of the farmer's march to Ottawa asking deficiency payments on grains.

Liberal Leader A. H. McDonald said average net income for Saskatchewan farmers dropped to $1,810 in 1957, compared with a nine-year average previously of $3,960.

Standing when the legislature prorogued were CCF 35, Liberals 14, Social Credit 3.

Memorial to Taft Dedicated by Ike

Broker Arrested In Theft

TORONTO (UPI)—The first move in a seven-month investigation by the Ontario Securities Commission into alleged theft of $1,000,000 14 years ago from a Toronto brokerage house, came today with the arrest of a former employee.

E. Alfred Lloyd, 58, was remanded to April 28 on charges of theft of $74,512 in securities after he surrendered at city hall to officials of the Ontario Securities Commission on the theft charge, seven others of forgery and one of falsifying records.

He was released on $25,000 bail.

The theft was uncovered after one of the most exhaustive investigations ever conducted by the audit branch of the commission, called in last September after the president, Frank Leslie, ordered a surprise audit which uncovered a rumored $1,000,000 shortage.

From my long experience of him I know how true this is."

The West German foreign

First mention of the news behind the Iron Curtain was in a short bulletin carried by the official Soviet news agency Tass about 40 minutes after the announcement. It contained no comment.

Diplomats at the Soviet Embassy in London expressed office said the resignation of Dulles was a "great loss," not only for the American people, but for the whole of the West and particularly for the German people.

"Leaving policies aside, the man's devotion to his principles was indeed admirable," a Soviet spokesman said.

In Ottawa, Opposition Leader Pearson, former Liberal external affairs minister who knew Mr. Dulles well, said the free world has lost a "towering and dedicated public servant."

"If any man was ever a casualty in battling for the things he believes in, Mr. Dulles was that man," said Mr. Pearson. The secretary's work in building up collective resistance to aggression had been of "immense, at times of decisive, value."

both an April 29 meeting of Western foreign ministers in Paris, and a May 11 conference of those ministers with the Soviet Union's foreign minister. The East-West conference will be held at Geneva and may be a prelude to a summit meeting.

A reporter asked Eisenhower to evaluate the impact of Dulles' resignation on U.S. foreign policy.

The president replied that Dulles has developed a team at the state department and that his work will go on. He expressed confidence that there will "be no damage" to U.S. relations with other countries.

CUT VACATION

Dulles had clung for weeks to the hope that he could make it to the Geneva meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers. Dulles re-entered Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington last Sunday, cutting short a Florida rest he had hoped would help rebuild his failing strength.

He had gone to the hospital Feb. 10 for a hernia operation. The recurrence of cancer, with which he was first stricken in 1956, was then discovered. But whereas the doctors had taken out a piece of his large intestine in 1956, there was no effort this time to cure by surgery.

Radiation treatments were tried and Dulles was reported to have stood these well. But then Tuesday came the report indicating the cancer may have spread.

Dulles had many critics in the political and diplomatic fields. Some accused him of an arrogant carelessness and said he had casually brought the United States to the brink of war time after time. "Brinkmanship" became a word of scorn.

His supporters have been as strong in the other direction.

GRAY JOINS BLUES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers announced signing veteran import lineman Herb Gray for the 1959 Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

Eisenhower, for an important example, once called him "one of the wisest, most courageous and most dedicated men" ever to serve as head of the state department. Other admirers agreed he had preserved peace.

Dulles was only 29 when President Woodrow Wilson assigned him his first diplomatic mission. That was in 1917, after the U.S. had broken relations with Germany, when he negotiated with Central American countries for the safety of the Panama Canal. He later served as counsel to the American delegation at the Versailles Peace Treaty negotiations.

SERVED DEWEY

Dulles became a figure on the world stage toward the end of the Second World War when he served as foreign affairs adviser to the Republican presidential candidate, Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

He helped work out plans for NATO and served with state secretary James F. Byrnes in drafting Second World War peace treaties with countries of Eastern Europe and with state secretary George C. Marshall in the early, unsuccessful negotiations for a German peace settlement.

In 1949, he was for a few months a U.S. senator from New York, appointed by Dewey.

Dulles himself says one of his outstanding accomplishments was the negotiation in 1950-51 of a treaty of peace with Japan.

Since 1953 he travelled hundreds of thousands of miles by air to negotiate or confer with all the principal political leaders of the world except those of Communist China.

When Dulles became secretary of state on Jan. 21, 1953, he was following in the footsteps of his materna grandfather, John Watson Foster, who also held the cabinet post.

TO RUN AGAIN — President Syngman Rhee, 84, of South Korea, announced today he will run for a fourth four-year term in 1960.

CITY WOMAN GOT WORD FROM ACCUSED PRIVATE DETECTIVE

'Divorce Quite Simple to Obtain'

Mrs. Margaret Anne Shaw, former wife of Ralph Schmidt, Tuesday denied in Assize Court that she was in any way involved in a divorce action in connection with a divorce granted Leonard D. MacDonald and his wife Ann Louise.

The Crown is claiming the same alleged act of adultery was used as evidence in two hearings when divorces were granted Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt and Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald.

Mrs. Shaw said she had called on Robert James Adrian, former private investigator charged with giving false evidence, "and left with the impression it (a divorce) was quite simple to obtain."

Mrs. Shaw said the private detective telephoned her later and said arrangements could be made and that they involved "another divorce."

Mr. Adrian is accused specifically of fabricating evidence for divorce proceedings between Mrs. Schmidt and Mr. MacDonald in the Dominion Hotel Aug. 22, and giving subsequent false testimony.

Mrs. Shaw, the former Mrs. Schmidt, denied under cross-examination by the defence that she was with MacDonald the night in question, and that there had been any involvement whatsoever between Mr. MacDonald and herself.

She denied having stayed in the hotel, or remembering being served later with papers in connection with the MacDonald divorce.

Mr. Justice Thomas Brown asked Mrs. Shaw "why go to an investigator rather than to a lawyer?" for a divorce.

"Because I knew I had to have adultery to go to a lawyer," she replied.

Mr. Justice Brown then asked: "Were you going to have adultery arranged?"

"No."

The judge then asked why she had gone to an investigator.

She replied: "I heard it was commonly done."

Mrs. Anne Louise Harling, the former Mrs. MacDonald and petitioner in the divorce action — both actions were heard last Nov. 13 — said there had been some complications regarding payment to Mr. Adrian for his services.

Her husband had paid $225 for Mr. Adrian's services, a portion of which was a finance company loan for which she had been the co-signer.

The trial was continuing today.

ADVENTUROUS VOYAGER PLANS ARCTIC PASSAGE

THERE'S A FELLOW named John Bremmer who plans to emulate Canada's famous ice-breaking Arctic pathfinder, HMCS Labrador, but in an 18-foot, outboard-powered cabin cruised. Moreover, he wants to make the Arctic passage with only his wife as crew.

This isn't any joke. He's in grim earnest. And the Victoria Outboard Club, one of the most vigorous and populous of the several boatsmen's organizations here, believes in him to the extent that they plan a big reception for him here late this month and the public exhibition of his teak-hulled cruiser — providing he's willing.

He seems to be.

The story is a little difficult to piece together because Jack Bremmer has been a hard man to find. But Cliff Bennett, a member of the Victoria Outboard Club and an amateur radio operator, finally accomplished it.

He knew, a year ago, that Bremmer had left New York ostensibly for Pacific Coast ports, by way of the Panama canal, and that he had set his heart on the circumnavigation of the continent. So on March 17, 1958, he called up another radio operator, a network friend of his in San Pedro, Calif., to see if this chap, R. J. "Pat" Birley, could possibly locate the intrepid boatman.

He got a call from his friend Birley the other day, and a letter followed, in which the San Pedro man explained: "On March 17, 1958, I took your message and tried to find someone who knew his (Bremmer's) whereabouts . . .

"On March 26, 1958, I picked up a newspaper and read that he was in port."

Pat Birley had promised to try to see Bremmer in person and extend the Victoria invitation to him. He ultimately did so, and Bremmer has replied — through Birley — that they can expect him here the latter part of April, give or take a week.

Bremmer explained his delay in reaching the Pacific coast. It seems he ran into difficulties in the Caribbean because of the Cuban trouble. Apparently the authorities did not encourage small craft travel through the Panama canal at the time. No one can explain just why. But Bremmer had been knocking about for months in the Caribbean area and only in March did he finally get through to the Pacific.

Newspapermen had been waiting for Bremmer, who had made an appointment with them for March 25. They had hired a boat to meet him off San Diego. But they hardly expected him to keep his appointment because he would have had to run through a gale during the night.

Nevertheless, he appeared on schedule, with only one motor functioning, and a story of near disaster following the fouling of one propeller when a loose line went over the side. Green seas had swept over him. It had been a rough and rugged night. But he was more than ever convinced, as a consequence, that his cruiser could weather anything the Pacific or the Arctic might throw at him.

The press boat towed him in to San Diego and gave Bremmer quite a story, with pictures of the lean-jawed seaman and his tough little craft.

Just to be technical for a moment, his teakwood cruiser is powered by two 35-horsepower outboards, and is equipped with every safety device the Bendix aviation people could devise for him, including an automatic pilot.

"It's just like another hand in the boat," Bremmer says.

Of course he also has radio-telephone and a portable generator.

But the "third" hand he wants for his Arctic adventure is his 25-year-old wife, a ballerina in San Francisco. She hasn't said "yes."

Just why does the Victoria Outboard Club want Bremmer as an honored guest? Because he's a fine exponent of the policy the club is trying to get across to all sea-going sportsmen: safe navigation.

The club believes his 18-foot cruiser, with its modern equipment, will demonstrate just how seaworthy such a craft can be when properly handled. His voyaging is a lesson to all boatmen.

Mind you, the club doesn't altogether hold with the attempt at the Arctic passage. Nobody seems to know just how, with his fuel capacity of something under 150 gallons, he could possibly make such a journey even if the ice allowed.

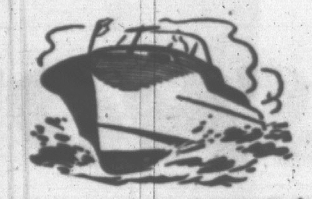

"Maybe he plans some sort of fuel-drop system," Cliff Bennett suggested. But he admitted he didn't know the answer.

Bremmer, however, has said he plans to follow the shoreline as closely as conditions allow and he seems to have every confidence in his success.

Otherwise, how could he dare invite his young wife to accompany him?

Next Year's Exhibition Set for Patricia Bay

THIS YEAR Victoria will see its first boat show. Space for the half-million-dollar display was sold out before the sponsors, Vic-Van Isle Kinsmen, got outside the Greater Victoria limits in their canvass for exhibitors. So they are planning already for the 1960 show, which will include exhibits from all Vancouver Island points as well as from the mainland.

This year's show, to be held in the Curling Club's big "ice well," provides space for 25 exhibitors of boats, engines, trailers and a vast variety of marine accessories. But next year the Kinsmen hope to have the seaplane hangar at Patricia Bay, with more than twice the floor area and on a waterfront establishment which will allow floating exhibits as well as access by sea. It should be a unique affair.

If the expected 10,000 visit the show this year, probably twice that number at very least will want to see the 1960 exhibition.

Dates of the boat show are April 16, 17 and 18. Thursday the doors open at 6, close at 10.30 p.m. But Friday and Saturday the times are 1 to 10.30 p.m. At 10 p.m. Saturday the draw will be made for the door prize, a $2,500 boat, motor and trailer combination.

But the door prize is only one added attraction. In the Curling Club's upstairs rooms there will be a continuous motion-picture program, with films from the provincial government's big library of outdoor living films, boating and water sports.

The biggest hydroplane ever built in Victoria will be on display, a "280" beauty with a speed of well over 100 miles an hour.

There will be 70-odd boats, from six-foot dinghies to 30-foot cruisers, including an outdoor display on the land adjacent to the rink.

Fran and Freida Pearman will be hostesses. These lovely twins will act as "side boys" on the gangway that will lead to the display floor.

What will the show accomplish, besides showing Victorians what dealers have in the way of equipment for enjoyment on the water? Proceeds will go mainly towards the Kinsmen's project of a Girl Guides' camp, a permanent summer home, in the Shirley area, Sooke. They have pledged $5,600 for the 160-acre tract, site of a farm established in 1885, with its own creek rambling through the property making a dam and swimming pool an inevitable project.

Mrs. Gilbert D. Kennedy, who is commissioner for Girl Guides, Gonzales Division, and chairman of the ways and means committee for developing the campsite, is enthusiastic.

There are 1,600 children in the Guides and Brownies in the Victoria area, she says, and the hope is to develop the Sooke property for the movement's use in perpetuity.

The Brownies have a camp at Sooke River, near Milne's Landing, six and a half acres. And the new development will be mainly for the older girls. There will be five or six individual campsites, all self-contained, with their own cooking arrangements and other conveniences. It will be a "canvas" camp, originally in any event, although some of the Kinsmen are talking about permanent buildings.

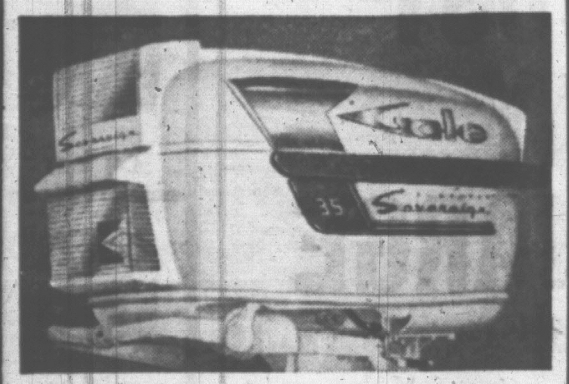

EARL C. WESTWOOD

YACHTSMAN SOON MAY NEED Power Squadrons Train for Ticket

DO YOU SUPPOSE authority will ever demand that before a man or woman drives a motorboat or pilots a sailboat he must have a permit, a licence, a certificate of efficiency? Do you suppose the time will ever come that boat owners, like car owners, won't be able to operate without passing an examination?

And if not, why not?

In Canada we are approaching the point where a million sporting craft will be sailing our lakes and seacosts. There were more than 700,000 in 1958.

The question of control, therefore, becomes more and more important.

The wise boatman will fit himself for the time when he may be required to pass an examination. The opportunity is available to him. The chance to learn the rules of the road that apply equally at sea as on the highways is there. And the complementary knowledge that is so essential to good seamanship and safe navigation is there, too—in the shape of the Canadian Power Squadrons courses.

What is the Canadian Power Squadrons?

It is an organization of yachtsmen, a national association of boatmen dedicated to the promotion of safety and healthful recreation afloat by means of courses of practical instruction.

Under its program you will gain knowledge that will increase your safety on the water, make you capable of complying with vital regulations, and add interest and pleasure to your recreation.

Pilotage is the basic course, just as it is with the navy's candidates for a watchkeeping certificate. It is open to any interested boatman — whether he's a member of another club or group or not.

Once you have passed the examination that follows the 13-week pilotage course, you will be able to take advanced seamanship, advanced pilotage, celestial navigation.

To break it down a little, your pilotage course covers the field of essential equipment, lights, registration and licensing.

You are drilled in the rules of the road at sea, signals, visual and sound.

You learn cordage and tackle, anchors and holding power, mooring, manoeuvering, docking, and the care of your gear and how to use it best.

You learn your compasses and the rules of correction from compass, to magnetic, to true; and how to take bearings and lay off your courses.

You are taught the use of aids to navigation, radio, lights, buoys and beacons.

But mainly you are drilled in safety, the prevention of accident, the methods of meeting emergencies when they do arise in spite of all sensible precautions.

That's the beginning of the program the Canadian Power Squadrons bring to you boatmen. It isn't the end. You go on from there until you are qualified to wear the flag of the fleet, which pledges a member to "perpetuate high standards in navigation and seamanship."

You'll be in good company in this group, which in a very short period has expanded right across Canada from Windsor, Ont., its Canadian birthplace—in both directions, to include the farthest provinces of British Columbia and Newfoundland.

In 1948 there were three of these squadrons, with a total of 35 members. By 1949 the numbers of squadrons and members had doubled. In 1957 there were 28 squadrons and 1,648 members. Last year there were 36 squadrons and 2,156 members. There will be more than 3,000 members by the end of this year.

Few realize, wrote H. G. Lussow a year ago in Mayfair, that they sail under the watchful eyes of the department of transport, the board of steamship inspectors, the registrar of shipping, the customs, the RCMP, the port authorities and the liquor control board!

But it's a fact. All of these departments of government have an eye on the boatman. That's why the Canadian Power Squadrons believe that if they can teach sailors to be seamen they've done them and the nation a service.

The luxury sport of the few, of not so long ago, has become the No. 1 recreational sport of Canadians. Particularly is this the case in British Columbia, where both fresh water and sea cruising offer opportunities no other country in the world can improve on. Safety, therefore, becomes an increasingly important consideration of authority. And that brings us back to the earlier warning that, unless safety measures are remembered and observed by the sea-going sportsman and the toll of accidents controlled, there will undoubtedly come a time when examination and licensing will become obligatory.

Canadian Power Squadrons across the country anticipate such a situation. But if they can carry out their program as they hope to do, they will perhaps preclude any such control measure.

Already in some areas—notably Hamilton and Toronto—only boatmen with the CPS certificate of efficiency can get the "driver's licence" to pilot their own craft.

In Victoria, J. Courtney Haddock is commander of the squadron. His lieutenant-commander is Vic W. Griffin, first lieutenant Harold Craven, and Garth Griffiths and Dr. George Russell are lieutenants, the former as secretary to the group, the latter as education officer.

There is a growing membership behind them.

On Vancouver Island there are already squadrons at Nanaimo, Port Alberni, Campbell River, Courtenay, and Cowichan is in process of organization.

These Power Squadrons would subscribe to this advice to all those who profess to be seamen:

1. Know your boat, its capacities and capabilities;
2. Know your motor, but carry tools, oars, anchor in case of failure;
3. Carry lifejackets for all aboard;
4. Don't over-power;
5. Carry fire-fighting equipment that will work;
6. Watch the weather and the lee shore;
7. If you can see an emergency in advance, get all hands into lifejackets;
8. If you are capsized or in a sinking condition, stay with the boat;
9. Exercise courtesy and common sense;
10. Always let somebody know where you are going before you start. Then they'll know where to look for you.

AQUA SKIERS PLAY IT SAFE

ONE OF THE MOST EXHILIRATING of water sports is skiing. It sounds like a contradiction of terms. But the people who have ever ridden those broad blades, and most who have watched their speeding progress behind a power boat, will understand it.

Next to surfboarding, the experts tell you, water skiing is the most exciting water sport. It requires skill and leg strength and a firm hand grip. But it isn't dangerous.

The only time there can be trouble is if an inexperienced skilier or a non-swimmer goes out on the water. In the first case he may do someone else a damage. In the second, unless he wears adequate life-preserving apparatus, he can very easily drown.

Then how do you get experience? The Victoria Aqua Ski Club is one place.

This organization originally was the "ski" division of the Victoria Outboard Club. But in 1957 it voted for independence and became a part of the Canadian Water Ski Association.

Prominent among the organizers, and elected to the first executive were Cliff Johnson, president; Charles Clarke, vice-president; Edith Neff, secretary, and Valerie Sharp, treasurer.

That first year was an active one. With a view to publicizing the new club, Knute Johnson and Neale Smith made the first ski crossing of the Juan de Fuca Strait behind power boats driven by Don Lowe and Cliff Johnson.

But 1958 was a banner year. It was a feather in the cap of the organizers that the Victoria Aqua Ski Club was awarded the dominion open championships, run off at Shawnigan Lake in that centennial summer.

That took some doing. Kelowna wanted the show very badly. And the Victoria club had to dig deep for the substantial cash guarantee required. They got it. And the event was a huge success.

That summer the VASC put on an exhibition at the opening of the new Gorge Park at the invitation of the JJunior Chamber of Commerce. John Godfrey, the Canadian champion, attended.

This club still plans competitions and displays which will increase its prestige and popularity with the public. But its programs are invariably staged with the safety factor stressed.

Leaving a furious, foaming wake behind them, these three water skiers ride in pyramid at Shawnigan Lake, a favorite haunt of enthusiasts for this sport. Neil Smith and Dan Lowe are the skiers, Knute Johnson takes the ride. Members of the Victoria Aqua Ski Club, these lads have learned the organization's most important lesson—safety first.

Here are some of its rules, recommended to tyro and veteran alike:

Always have two in the towing boat.

If you fall, always raise an arm immediately to show you are unhurt.

If jumping, make sure the takeoff and landing place are clear of swimmers.

Keep away from swimmers at all times.

But they aren't broken by members of the VASC. Infractions would mean dismissal. And dismissal means disgrace.

These people set an example in sensible enjoyment of the sport of their choice. And they enjoy it just as much, and more, than if they took a lot of silly chances, like weaving among swimmers or skimming the sun-bathers on a dock.

RCNSA Doors Always Open

NAVY NEEDS NEW SEAMEN

THE PEOPLE OF THE NAVY have been sailing for a good many years but the Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association is only a 10-year-old youngster.

Originally this club was known as the RCN Yacht Club, West Coast, but when the Canadian association was formed in Ottawa the Victoria organization became a part of its fleet. Now there are squadrons on Atlantic and Pacific coasts and in most of the reserve divisions scattered across the country.

The navy provides the boats for these squadrons, with a view to extending the knowledge of all ranks, and, incidentally, giving them exercise and competition of a most democratic sort. It isn't an unusual thing for a very senior officer to crew for a very junior skipper.

The RCNSA has its headquarters in a clubhouse at Esquimalt, on Munro Head, in an attractive setting and with good sailing reaches handy. Its fleet comprises six 26-foot "C" class vessels known as "Sailorettes," five rugged service dinghies and the privately owned craft of various classes.

Halifax, by the way, possesses three yachts, the Grilse, Tuna and Pickle, of a size and seaworthiness to participate in the long-distance ocean races to such far places as Bermuda. One of these days, the Esquimalt squadron hopes to have such craft.

But in the meantime they do very well with what they have. With their privately owned "C" Class and Lightnings to help out, members are able to maintain a full program of racing throughout the year.

Membership is drawn not only from serving navy, but from all their former naval personnel, including army and air force people who have at some time or other served with the navy; civilians employed by the navy; and, as, associate members, members of the University Naval Training Divisions, HMCS Venture, Royal Roads, and NTS apprentices.

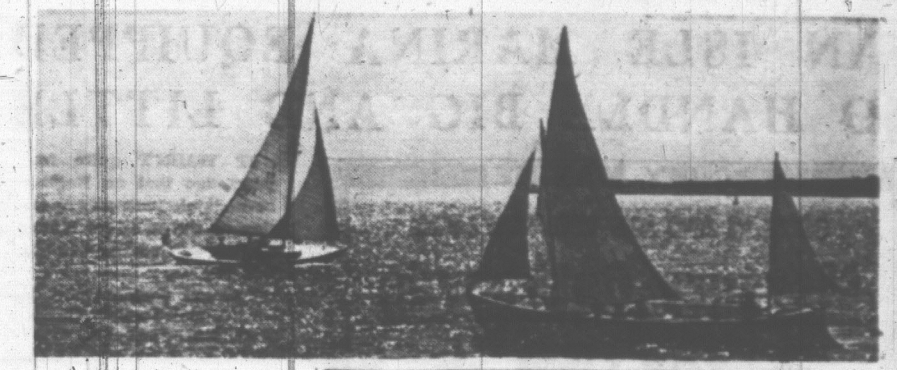

Early in May a date will be set for the Esquimalt squadron sail past, when the honorary commodore, Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner, is expected to take the salute. After that the summer season is officially open.

This year's executive comprises: Frank Piddington, commodore; Lt. Cdr. Fred Douglas, vice-commodore; Lt. Rene LaRoche, rear-commodore; Lt. Joyce Green, secretary; Lt. Bryan Berryman, treasurer; R. H. Sharpe, fleet captain; Lt. Cdr. G. H. Powell, service boat captain; and Lou Seddon, John Davies, PO Frank Davies and Dennie Parsons, directors.

The RCNSA is always seeking new members. That's largely because of the turnover in Esquimalt-based personnel. Keen yachtsmen will usually find their way to the clubhouse soon after they arrive here, but the novice is sometimes shy and hesitates to approach the secretary.

REAR ADMIRAL H. S. RAYNER . . . honorary commodore.

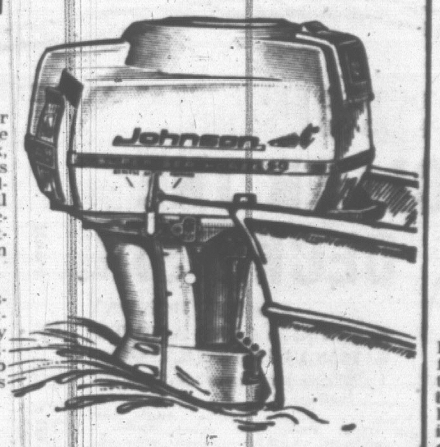

Here are two types of craft the RCNSA members will sail in their regular Wednesday afternoon contests and most weekends.

SALES AND SERVICE

"Service Is Our Specialty"

660 Discovery St. EV 5-8922

IT WASN'T quite four years ago that an English-born couple took over operation of the one-time Sidney Marina and renamed it Van Isle Marina.

They are partners still, Esther W. and Stephen C. Dickinson, but associated with a former South African business man, Peter Payne, in what is now one of the biggest of the "big five" marinas of the area.

The Dickinson partnership has been productive. These two energetic and capable caterers to the wants and needs of the boating fraternity had the vision to expand their operations to meet the anticipated demand.

Theirs is a multiple-angled enterprise. While they have added wharfage facilities—more than doubling the 100-odd berths they inherited from the former owners—they have developed in many other directions.

They have built one of the finest ramps on Vancouver Island and it is used by the Victoria Outboard Club and scores of unattached boat owners to the exclusion of all others.

They have dredged inshore and added a fourth float to their array of wharfage.

ESTHER AND STEPHEN DICKINSON

They are installing a new gas dock.

They have a machine shop which specializes in outboards.

They have a freezing plant. This needs more than a word of explanation. Fishermen bring to it the numerous non-saleable items of their catch to be quick frozen and shipped to the mink farms which dot the Saanich peninsula. It's just a sideline, of course, and not particularly remunerative, but it is a useful adjunct just the same and very welcome to the fur farmers.

Mr. Dickinson doesn't encourage the idea of using the plant for sports fishermen's catches. It would mean opening it up and losing low temperature. But . . .

"If you bring me along a 40-pounder I'll freeze it for you," he laughed.

Van Isle is well equipped for making hull and engine repairs, and these, with the outboard machine shop, are actually the principal operations of the yard. There's a marine railway which can handle craft up to 65 feet, and a boat transfer (a truck with a crane) which can lift up to three tons.

Out of the increasing demand there has been established at Van Isle a yacht charter agency. Yacht brokerage is part of the business.

Mr. Dickinson explained that there are a number of owners in the Sidney area with fine, sturdy and comfortable vessels who are prepared to work on charter.

"We get inquiries of this nature from as far away as Texas," he said.

There are, of course, always dock spaces for visiting craft, and the parking area — much in demand for trailers — has been extended to more than two acres. Paving will be undertaken shortly.

As to staff, the Dickinsons have been fortunate. They have two expert mechanics, a shipwright, painter and helper to do the outside jobs. There are two office workers and a full-time salesman, because the sale of boat engines and hulls is becoming as important to a marina as any other aspect of the trade.

Staff, incidentally, will have to be increased.

"Our policy is to expand and improve facilities to meet the demand," Mr Dickinson said.

Mrs. Dickinson comes from the Devon country and her husband, whose mother was Canadian-born, is out of Cornwall. We was a seaman even as a boy, before the Second World War, and he was in one of the Royal Navy's paddle-wheel minesweepers during the incredible evacuation from Dunkirk. He retired with lieutenant-commander's rank.

There isn't very much the "captain" of the marina does not know about ships.

Canoe Cove Marina Ranks Amongst Coast's Finest

CANOE COVE MARINA LTD. has several claims to real distinction. First, this is one of the snuggest harbors on the southern end of Vancouver Island, and in addition is possibly the best-laid-out marina of the lot. Moreover, its setting is one of exceptional beauty. Almost surrounded—except for the entrance channels — by wooded, protecting promontories, it posses a backdrop of forest and an ample acreage to assure its splendid isolation.

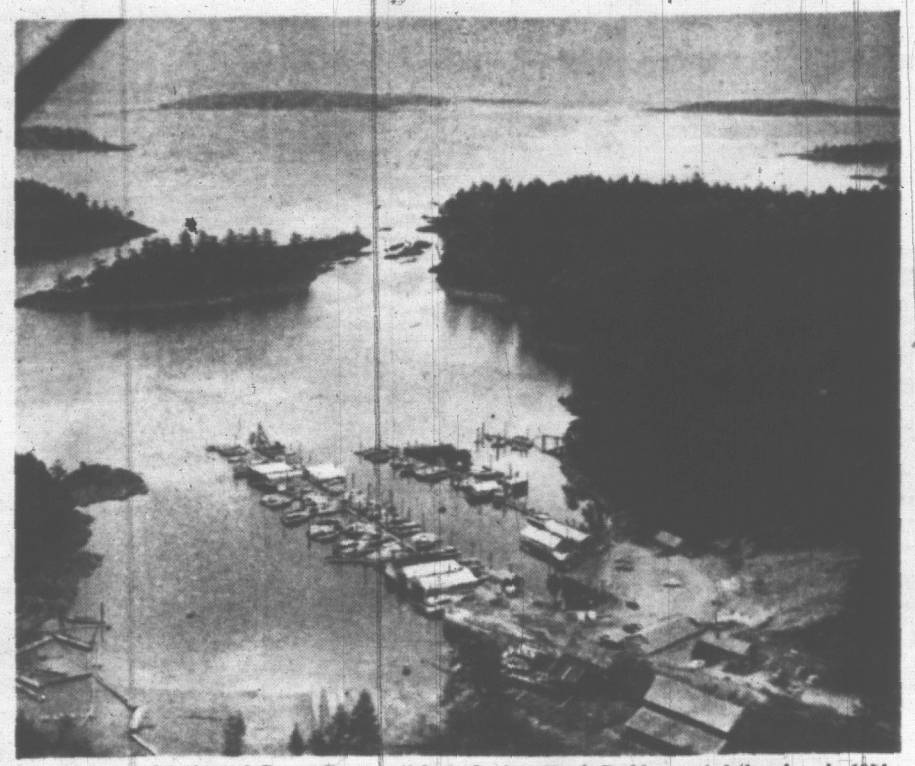

BRITISH SMALL CRAFT SALES

Secondly, the boat-building facilities are not surpassed by any plant on this part of the coast, and the cruiser product of this yard built to the John Brandlemeyr design—is striking for its comfort, economy and beauty of line.

With a $300,000 investment in the establishment, T. A. Fee, a relative newcomer to the area, has plans for still further expansion. He will add this summer to the already not inconsiderable "village," a hip-roofed cottage which will deal in antiques and Indian-made curiosities.

This is an aerial view of Canoe Cove as it looked when Hugh Rodd operated the place in 1954. Since then the new management has almost doubled accommodation, added various amenities for yachtsmen, and commenced a building program of 12 26-foot cruisers a year. (See Page 13).

At Canoe Cove are berthed the pick of the Vancouver Island yacht fleet. There is everything there, from sweet-lined ocean racing hulls with their towering spars, to the 40-knot runabout so popular with younger sailors.

Peter Barr, manager of the yard, estimates there is an investment of approximately $3,000,000 represented in the vessels alongside the extensive Canoe Cove wharfage.

It was Hugh Rodd who initially developed Canoe Cove, and he was there for years. Now retired, and living close to the sea on Sansum Narrows, he had achieved a reputation for the Canoe Cove enterprise which the new proprietorship has done nothing to diminish. With all its natural advantages, it is doubly blessed by good management and fine artisans.

For example, there are Arny and John Bentzen, crew-cut twins, shipwrights and riggers, expert in their line, who owned their own shipyard in Denmark. There is Don Matheson, whose knowledge of sailing craft and the sails that drive them, is rarely equalled in these days of power.

Mr. Barr, who was an engineer commander with the Royal Navy, has that experience and training as a qualification besides his specialized knowledge of sailing, and Mr. Fee, himself, is an experienced builder and boatman. There is a staff of 16 permanent employees.

When Tom Fee took over in 1957 he immediately added floats and boathouses, bringing wharfage facilities to better than 200 berths, in addition to the mooring buoys in the basin and an excellent anchorage.

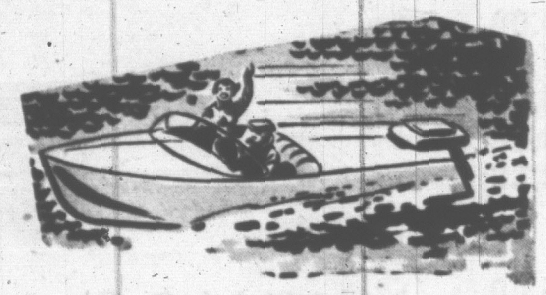

Ashore, there are the rigging loft and stowage for spars and sails, a ship chandlery, general store, showers and laundry facilities, the fuel depot and ice plant. This, in fact, is a self-contained little community.

For the most part, of course, it has a "floating" population. But in summer, with its wharf accommodation filled, the basin crowded with yachts from all over the Northwest and as far south as San Diego, this marina is a spot of colorful activity. The "villagers" are picturesque. The vessels are beautiful. And on a quiet night, with the riding lights and dim-lit ports painting the still water, this is a place of beauty no visitor will forget.

Million Dollars in Marinas

THERE IS WELL over $1,000,000 invested in the boat business in the Sidney area. And the value of the business is increasing with every tide.

People in the business will tell you that small craft—from the little 16-footers to the 60-foot power cruisers — lying alongside the marinas are worth something like $7,000,000. During the height of the season, with visiting craft from the United States adding to the volume of traffic, the aggregate is much higher.

There are five major marinas in the area of Tsehum Bay and, around Curteis Point, Canoe Cove. If you followed the shoreline from Roberts Point, your first big enterprise on your port hand would be Van Isle Marina, and, close by, Shoal Harbor Marine. Across Tsehum Harbor are the Clark Brothers' expanding works, and east of them, Randle's Landing. Then around Curteis Point, in one of the loveliest harbors on this continent, is the Canoe Cove Marina.

All of these businesses are flourishing. All of them are growing. All have high hopes for the future of their enterprises, for very sound reasons: boating, either by powered craft or in sail, is gaining in popularity at a rate it is difficult for marinas to emulate; and Sidney, because it is the busiest port of entry for small craft in British Columbia, and the gateway to a superb cruising area, has the facilities to serve this clamoring fleet.

These big marinas are not in Sidney proper. But they are close by, and offer shelter not to be found outside Point Roberts.

This year Sidney is likely to pass through customs as many as 3,000 American vessels. The little port will be doing an increased business in ferry shipping, too, and it is inevitable that customs facilities should be improved. Not that the operation is inefficient, but it is rapidly becoming inadequate.

There is talk in Sidney itself, outside of the marinas, of providing moorings and fueling depots for yachts. That may be another development.

And, in the magnificent marine park and anchorage off Sidney Spit there are attractions for boatmen unsurpassed in the general area. This is a favorite regatta site.

All in all, the boating future looks bright for the whole district.

And boating is big business. Sidney businessmen point out, not without a certain understandable pride, that boat services of all kinds comprise one of Vancouver Island's major industries. There isn't any doubt about it. And because of Sidney's situation, and the background of service offered by the five flourishing marinas, more and more business is going to be attracted.

There are two other considerations to bear in mind. More and more, independent, retired people are moving into the district. Many of them enjoy boating as a recreation. It is not necessarily an ardous sport.

And around the corner from them are the scores of fishermen, owning their own craft, who make Sidney and its environs their home.

These people have a tendency to live as neighbors, in any event. But the fact that they have at their back doors the expert services of technicians, the availability of slipways and machine shops, welding and electrical repairs, and all the other multitude of requirements of commercial craft, are additional reasons for them to congregate in this part of the Saanich Peninsula.

And one last reason for Sidney's popularity with boatmen. It's an excellent place from which to start a fishing expedition. Satellite, Sansum, Swanson and a score of other channels offer possibly the best sport salmon fishing in the southern Vancouver Island area.

Not every fisherman wants to anchor off some unfamiliar beach for the night. He prefers the company of his own kind in some snug harbor, alongside a marina float where he can get fresh water, ice and anything else he requires.

Then, in the vague light that is the prelude to the dawn, he'll cast off and hum out of the harbor, heading for his favorite fishing area — only minutes away.

And he'll be back again, that's sure.

FINE MARINA FOR JERVIS INLET

A magnificent new marina is planned for the Jervis Inlet area. The exact locality is Vanguard Bay, on the narrow neck of land that separates sea from beautiful West Lake.

This is a summer home development site, the enterprise of S. Lanktree Thompson, president of Ocean-Lake Estates Ltd.

The marina development is in conjunction with the opening up of both sea and lakefront property on Nelson Island, which backers say offers seclusion without isolation.

The site is about 60 miles north of Vancouver, only half the distance from Courtenay, closer still to Parksville.

There is a fine yacht anchorage, and a 60-foot service float is planned, as well as a 200-foot wharf. There will be full fuel service, water and power available, and the usual amenities modern marinas are offering visiting yachtsmen.

The really unique aspect of the place will be the 300-yard road for transporting of small craft from sea to fresh water.

Fishing guides will be available.

WEST BAY'S AMBITIOUS
Park in Prospect?

DON'T LOOK NOW, because much of the shore is a litter of log ends, unfinished floats and mud—but in a year or so Esquimalt's West Bay will present a very different prospect. It well may be a show-place. It certainly will be the hub of the district's pleasure-boating business.

Already it has that industrious aspect which is the mark of planning and progress. Close by the main gate to Work Point barracks is the West Bay Marina, where Eve Cox, Ralph Sanford and Jimmy Worswick are just entering upon their second year of feverish activity. Their combined workshop and office space already is full to overflowing, and they are building a new showroom, lockers and stowage space closer to the water and a covered boat storage area adjacent. Construction will be completed this summer, they hope.

Just along Head Street from West Bay Marina, Ted McFeeley has set up a boat sales and service business, and like the Marina across the way, he will cater to the needs of fishermen particularly and boatmen generally.

Still farther up Head Street, towards Esquimalt Road, Hillmar Wingen has established a boat-building and repair business which is complementary to the West Bay Marina, in that he will concentrate on larger vessels.

"As far as boat owners are concerned, the trend is towards the 30-and 35-footers," he believes.

These three operations — and there are others interested in West Bay development — are the pioneers of the boat-building and renting business in the area. They are successors of the late Captain Victor Jacobsen, that romantic figure of another era who lived in the beached river steamer Distributor and had his own schooner in the bay.

Captain Jacobsen didn't go into the boat rental business very seriously, if at all, but he launched dozens of youngsters on their first nautical adventures. He taught more than one little boy the rudiments of boat handling and he was always ready with advice and skilled fingers to help repair a rickety thwart or step a stubby mast.

The old sealing skipper always did maintain that West Bay could be developed as the safest anchorage in the harbor area. The newcomers agree with him. They have visions of a yacht basin with service and repair facilities close at hand, plenty of parking space for fishermen, and a grassy public park along the foreshore.

They have problems, however. First they have got to interest the municipality in a reclamation project. It would be perfectly practical and economical, says Mr. Wingen, to use a dragline for hauling the accumulation of silt out of the bay and help build up the foreshore. While the reclamation was being extended, removal of the harbor mud would deepen the anchorage and preclude a costly dredging program.

The park development would follow in natural sequence, and a public boat launching ramp would be a welcome and inexpensive addition to facilities.

West Bay Marina, however, cannot afford to wait for any such long-range scheme to materialize. They must have a boat channel at once to serve their business. They have started dredging their own channel, along the line of the dolphins which marks the present limits of the log booming area.

Even if the more ambitious harbor deepening plan recommended by Mr. Wingen is away in the future, the dredging will be no waste of time and money. There must be a channel. It could be extended across West Bay to serve the neighboring enterprises. But that's something to be decided by events."

Meanwhile, one of the biggest problems facing the West Bay business people is the encroachment of the log booms. Often, they say, logs completely choke the only channel available to small craft seeking the outer harbor and the fishing areas beyond.

"We don't want to be unrealistic," said Mr. Sandford, "but we think there should be better control of the booming. We don't want to attempt to deny them right of access, but we feel they should show us consideration, too. The mill owners often make the channel in Selkirk Waters impassable (farther up the Inner Harbor between the Johnson Street and the CNR bridge) and the same thing occurs in West Bay."

There's no doubt the people in the boat business have problems. But none of them are insurmountable. Moreover, the individuals in these West Bay enterprises are not of the character to lose heart before obstacles. One way or another they are going to get around them—over or under then!

Reeve Has Hopes

Commander A. C. Wurtele, Esquimalt's ex-naval reeve, is as conscious of the need for the development at West Bay as anyone interested in the commercial enterprises located there. And he's just as enthusiastic.

It is only a matter of time, he intimates, until Esquimalt council will be in a financial position to do something about park development.

"When the West Bay people came to see me, I was struck with their ideas and their ambitions.

"I wish we had a million dollars to go ahead with all the park work we would like to do, and I am very enthusiastic about the West Bay development. But this year we are preoccupied with the improvement of the boat ramps at the foot of Kinver Street, the so-called Lampson Park (which will ultimately be called Fleming Park), the continued landscaping at Saxe Point and the nearly completed Gorge Park.

"But we must do something at West Bay," admitted the . . . We have our eye on it."

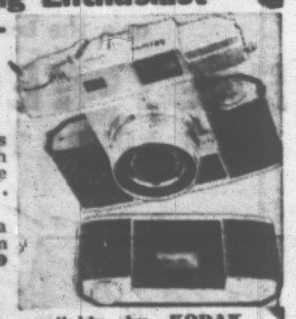

Reeve Wurtele's point is that council should only attempt one big-scale project at a time. And West Bay would be a fairly formidable undertaking. Since, actually, Esquimalt has three park development schemes in hand—albeit they are nearly finished—it is probably too early to expect formulation of any program.

But it will come. Reeve Wurtele's reaction to the suggestion is enthusiastic enough to assure that.

PARKS BOOSTERS

The Council of British Columbia Yacht Clubs would have justified its existence if all it had ever done was bring recommendations to the provincial government for the selection of permanent marine parks.

Since its inception, in 1954, that has been one of its major projects.

As Alan F. Taylor, its president says:

"One of the first objectives was to interest the B.C. government in acquisition of marine parks before all suitable sites had been alienated.

"The present parks program is evidence that this objective has been attained."

Council gave the government assistance in reconnaissance of park sites.

But ever since installation of Robert McDermott, of the West Vancouver Yacht Club, as first president of the Council, this body has followed the same policy; furthering the interests of yachtsmen and collaborating with all agencies, governmental or otherwise, to this end. The Council gains weight by affiliation with the Canadian Yachting Association and by the close liaison it maintains with its Washington state counterpart. It represents no fewer than 13 B.C. boating organizations.

With the federal department of transport, the Council has worked to frame current safety regulations, and it encourages those agencies which seek to promulgate and implement them.

Council committees continue to study and advise on such matters as log booming areas and their encroachment on traffic lanes, radio communications and navigation aids.

All member clubs are represented on the council, of course, and delegates from each region elect officers.

This year's executive is representative. President Alan Taylor and Peter Young, secretary-treasurer, are south Vancouver Island men; H. E. Snider is vice-president for the Island north of Ladysmith and the mainland up to and including Prince Rupert; R. W. Wilson is vice-president representing the Vancouver region, W. H. Bud Day is the Canadian Yachting Association member of the directorate.

YACHTSMEN HELPED BY COAST PATROLS

ONE OF VICTORIA's boat clubs was organized in the Second World War years as a civil defence unit.

It is the Capital City Yacht Club, today planning a major move in its history and construction of a new clubhouse in the western reaches of Tsehum Harbor—which is another, and more correct name, for Shoal Bay, just north of Sidney.

But to go back to the beginning, soon after the federal transport controller enrolled all vessels which could measure up to his specifications for use by civil or military authorities, a group called the Vancouver Island Power Boat Squadrons was organized. It had a three-fold purpose:

1. To give assistance in local or national emergency;

2. To foster interest in safe and efficient handling of small craft; and

3. Promote the interests of all small craft operators.

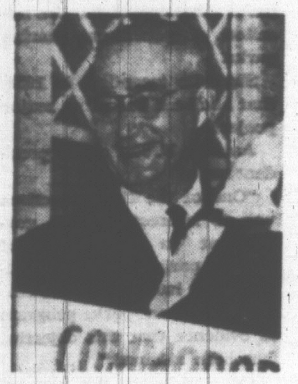

Membership of this group totalled 350 vessels, ranging in size from 25 to 110 feet in length, according to the club history, and scattered about in various centres on Vancouver Island. The organization supplied vessels for various purposes during the wartime patrols for the RCAF's training areas around the Gulf Islands, training exercises with the army's reserve forces, and blackout inspections for the old Air Raid Precautions branch.

When war ended a majority of members voted to perpetuate the association. A clubhouse was built at Canoe Cove, and in 1947 the name of the group was changed to Capital City Yacht Club.

Chatting with W. B. Apgar, currently commodore of the Capital City group, he disclosed that arrangements have been made whereby the club will build a temporary headquarters on the Clark Bros. marina site at Tsehum Bay.

"This will be a temporary clubhouse," he explained. "Later, we will move it and very likely expand it. But ours is not a social club. We don't want a dining room and a cocktail bar. Our members are boatmen. Their great enthusiasm is for cruising. So much so, in fact, that our long-standing competitions in predicted log racing latterly have dwindled in entries to close to vanishing point. However, we hope to revive them.

"You might properly call ours a cruising club. The clubhouse will be for the convenience, for the most part, of visiting yachtsmen.

W. B. APGAR

"But we believe it will be part of one of the loveliest marina developments in this area. When the present phase of Clark Bros. development is completed — their dredging for the first phase is finished—they plan to dredge the western limits of Tsehum Bay, and it is on the shore at this point we will erect our permanent clubhouse. We'll have our own anchorage and dock facilities there. That's the plan."

H. Rowland Halls was the spiritual father of the club. It was he who, in 1942, welded the first group and he was the first commodore. His name is perpetuated in club activities by the Rolly Halls trophy, for which there has been annual competition from 1945 to 1957, and which will be up again for contest in the predicted log race this season.

There are other trophies for club events, including the Hoffar Gulf Trophy, the Dave Angus Outboard Trophy and the Edna Henshall Trophy.

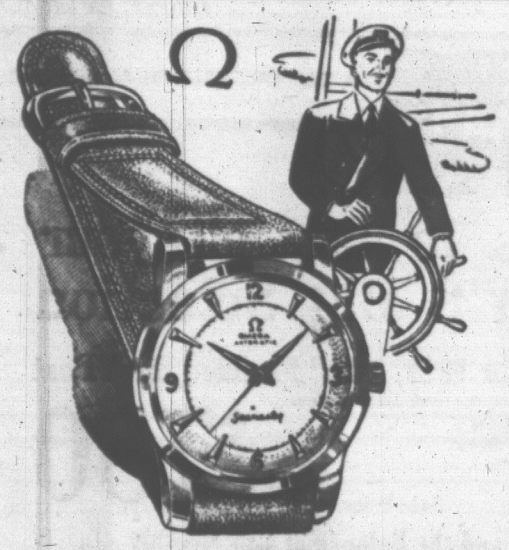

With 150 active members, the Capital City Club has associations as far south as San Diego, and its membership extends to many of the Gulf Islands.

There has always been a close association between it and the Maple Bay Yacht Club, but this season the sail past will be at Genoa Bay's magnificent yacht harbor.

The annual summer cruise will be to Roche Harbor and the big regatta will be at Maple Bay and the ladies' predicted log race to Bedwell Harbor, in all probability.

With Commodore Apgar on the serving executive are Vice-Commodore John C. K. Fielden, Rear-Commodore Leslie Cole, Fleet Capt. Jack Mowbray and Fleet Surgeon W. Douglas Marshall.

Mrs. Phil Salmon, president, Mrs. Douglas Smythe, vice-president, and Mrs. Arnow Pyke, secretary-treasurer, are executive of the women's active auxiliary.

SPEEDSTERS ARE SPECIALISTS

THERE'S A LITTLE GROUP of motorboatmen — they might be called the elite of power craft drivers here — whose sole interest is in speed and the tingling thrill of competition.

These are the 24 members of the Victoria Inboard and Outboard Association.

Don't confuse them with the goons who drive crazy courses through peaceful trolling fleets or who roar along the coast after dark without a thought of other craft clawing out of their way.

Ed Dyer sets up his new boat and motor for regattas soon to come. This is a B Class outboard hydroplane with speed in excess of 60 m.p.h. Ed's a member of Victoria Inboard and Outboard Club.

These are not—repeat not—the chaps who tow water skiers among swimmers off beaches and in lakes and make the holidays hideous with their roaring motors.

Oh, their motors roar, all right. You can hear the scream of those engines, doing 10,000 revs a minute, from here to Elk Lake, pretty nearly. But these racing drivers only appear at organized affairs, where the courses are marked, where there is no danger of collision with the innocent bystander. They are amongst the most wary of boatmen, because they know the danger inherent in high speed — both from collision, swamping or the explosion of an engine.

These are the men who drive the speed circuit. These are the people who drew more than 5,000 to Elk Lake last summer to see a water spectacle of skill and daring.

Incidentally, they'll be putting on another show at Elk Lake this year — on May 17. It's a date to remember.

There will be, maybe, 75, 80 or even more boats entered in the competitions which will be run off during the afternoon, starting at 1.30 p.m. These racing runabout and hydroplane drivers come not only from the Victoria club, but from all over the Island and from many mainland points. There will be representatives from Campbell River, Port Alberni, Nanaimo and Cowichan; from Vancouver, Seattle, Kelowna, Harrison Lake and Lethbridge, Alta. Maybe others.

Charlie Mullins, veteran in the boat business and one of the keenest of the speedboat companions, is also the commodore of the Victoria Inboard and Outboard Association. He doesn't want too many entries.

"About 75 would be perfect," he says.

The association pays a substantial part of the expenses of competitors, for one thing. There used to be two shows a year, but now funds don't run to the figure necessary to support them. One is all the pocketbook can stand.

This sport attracts thousands of spectators. But most are "free loaders." For instance, last May when more than 5,000 saw the Elk Lake competition, the loud-speakers told the crowd a collection would be taken up. There was an immediate scattering away from the collectors. The sum total of the take was something less than $40.

THE ASSOCIATION, among other things, puts up at least 27 trophies for competition this year. It gets sponsorship from the Greater Victoria Celebrations fund, but nothing like enough to meet expenses.

"We are grateful for the help we get but it just isn't enough," said Charlie Mullins. "The members have to dig up the rest."

Charlie Mullins' business goes by the name of Surfacing Products and Marine Supplies, Ltd. It is rather misleading. Actually, the marine supply part of it is clear enough; but the "surfacing products" is a hangover from another business Mr. Mullins purchased, and because of the difficulties in changing the name of a limited company, he's stuck with it. His sales room displays a number of attractive "convertibles," as the trade knows the outboard-powered, streamlined fiberglas models of today, with a shaped dodger or windshield and half-cabin well forward and a roomy cockpit aft; and he is particularly proud of his line of cabin cruisers in the $6,000 class.

But if you find your way into the workshops at the rear of his Yates Street plant, you will probably find a hydroplane. These craft range from models classified for juniors to the 100-mile-an-hour plus speedsters which will lead the field at Elk Lake in May and barnstorm around the Pacific Northwest and the Prairies, from regatta to regatta, during the summer.

MOTORBOAT RACING started a long time ago in Victoria. One of the first records is of a May regatta in 1911. But there was no organized competition beyond such annual events until 1928. That was the day of the Victoria Hydroplane Club. There were Kermit Cameron, Dick Wilson with his Miss DeSoto, Ralph Bagley driving It, John Wenger, Jack Smith, who also drove racing cars, and Norman Findler. For the most part they raced at Langford.

Then in 1935 the enthusiasts got themselves a charter and changed the name of the club to Vancouver Island Outboard Association, anticipating the expansion of the sport.

They were right on that score.

Kermit Cameron was still with the group, and there were new names which were to become more prominent: Thomas Baldwin, Louis Schmel, Sam Newell, Wilf Hughes and William Grice.

In 1949 the club changed its name again, this time to the title it wears at present. Kermit Cameron was still going strong. But now he acts as mechanic and coach to his son, Dave, who has been racing Class B hydroplanes for some time now and making a name for himself, like his dad did.

Charlie Mullins has some very capable members with him on the association executive. Fred Graham and Keith Smith are vice-commodores, Bob Bullivant and Ed Dyer are, respectively, treasurer and secretary.

ROYAL VICTORIA YACHT CLUB

FROM ALMOST its very earliest days Victoria has been a sailor's city.

Royal Navy men, on outpost duty here, used to entertain the colonists and themselves with boat races, under sail and oars, and there are records as far back as 1859 of contests between oarsmen of military and civilian status.

It's only natural that enthusiasts should have turned to the sea for sport and relaxation. For not only was sailing a functional necessity in the colony's economy, but the surrounding waters were ideal for pleasure cruising.

In 1892 G. A. Kirk, a former Royal Navy officer, and J. C. Elliott promoted the Victoria Yacht Club. Charter members were E. G. Prior, who even then was prominent in commerce and was to become a tycoon, J. E. Fox, J. H. Seeley, A. Mulcahey, W. B. Charles and H. C. Lowen.

To many thousands and several generations of yachtsmen, the Cadboro Bay berths, the stretch of rippling water and the far shore — barren of homes when the club was built — are familiar sights. The charming informality of the club itself and its air of hospitality has won it many friends beyond its membership.

But Capt. J. G. Cox, Lloyd's agent in Victoria, and Tom Harmon and their friends were sailing back in '72.

Kirk, the first commodore in 1892, built the first clubhouse. He financed the whole job. There he flew the red, white and blue burgee of the new club, and was amongst the robust sportsmen who roared their choruses around the piano in the smoking room.

Writing in the British Columbia Magazine in 1911, Alfred Hustwick recalls those early days of hard racing and harder celebration after the day's sport was over. He recalls, too, that the first clubhouse was built on pontoons and was four times sunk, once when it was rammed by a steamer at its moorings in James Bay. On each of these four occasions the piano went down with the ship, as it were; but club members declared it suffered little, and if anything had a more dulcet resonance.

The old two-storey clubhouse nevertheless remained in the Wharf Street location from '92 to 1907 when the area became too valuable to commerce to be retained by yachtsmen. So they moved to the waterfront property of B. B. Temple, Erie Street, and then to new premises on Kingston, in 1908.

But the harbor was still too crowded for a yacht basin. Members looked about for a new site, investigated Esquimalt, looked longingly at Cadboro Bay.

In 1911, through the efforts of Granville Cuppage and Capt. Clive Phillips Wooley, the president of the Navy League of Canada and a devoted exponent of a perment Canadian navy, the club, properly incorporated in 1895, received the "Royal" prefix from the Admiralty. There was an immediate revival of interest and membership swelled rapidly.

It was undoubtedly the crowded anchorage conditions which so reduced the membership in the 1906-07 period. But Commodore J. S. Gibb, William Piggott and the indefatigible G. V. Cuppage kept the club alive, and at the annual meeting of 1908 Mr. Piggott, treasurer, was able to report a surplus of $148.

Premier (later Sir Richard) McBride gave his patronage to the club and that year saw the first races for powerboats in the August regatta.

It was significant. Half the club members owned powered craft. And, in that regatta, the "canvas" sailors stood about and watched the chugging motorboats in crestfallen silence, for they were becalmed and couldn't race at all.

At the end of the year membership was 127.

Interest in yachting was stimulated in 1909 by election of Commodore J. S. Gibb as president of the Northwest International Yacht Racing Association and the selection of Victoria as host port for the international regatta in 1910.

Membership jumped to 184.

The Pacific International Power Boat Association was formed in 1910. The Northwest International Yacht Racing Association had been formed in 1893, including clubs from Victoria, Nanaimo, Seattle, Tacoma, Fairhaven, Port Townsend and Bellingham. Vancouver didn't get into the association until 1903.

So successful was the 1910 regatta, so warm was the hospitality of the host Victoria club, that the international body decided to hold the regattas of 1911 and 12 at Victoria.

It became increasingly important to find new club quarters and a safe, wide anchorage. When the "royal" prefix was awarded in 1911, Commodore John Musgrave led a determined drive for a property at Cadboro Bay.

In 1913 the Royal Victoria Yacht Club was established there.

After 21 years in Victoria harbor, the club had grown to the point where it became essential to expand. Yet, in 1939, for one reason or another, membership had grown only to 214 — only a handful more members than were active in 1912.

The war years did not dim the enthusiasm of members, but their strength was reduced, for yachtsmen were required for the Royal Canadian Navy. Nevertheless, the club went about training its younger members, assisted for a time by the navy, and in 1942 celebrated its 50th anniversary proudly. Dozens of its former members were in uniform with the fighting fleet.

The original Northwest International Yacht Racing Association became the Pacific International Yachting Association in 1910, and all member clubs have paid tribute over the years to the Victoria membership for their vitality and support.

It was largely because of the success of early Victoria regattas that the international association had its being. And it was formed at the suggestion of the American clubs who had so frequently visited and competed in Victoria waters.

Out of those early meetings one of the greatest yachting competition in the world evolved — the arduous and often dangerous Swiftsure, from Victoria to the lightship off Cape Flattery and back. It's a far cry from the old-time sailing races from the Victoria harbor mouth to Albert Head, down to Trial Island, and home!

Build Your Own Boat? Why Not, Says David Angus

OUTLAY OF $500, YOU'RE AT SEA

Pretty nearly everybody nowadays appreciates the rapid trend to boating recreation: whether it be fishing, water skiing, just plain cruising, or a combination of all three. It's Vancouver Island's biggest outdoor sport. And it's generally a family affair.

But when David H. W. Angus went into the business of boat and outboard engine sales and service in 1947 this trend was not so apparent. This young man—he was 36 at the time—had vision and sound business sense.

That's why, from a modest two-man operation on Wharf Street in 1947, he has expanded into a fine, modern building on Douglas Street, which he owns, with a showroom crowded with pleasure and utility craft to make a sportsman's heart beat faster. That's why he is able to admit, a little reluctantly, that he grosses in excess of $250,000 a year in sales and service—and that the business is still growing.

Mr. Angus recognized the potential in the outboard motor a good many years ago, even before he started flying as a commercial airline pilot in 1940. He recognized, too, that in Victoria and the surrounding areas, was a population which would inevitably turn to the sea or the dozens of forest-framed lakes of the Island for recreation.

He could not be called a pioneer, exactly. There were others who saw the possibilities and who have benefited by this foresight. But his story of success runs so closely parallel to the expansion of water sports that it is notable.

Mr. Angus sells boats. But he is not one to discourage the home-builder, the do-it-yourself craftsman, who produces a plywood craft in his basement. For one thing, Mr. Angus hopes to sell him an outboard engine, new or second-hand, and the hardware and other requirements for happy and safe boating. For another, he is so genuinely enthusiastic about the whole idea of waterborne adventuring that he'd encourage any hopeful builder—whether there's business in the offing or not.

This dealer has made a study of trends and he maintains that today the family man looks most favorably on the idea of a boat and trailer. There's still a big outboard cruiser following. But the mobility of the trailer and the light construction of new boats makes this form of transport more and more appealing.

What's the cost of boating? It all depends on what you want, of course. But suppose you plan to build a plywood boat at home. Your materials for a 14-16 footer should be no less than $120, no more than $180, providing you have the necessary tools.

Let's assume you have, and that you aren't counting the hours you put on the work in terms of dollars, for otherwise your cost is going to be disproportionate. So, after a winter of work, your hull is finished.

Perhaps you want to put a fibreglass finish on the bottom. That will cost about $50 more.

Now you can shop around for an engine. If you plan to water ski your family, you'll need a 35-horsepower motor. You can get a used outboard for as little as $250; a new one for as much as $800. But a new 18-horsepower for cruising and fishing is about $475, proportionately less if second-hand.

For your controls, steering, deck hardware, running lights and life-saving equipment plan to spend another $100 to $120.

There you are, ready for sea in all respects, for about $500. Mind you, if you hang around boat showrooms, the chances are you'll never build in your basement. These new fibreglass hulls are bits of poetry. You can get a fine 14-foot utility hull for around $500, and you can get a streamlined runabout 16-footer for a bit more. If you have the means, you can put one of those sweet-lined, sea-going beauties into the water, engine, trailer and all, for about $2,500.

DAVID ANGUS

Trailers come in all sizes and prices. The 400-pound capacity carrier is priced about $150. The 1,200-pound trailer is $300. These are round figures. Different makers charge different prices. But this is a guide.

People will argue the relative merits of the fiberglass and wooden hull. This writer has had some experience with the latter. They can be a chore. There are certain advantages about a fiberglass hull which are worth mentioning, at least. For one thing, maintenance costs are so diminished as to be negligible. They retain their finish. They don't leak. They don't require painting. And the worms don't get in. What more do you want?

New Race of Seamen . . . New Island Breed

MARINE PARKS BECKON

VANCOUVER ISLANDERS are becoming a race of sailors. A thriving industry of boatbuilders, boat services, boat rentals and ship chandlers is expanding as a natural consequence.

The mechanic who can take down a marine engine and put it together again so it will run has assumed the dignified mantle of the old-time sailmaker.

There are 60,000 boat owners in British Columbia, 17,000 of them on Vancouver Island. Assuming an average of four to a family or sea-going group, these figures would presume 240,000 persons with access to boats in B.C., and 68,000 on the Island. Not all of these boatmen are actually salt-water people, of course. Some of them possibly never have had barnacle trouble with their hulls because they are strictly fresh-water sailors. But they are sailors. They are part of this immense fraternity which takes its sport on the water.

Officials of the provincial government say that in the Gulf of Georgia probably 40,000 Canadian boats are operating during the summer. These range from outboard cruisers to inboard-engined powerboats and yachts, but do not include anything with a motor capacity of less than 10 horsepower.

In addition to this very considerable pleasure fleet is the steadily mounting volume of small craft from the United States. Through Vancouver Island's ports of entry collectors of customs can show the dimensions of this traffic. For instance, through Victoria more than 400 vessels entered these waters; through Sidney over 2,000, and through Nanaimo nearly 450 during 1958.

The B.C. government saw the trend to the sea and lakes a couple of years ago. It was advised by its experts in the parks branch of the policies in effect in neighbouring Washington State, and as a result the provincial government has embarked upon a program of marine park building.

LAST YEAR the first of these marine parks was completed for this area at Sidney Spit. Its success was instantaneous. All summer long, and late into the fall, the place was crowded with pleasure craft. In fact, it is in year-round use.

This year work will proceed on parks at Montague Harbor, on the southeast coast of Galiano Island, on Trent Island, near Chemainus, and at Plumper's Cove on Keats Island, near Gibsons, on the lower mainland, and probably Portland Island, just south of Salt Spring, the little gem between Swanson and Satellite channels which the government recently presented to Princess Margaret. Work on a marine park will be undertaken with the authority of the princess.

There is a possibility, if funds allow, that another marine park may be developed this season on D'Arcy Island, off Cordova Bay, just south of James Island. It's the site of an old leper colony, but a most picturesque spot.

All the park sites, in fact, have been selected for their beauty as well as their accessibility by sea.

These marine parks, of course, must not be confused with the many provincial playgrounds such as those at Englishman's River, Ivy Green Park near Ladysmith, Goldstream, Campbell River and elsewhere. There is an abundance of these restful scenic spots all over the Island and the mainland, equipped for campers or picnickers.

Sometimes, as in the case of Ivy Green Park, there are cooking arrangements and hygienic amenities.

As a matter of fact, Sidney Spit Marine Park is looked upon by officials interested as stopping places to make pleasure-boating the number one outdoors recreation for Islanders and their neighbors—and keep it there.

This warm-tinted summer scene is familiar to the many hundreds of yachtsmen, in power and sail, who visit Sidney Spit each season.

AT THE MARINE park a ramp is not a necessity, but mooring buoys are anchored conveniently. They take the place of the conventional park's parking area. Wherever possible fresh water is provided. Eventually it will be available at all marine parks, but at the moment is lacking at Sidney Spit. The government may put down a deep well there. There will be camp grounds, picnic tables, safe an experimental model. But the department has sufficient firsthand knowledge now to go ahead with its plans for the Gulf Islands and to extend its survey farther afield.

As pleasure craft hulls and motors are improved — they already are high in seaworthiness and economy—adventurous Americans are going to tend more and more to long-range voyaging.

By that same token, so are Canadians. The marine parks will provide this pleasure-seeking armada with safe havens. And B.C. will need many of them.

Minister of Recreation and Conservation E. C. Westwood told the legislature during the last session that one household in every five on Vancouver Island possessed a pleasure boat. And the total is steadily and rapidly increasing.
